PREFACE.

EXTRADITION is either international or interstate. The law of international extradition is based upon treaties entered into by sovereign states, and in the absence of such treaties there can be no extradition from the jurisdiction of one sovereignty to another. Consequently, all offenses not enumerated in the various treaties are, by implication, excluded from the operation of the treaties, and one of the contracting nations cannot demand from another, as a matter of right, the surrender of a person charged with an offense not specified in the treaty between the two nations. Surrender, however, for an offense not enumerated may be made as an act of comity between the nations.

The basis of interstate extradition is found in the United States Constitution, article four, section two. Congress, in making effective this provision, has passed laws regulating the same—United States Revised Statutes 1901, sections 5278 to 5280 inclusive. This statute applies to the territories except the District of Columbia, for which a special act has been passed by Congress—Revised Statutes of the United States relating to the District of Columbia, sections 930 and 931. The various states have also passed laws regulating the extradition of fugitives from justice, to and from other states, which are effective in so far as they are not inconsistent with the Constitution and laws of the United States.

This volume is a compilation of all the treaties between the United States and foreign nations on the subject of international extradition, the Acts of Congress, and statutes of the various states regulating the subject of interstate extradition, and is intended as an aid to those who, by virtue of their official position or otherwise, are concerned in the extradition of fugitives from justice.

This compilation of the extradition laws and mailing list was suggested by the needs of the author's own office, and is submitted to sheriffs, police officers, and those interested in the apprehension of fugitives from justice, with the hope that the same will be of assistance to them in the performance of the duties imposed upon them by their various offices. The grounds for divorce and residence required in the various states have been included for the reason that this information is often desired, and in some places hard to obtain.

Ill. Hist. Surv. 31 Dec. '49. Dales Bookazine.

In getting requisition papers honored it is of the utmost importance that the officer should have a copy of the laws of the state from which the fugitive is to be extradited. It is safe to say that in all states a copy of the indictment, duly certified by the proper authority, is sufficient evidence of the crime to warrant a surrender of the prisoner to the demanding officer. An affidavit of the complaining witness will not accomplish the desired results unless further evidence of the crime is submitted in additional affidavits. Where a warrant is sworn out before a magistrate, and the same is to be used as evidence of the crime, a certificate of magistracy is always necessary.

The author of this work has not attempted to write a text-book on the subject of extradition. He believes that the treaties and laws of the various states furnish a sufficient guide for all officers in an intelligent and efficient performance of their duties in this important branch of their public service.

UNITED STATES.

5270. Whenever there is a treaty or convention for extradition between the Government of the United States and any foreign government, any justice of the Supreme Court, circuit judge, district judge, commissioner, authorized so to do by any of the courts of the United States, or judge of a court of record of general jurisdiction of any state, may, upon complaint made under oath, charging any person found within the limits of any state, district or territory, with having committed within the jurisdiction of any such foreign government any of the crimes provided for by such treaty or convention, issue his warrant for the apprehension of the person so charged, that he may be brought before such justice, judge or commissioner, to the end that the evidence of criminality may be heard and considered. If, on such hearing, he deems the evidence sufficient to sustain the charge under the provisions of the proper treaty or convention, he shall certify the same, together with a copy of all the testimony taken before him, to the Secretary of State, that a warrant may issue upon the requisition of the proper authorities of such foreign government, for the surrender of such person, according to the stipulations of the treaty or convention; and he shall issue his warrant for the commitment of the person so charged to the proper jail, there to remain until such surrender shall be made: Provided, That whenever any foreign country or territory, or any part thereof, is occupied by or under the control of the United States, any person who shall violate, or who has violated, the criminal laws in force therein, by the commission of any of the following offenses, namely:—Murder and assault with intent to commit murder; counterfeiting or altering money, or uttering or bringing into circulation counterfeit or altered money; counterfeiting certificates or coupons of public indebtedness, bank notes or other instruments of public credit, and the utterance or circulation of the same; forgery or altering, and uttering what is forged or altered; embezzlement or criminal malversation of the public funds, committed by public officers, employees or depositaries, larceny or embezzlement of an amount not less than one hundred dollars in value; robbery; burglary, defined to be the breaking and entering by night-time into the house of another person with intent to commit a felony therein; and the act of breaking and entering the house or building of another, whether in the day or night time, with the intent to commit a felony therein; the act of entering, or of breaking and entering the offices of the Government and public authorities, or the offices of banks, banking houses, savings banks, trust companies, insurance or other companies, with the intent to commit a felony therein; perjury or the subornation of perjury; rape; arson; piracy by the law of nations; murder, assault with intent to kill, and manslaughter, committed on the high seas, on board a ship owned by or in control of citizens or residents of such foreign country or territory and not under the flag of the United States, or of some other government; malicious destruction of or attempt to destroy railways, trams, vessels, bridges, dwellings, public edifices, or other buildings, when the act endangers human life, and who shall depart or flee, or who has departed or fled from justice therein to the United States, any territory thereof, or to the District of Columbia, shall, when found therein, be liable to arrest and detention by the authorities of the United States, and on the written request or requisition of the military governor or other chief executive officer in control of such foreign country or territory shall be returned and surrendered, as hereinafter provided, to such authorities for trial under the laws in force in the place where such offense was committed. All the provisions of sections fifty-two hundred and seventy to fifty-two hundred and seventy-seven of this title, so far as applicable, shall govern proceedings authorized by this proviso: Provided, further, That such proceedings shall be had before a judge of the courts of the United States only, who shall hold such person on evidence establishing probable cause that he is guilty of the offense charged: And provided, further, That no return or surrender shall be made of any person charged with the commission of any offense of a political nature. If so held, such person shall be returned and surrendered to the authorities in control of such foreign country or territory on the order of the Secretary of State of the United States, and such authorities shall secure to such person a fair and impartial trial. [Act June 6, 1900, Ch. 793, 31 Stat., 656.]

5271. In every case of complaint, and of a hearing upon the return of the warrant of arrest, copies of the depositions upon which an original warrant in any foreign country may have been granted, certified under the hand of the person issuing such warrant, and attested upon the oath of the party producing them to be true copies of the original depositions, may be received in evidence of the criminality of the person so apprehended, if they are authenticated in such manner as would entitle them to be received for similar purposes by the tribunals of the foreign country from which the accused party escaped. The certificate of the principal diplomatic or consular officer of the United States resident in such foreign country shall be proof that any paper or other document so offered is authenticated in the manner required by this section.

ACT OF 1882.

(1) All hearings in cases of extradition under treaty stipulation or convention shall be held on land, publicly, and in a room or office easily accessible to the public.

(2) The following shall be the fees paid to commissioners in cases of extradition under treaty stipulation or convention between the Government of the United States and any foreign government, and no other fees or compensation shall be allowed to or received by them:—

For administering an oath, ten cents.

For taking an acknowledgment, twenty-five cents.

For taking and certifying depositions to file, twenty cents for each folio.

For each copy of the same furnished to a party on request, ten cents for each folio.

For issuing any warrant or writ, and for any other service, the same compensation as is allowed clerks for like services.

For issuing any warrant under the tenth article of the treaty of August ninth, eighteen hundred and forty-two, between the United States and the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, against any person charged with any crime or offense as set forth in said article, two dollars.

For issuing any warrant under the provision of the convention for the surrender of criminals between the United States and the King of the French, concluded at Washington, November ninth, eighteen hundred and forty-three, two dollars.

For hearing and deciding upon the case of any person charged with any crime or offense, and arrested under the provisions of any treaty or convention, five dollars a day for the time necessarily employed.

(3) On the hearing of any case under a claim of extradition by any foreign government, upon affidavit being filed by the person charged setting forth that there are witnesses whose evidence is material to his defense, that he cannot safely go to trial without them, what he expects to prove by each of them, and that he is not possessed of sufficient means, and is actually unable to pay the fees of such witnesses, the judge or commissioner before whom such claim for extradition is heard may order that such witnesses be subpœnaed; and in such cases the costs incurred by the process, and the fees of witnesses, shall be paid in the same manner that similar fees are paid in the case of witnesses subpœnæd in behalf of the United States.

(4) All witness fees and costs of every nature in cases of extradition, including the fees of the commissioner, shall be certified by the judge or commissioner before whom the hearing shall take place to the Secretary of State of the United States, who is hereby authorized to allow the payment thereof out of the appropriation to defray the expenses of the judiciary; and the Secretary of State shall cause the amount of said fees and costs so allowed to be reimbursed to the Government of the United States by the foreign government by whom the proceedings for extradition may have been instituted.

(5) In all cases where any depositions, warrants, or other papers, or copies thereof, shall be offered in evidence upon the hearing of any extradition case under title sixty-six of the Revised Statutes of the United States, such depositions, warrants and other papers, or the copies thereof, shall be received and admitted as evidence on such hearing for all the purposes of such hearing, if they shall be properly and legally authenticated so as to entitle them to be received for similar purposes by the tribunals of the foreign country from which the accused party shall have escaped, and the certificate of the principal diplomatic or consular officer of the United States resident in such foreign country shall be proof that any deposition, warrant, or other paper, or copies thereof, so offered, are authenticated in the manner required by this act.

5272. It shall be lawful for the Secretary of State, under his hand and seal of office, to order the person so committed to be delivered to such person as shall be authorized, in the name and on behalf of such foreign government, to be tried for the crime of which such person shall be so accused, and such person shall be delivered up accordingly, and it shall be lawful for the person so authorized to hold such person in custody, and to take him to the territory of such foreign government, pursuant to such treaty. If the person so accused shall escape out of any custody to which he shall be committed, or to which he shall be delivered, it shall be lawful to retake such person in the same manner as any person accused of any crime against the laws in force in that part of the United States to which he shall so escape, may be retaken on an escape.

5273. Whenever any person who is committed under this title or any treaty to remain until delivered up in pursuance of a requisition, is not so delivered up and conveyed out of the United States within two calendar months after such commitment, over and above the time actually required to convey the prisoner from the jail to which he was committed, by the readiest way, out of the United States, it shall be lawful for any judge of the United States or of any state, upon application made to him by or on behalf of the person so committed, and upon proof made to him that reasonable notice of the intention to make such application has been given to the Secretary of State, to order the person so committed to be discharged out of custody, unless sufficient cause is shown to such judge why such discharge ought not to be ordered.

5274. The provisions of this title relating to the surrender of persons who have committed crimes in foreign countries shall continue in force during the existence of any treaty of extradition with any foreign government, and no longer.

5275. Whenever any person is delivered by any foreign government to an agent of the United States, for the purpose of being brought within the United States and tried for any crime of which he is duly accused, the President shall have power to take all necessary measures for the transportation and safe keeping of such accused person, and for his security against lawless violence, until the final conclusion of his trial for the crimes or offenses specified in the warrant of extradition, and until his final discharge from custody or imprisonment for or on account of such crimes or offenses, and for a reasonable time thereafter, and may employ such portion of the land or naval forces of the United States, or of the militia thereof, as may be necessary for the safe keeping and protection of the accused.

5276. Any person duly appointed as agent to receive, in behalf of the United States, the delivery by a foreign government of any person accused of crime committed within the jurisdiction of the United States, and to convey him to the place of his trial, shall have all the powers of a marshal of the United States, in the several districts through which it may be necessary for him to pass with such prisoner, so far as such power is requisite for the prisoner's safe keeping.

5277. Every person who knowingly and willfully obstructs, resists or opposes such agent in the execution of his duties, or who rescues or attempts to rescue such prisoner, whether in the custody of the agent or of any officer or person to whom his custody has lawfully been committed, shall be punishable by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, and by imprisonment for not more than one year.

5279. Any agent so appointed who receives the fugitive into his custody shall be empowered to transport him to the state or territory from which he has fled. And every person who, by force, sets at liberty or rescues the fugitive from such agent while so transporting him, shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars or imprisoned not more than one year.

5280. On application of a consul or vice-consul of any foreign government having a treaty with the United States stipulating for the restoration of seamen deserting, made in writing, stating that the person therein named has deserted from a vessel of any such government while in any port of the United States, and on proof by the exhibition of the register of the vessel, ship's roll, or other official document, that the person named belonged, at the time of desertion, to the crew of such vessel, it shall be the duty of any court, judge, commissioner of any circuit court, justice, or other magistrate, having competent power, to issue warrants to cause such person to be arrested for examination. If, on examination, the facts stated are found to be true, the person arrested, not being a citizen of the United States, shall be delivered up to the consul or vice-consul, to be sent back to the dominions of any such government, or, on the request and at the expense of the consul or vice-consul, shall be detained until the consul or vice-consul finds an opportunity to send him back to the dominions of any such government. No person so arrested shall be detained more than two months after his arrest, but at the end of that time shall be set at liberty, and shall not be again molested for the same cause. If any such deserter shall be found to have committed any crime or offense, his surrender may be delayed until the tribunal before which the case shall be depending, or may be cognizable, shall have pronounced its sentence, and such sentence shall have been carried into effect.

ALABAMA.

(Criminal Code 1897, in force January 1, 1904.)

4777. Whenever a felony has been committed and the perpetrator thereof is unknown, or when, being known, he absconds before being arrested, or escapes from custody, either before or after conviction, the governor is authorized, in his discretion, to offer by proclamation a reward, not exceeding four hundred dollars, for the apprehension or re-arrest of such person, within five years from the date of such proclamation and to draw his warrant on the state treasurer for the amount of such reward, when necessary to be paid.

4778. Any person charged in any state or territory of the United States with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in this state must, on the demand of the executive authority of the state or territory from which he fled, be delivered up by the governor of this state to be removed to the state or territory having jurisdiction of such crime.

4779. A warrant for the apprehension of such person may be issued by any magistrate who is authorized to issue a warrant of arrest.

4781. If, from the examination, it appears that the person charged has committed the crime alleged, the magistrate must, by warrant reciting the accusation, commit him to jail for a time specified in the warrant, which the magistrate deems reasonable, to enable the arrest of the fugitive to be made, under the warrant of the executive of this state on the requisition of the executive authority of the state or territory in which he committed the offense, unless he give bail as provided in the next session, or until he is legally discharged.

4782. The magistrate must, unless the offense with which the fugitive is charged is shown to be an offense punished capitally by the laws of the state in which it was committed, admit the person arrested to bail, by bond or undertaking with sufficient sureties, and in such sum as he deems proper, for his appearance before him, at a time specified in such bond or undertaking, and for his surrender, to be arrested upon the warrant of the governor of this state.

4783. If such person is not arrested on the warrant of the governor before the expiration of the time specified in the warrant, bond, or undertaking, he must be discharged from custody on bail.

4784. No jailer is bound to receive any person committed under a warrant issued under the provisions of this chapter, until his jail fees for the time specified in such warrant are paid in advance.

4785. If the fugitive is discharged on bail, and fails to appear or surrender himself according to his bond or undertaking, the magistrate must indorse thereon "forfeited," sign his name thereto, and return it to the clerk of the circuit court by the first day of the next term; and a conditional judgment must be rendered thereon and proceedings had, as in case of bonds or undertakings forfeited in that court, the indorsement of the magistrate being presumptive evidence of the forfeiture.

4787. If a criminal prosecution has been instituted against such person under the laws of this state, the governor may or not, at his discretion, surrender such person on the demand of the executive of another state, before he has been tried and punished, if convicted or discharged.

4788. A warrant from the executive may be directed to the sheriff, coroner, or any other person whom he may think fit to intrust with the execution of the same.

4789. Such warrant authorizes the officer or person to whom it is directed to arrest the fugitive at any place within the state, and to require the aid of all sheriffs and constables, to whom the same is shown, in its execution.

ALASKA.

(Carter's Annotated Alaska Codes 1900.)

Same as sections 1718-1732 of Oregon Code.

ARIZONA.

(Title 25, Revised Statutes 1901.)

1290. The governor of this territory may, in cases authorized by the constitution and laws of the United States, appoint agents to demand of the executive authority of any other state or territory or from the executive authority of any foreign government any fugitive from justice, or person charged with treason; and the accounts of the agents appointed for that purpose shall, unless otherwise directed by the governor, be audited by the territorial auditor, and paid out of the territorial treasury.

1291. In cases provided for by the second article of the treaty between the United States and the Republic of Mexico for the extradition of criminals (concluded at Mexico on the eleventh day of December, 1861, and proclaimed by the President of the United States on the 20th day of June, 1862,) in addition to the power of the governor for that purpose, any justice of the Supreme Court of this territory may make such requisition upon the executive or other principal authority of any state or province of the Mexican Republic adjoining the boundaries of this territory, agreeably to the stipulations of said article: Provided, That if such requisition be made by any such justice of the Supreme Court, the same may be under the seal of the district court which by law, he is assigned to hold.

1292. A person charged in any state or territory of the United States with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in this territory, must on demand of the executive authority of the state or territory from which he fled, be delivered up by the governor of this territory to be removed to the state or territory having jurisdiction of the crime.

1293. A magistrate may issue a warrant for the apprehension of a person so charged who shall flee from justice and be found in this territory.

1294. The proceedings for arrest and commitment of the person charged shall be in all respects similar to those provided in this code for the arrest and commitment of a person charged with a public offense committed within this territory, except that an exemplified copy of an indictment found, or other judicial proceeding had against him in the state or territory in which he is charged to have committed the offense, may be received as evidence before the magistrate.

1295. If, from the examination it appears that the accused has committed the crime alleged, the magistrate, by warrant reciting the accusation, must commit him to the proper custody in his county, for such time, to be specified in the warrant, as the magistrate may deem reasonable to enable the arrest of the fugitive under the warrant of the executive of this territory, on the requisition of the executive authority of the state or territory in which he committed the offense, unless he gives bail as provided in the next section or until he is legally discharged.

1296. The magistrate may admit the person arrested to bail by recognizance with sufficient securities, and in such sum as he may deem proper, for his appearance before him at a time specified in the recognizance and for his surrender, to be arrested upon the warrant of the governor of this territory.

1297. Immediately upon the arrest of the person charged the magistrate shall give notice to the district attorney.

1299. The person arrested shall be discharged from custody or bail, unless, before the expiration of the time designated in the warrant or recognizance, he be arrested under the warrant of the governor of this territory.

1300. The magistrate shall make return of his proceedings to the next district court of the county, which shall thereupon inquire into the cause of the arrest and detention of the person charged, and if he be in custody, or the time for his arrest has not elapsed the court may discharge him from detention, or may order his recognizance or bail to be cancelled, or may continue his detention for a longer time, or may re-admit him to bail, to appear and surrender himself within a time to be specified in the recognizance.

1301. When the governor of this territory, in the exercise of the authority conferred by section two, article four, of the constitution of the United States, or by the laws of this territory, shall demand from the executive authority of any state or territory of the United States or of any foreign government, the surrender to the authorities of this territory of a fugitive from justice, the accounts of the persons employed by him for that purpose shall be audited by the board of territorial auditors, and paid out of the territorial treasury.

1302. No compensation, fee, or reward of any kind can be paid to, or received by a public officer of this territory, or other person for a service rendered in procuring from the governor the demand mentioned in the last section, or the surrender of the fugitive or for conveying him to this territory or detaining him therein, except as provided for in the preceding section.

ARKANSAS.

(Sandel & Hill's Digest 1894, in force January 1, 1904.)

3483. Whenever the executive of any other state or any territory of the United States shall demand of the executive of this state any person as a fugitive from justice, having complied with the requisitions of the Act of Congress in that case made and provided, it shall be the duty of the executive of this state to issue his warrant, under the seal of the state directed to any sheriff, coroner or other person whom he may think fit to intrust with the execution of such warrant.

3484. Such warrant shall authorize the person to whom it may be directed to arrest the fugitive anywhere within the limits of this state and to convey him to any place within the state which the executive may in his warrant direct; and commanding all sheriffs, constables, coroners and other officers, to whom the same may be shown to aid and assist in the execution thereof.

3487. The expenses which may accrue under the foregoing provisions of this chapter, being first ascertained by the executive shall on his certificate be allowed and paid out of the state treasury.

3489. If, on examination, it shall appear to the judge or justice that the person charged is guilty of the crime as alleged, he shall commit him to the jail of the county, or if the offense is bailable, take bail for his appearance at the next term of the circuit court in the county.

3490. The judge or justice shall proceed in the examination of such person in the same manner as is required when a person is brought before such officer charged with an offense against the laws of this state, and shall reduce the examination to writing, and make return thereof, as in other cases; and shall also send a copy of the examination and proceedings to the executive of this state without delay.

3491. If, in the opinion of the executive, the examination contains sufficient evidence to warrant the finding of an indictment he shall forthwith notify the executive of the state or territory in which such crime is alleged to have been committed, of the proceedings against the person arrested, and that he will be delivered on demand, without requiring a copy of the indictment to accompany the demand.

3492. When a demand shall be made for the offender, the executive shall forthwith issue his warrant, under the seal of the state to the sheriff of the county wherein the party charged is committed or bailed, commanding him to surrender the accused to such messenger as shall be therein named, to be conveyed out of the state.

3493. If the accused shall be at large, on bail or otherwise, the sheriff shall forthwith arrest him, anywhere within the state, and surrender him agreeably to the command of the warrant.

3495. In no case shall the accused be kept in prison, or held to bail, beyond the end of the second term of the circuit court after the arrest, if no demand shall be made for him within that time, but he shall be discharged.

3496. If any recognizance entered into under the provisions of this chapter shall be forfeited it shall enure to the benefit of the county.

3497. Whenever the governor of this state shall demand any fugitive from justice from the executive of another state or territory, and shall have received notice that such fugitive will be surrendered, he shall issue his warrant, under the seal of the state, to some messenger, commanding him to receive and convey such fugitive to the sheriff of the county in which the offense was committed, or is by law cognizable.

3499 and 3500 provide for rewards, not to exceed one thousand dollars, to be offered by the governor for apprehension of fugitives from justice.

CALIFORNIA.

(Penal Code 1903.)

1547. Provides for rewards to be offered by governor in certain cases not to exceed one thousand dollars.

1548. A person charged in any state of the United States with treason, felony or other crime, who flees from justice and is found in this state, must, on demand of the executive authority of the state from which he fled, be delivered up by the governor of this state, to be removed to the state having jurisdiction of the crime.

1549. A magistrate may issue a warrant for the apprehension of a person so charged, who flees from justice and is found in this state.

1550. The proceedings for the arrest and commitment of a person charged are, in all respects, similar to those provided in this code for the arrest and commitment of a person charged with a public offense committed in this state, except that an exemplified copy of an indictment found, or other judicial proceedings had against him in the state in which he is charged to have committed the offense, may be received as evidence before the magistrate.

1551. If from the examination it appear that the accused has committed the crime alleged, the magistrate, by warrant reciting the accusation, must commit him to the proper custody in his county, for such time, to be specified in the warrant, as the magistrate may deem reasonable, to enable the arrest of the fugitive under the warrant of the executive of this state, on the requisition of the executive authority of the state in which he committed the offense, unless he gives bail as provided in the next section, or until he is legally discharged.

1552. The magistrate may admit the person arrested to bail by an undertaking with sufficient securities, and in such sum as he deems proper, for his appearance before him at a time specified in the undertaking, and for his surrender to arrest upon the warrant of the governor of this state.

1553. Immediately upon the arrest of the person charged, the magistrate must give notice thereof to the district attorney of the county.

1554. The district attorney must immediately thereafter give notice to the executive authority of the state, or to the prosecuting attorney or presiding judge of the court of the city or county within the state having jurisdiction of the offense, to the end that a demand may be made for the arrest and surrender of the person charged.

1555. The person arrested must be discharged from custody or bail unless, before the expiration of the time designated in the warrant or undertaking, he is arrested under the warrant of the governor of this state.

1556. The magistrate must return his proceedings to the superior court of the county, which must thereupon inquire into the cause of the arrest and detention of the person charged, and if he is in custody, or the time for his arrest has not elapsed, it may discharge him from detention, or may order his undertaking of bail to be cancelled, or may continue his detention for a longer time, or re-admit him to bail to appear and surrender himself within a time to be specified in the undertaking.

1557. When the governor of this state, in the exercise of the authority conferred by section two, article four of the Constitution of the United States, or by the laws of this state, demands from the executive authority of any state of the United States, or of any foreign government, the surrender to the authorities of this state of a fugitive from justice, who has been found and arrested in such state or foreign government, the accounts of the person employed by him to bring back such fugitive must be audited by the board of examiners, and paid out of the state treasury.

1558. No compensation, fee or reward of any kind can be paid to or received by a public officer of this state, or other person, for a service rendered in procuring from the governor the demand mentioned in the last section, or the surrender of the fugitive, or for conveying him to this state, or detaining him therein, except as provided for in such section.

COLORADO.

(Mill's Annotated Statutes 1891, in force January 1, 1904.)

2037. Whenever the executive of any other state or of any territory of the United States shall demand of the executive of this state any person as a fugitive from justice, and shall have complied with the requisitions of the Act of Congress in that case made and provided, it shall be the duty of the executive of this state to issue his warrant under the seal of the state to apprehend the said fugitive, directed to any sheriff, coroner or constable of any county of the state, or other persons whom the said executive may think fit to entrust with the execution of said process. Any of the said persons may execute such warrant anywhere within the limits of this state, and convey such fugitive to any place within this state, which the executive in his warrant shall direct.

2040. Whenever any person within this state shall be charged, upon the oath or affirmation of any credible witness, before any judge or justice of the peace, with the commission of any murder, rape, robbery, burglary, arson, larceny, forgery, or counterfeiting, in any other state or territory of the United States and that the said person hath fled from justice, it shall be lawful for the said judge or justice to issue his warrant for the apprehension of said person. If, upon an examination, it shall appear to the satisfaction of such judge or justice that the said person is guilty of the offense alleged against him, it shall be the duty of the judge or justice to commit him to the jail of the said county, or if the offense is bailable according to the laws of this state, to take bail for his appearance at the next district court to be holden in that county. It shall be the duty of the said judge or justice to reduce the examination of the prisoner, and those who bring him, to writing, and to return the same to the next district court of the county where such examination is had, as in other cases, and shall also send a copy of the examination and proceedings to the executive of this state, as soon thereafter as may be. If, in the opinion of the executive of this state, the examination so furnished contains sufficient evidence to warrant the finding of an indictment against such person, he shall forthwith notify the executive of the state or territory where the crime is alleged to have been committed, of the proceedings which have been had against such person and that he will deliver such person on demand, without requiring a copy of an indictment to accompany such demand. When such demand shall be made the executive of this state shall forthwith issue his warrant under the seal of the state, to the sheriff of the county where the said person is committed or bailed, commanding him to surrender him to such messenger as shall be therein named, to be conveyed out of this state. If the said person shall be out on bail, it shall be lawful for the sheriff to arrest him forthwith, anywhere within the state, and to surrender him agreeably to said warrant.

2042. If the recognizance shall be forfeited, it shall enure to the benefit of of the state.

2043. In all cases where complaint shall be made, as aforesaid, against any fugitive from justice, it shall be the duty of the judge or justice to take good and sufficient security for the payment of all costs which may accrue from the arrest and detention of such fugitive, which security shall be by bond to the clerk of the district court, conditioned for the payment of costs, as above, which bond, together with a statement of the costs which may have accrued on the examination, shall be returned to the office of the clerk of the district court; and upon the determination of the proceedings against such fugitive within that county, the clerk shall issue a fee-bill as in other cases, to be served on the persons named in the bond, or any of them, which fee-bill shall be served and returned by the sheriff, for which he shall be allowed the same fees as are given him for serving notices. If the fees be not paid on or before the first day of the next district court to be holden in and for that county, nor any cause then shown why they should not be paid, the clerk may issue an execution for the same against those parties on whom the fee-bill has been served, and when the said fees are collected shall pay over the same to the persons respectively entitled thereto. The clerk shall be entitled to one dollar for his trouble in each case, besides the usual taxed fees which are allowed in other cases for like services. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the clerk from instituting suits on said bonds in the ordinary mode of judicial proceedings, if he shall deem it proper.

2044. If any person charged with or convicted of treason, murder, rape, robbery, burglary, arson, larceny, forgery or counterfeiting, shall break prison, escape or flee from justice, or abscond and secrete himself, in such cases it shall be lawful for the governor, if he shall judge it necessary, to offer any reward not exceeding two hundred dollars for apprehending and delivering such person into the custody of such sheriff or other officer, as he may direct. The person or persons so apprehending and delivering any such person as aforesaid, and producing to the governor the sheriff or justice's receipt for the body, it shall be lawful for the governor to certify the amount of such claim to the auditor, who shall issue his warrant on the treasury for the same.

2045. That there be, and hereby is, appropriated out of any money in the the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of two thousand dollars, or so much thereof as shall be necessary, for the purpose of paying rewards offered by the governor of the state for the apprehension of persons charged with the crime of murder.

2046. That whenever the governor, by his proclamation, shall offer a reward for the apprehension of any such person or persons mentioned in the first section of this act, the person making such arrest shall deliver the person or persons so arrested to the sheriff of the county where such crime was committed; the said sheriff shall give to the person making such arrest and delivery a certificate that he has delivered to the said sheriff, the person or persons named in the proclamation of the governor. The governor shall endorse on said certificate his approval of the same, and the amount of the reward so offered in his proclamation. On presentation to the auditor of state of such certificate, so endorsed by the governor, he shall draw his warrant on the state treasurer for the amount so certified.

CONNECTICUT.

(Revision of 1902.)

1564. The governor may appoint agents to demand and receive from the executive authority of another state, any fugitive from justice or person charged with any high crime in this state and any application to the governor for that purpose shall be sustained by a properly attested copy of the record of the proceedings against the accused person, with affidavits of one or more of the principal witnesses.

1565. Any prosecuting officer, when required by the governor, shall forthwith investigate the grounds of such application, and report to him all the material circumstances which may come to his knowledge, and his opinion as to the expediency of the demand.

1566. When a demand shall be made upon the governor by the executive authority of another state, for the surrender of any person charged in such state with any high crime, any prosecuting officer, when required by the governor, shall forthwith investigate the grounds of such demand, and report to him the situation and circumstances of the person so demanded, and whether he ought to be surrendered; and if the governor shall find that such demand is conformable to law, and ought to be compiled with, he shall issue his warrant, directed to any proper officer, requiring the arrest of such person and his delivery to the agent appointed to receive him.

1567. No person arrested upon such warrant shall be delivered over to the agent appointed to receive him, until he has been informed of the demand made for his surrender, and of the crime with which he is charged, and has had opportunity to apply for a writ of habeas corpus, if he claim such right of the officer making the arrest. And when such writ is applied for, notice thereof, and of the time and place of hearing thereon, shall be given to the state's attorney of the county in which the arrest is made.

1568. Any officer who delivers to such agent for extradition a person in his custody upon such warrant, without having complied with the provisions of the preceding section, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars, or be imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

1569. When an offender shall be apprehended in any neighboring state and it may be necessary to convey him through this state to the place where the offense was committed, any justice of the peace upon application made, and proof that lawful process has issued against such offender, shall issue a warrant directed to any proper officer, or any person by name, who shall be sworn to the faithful performance of his duty, commanding him to cause such offender to be conveyed to the line of this state, nearest to the state where the offense was committed, there to be delivered to some proper officer ready to receive him and the person to whom such warrant is directed shall obey it, upon tender of the lawful fees therefor.

1570. When any person is found in this state charged with an offense committed in another state or territory, and liable by the Constitution and laws of the United States to be delivered over upon the demand of the executive of such state or territory, any judge of the superior court, upon the information of the state's attorney of the county where such information is made, and any city or police court having criminal jurisdiction, upon the complaint of the prosecuting officer of such court, may issue a warrant to arrest the person charged and bring him before the authority issuing such warrant, or some other authority empowered by this chapter to issue the same, to answer such information or complaint as in other criminal cases; but before such warrant shall be issued, some person shall make affidavit before the authority issuing the same to the facts necessary to bring the case within the provisions hereof.

1571. If, upon the hearing of such information or complaint, the judge or court shall be satisfied upon due inquiry that the person arrested is a fugitive from justice, and that the proper authorities of such other state or territory intend and are about to make a demand upon the executive of this state for the return of such person, he shall be required, if charged with an offense bailable in the state or territory where committed, to recognize in a reasonable sum with sufficient sureties to appear before such judge or court at a future day, and to abide the order of such court or judge; and in appointing the day for the appearance of such person, a reasonable time shall be allowed in which to procure the warrant of the executive of this state for the arrest of such person.

1572. If such person does not so recognize or if the offense with which he is charged is not bailable in the state or territory where committed, he shall be committed to the county jail in the county where such proceedings are had, and there detained until the day appointed for his appearance, in like manner as if the offense charged had been committed within this state.

1573. If the person so recognized or committed appear before such judge or court upon the day ordered, he shall be discharged unless he is demanded by some person authorized by the warrant of the executive of this state to receive him, or unless such judge or court shall find cause to order his appearance at some future day, when he may be required to recognize or be committed and detained as before.

1574. All recognizances taken under this and the three preceding sections shall be taken to the state, and if the person recognizing fails to appear according to the conditions of his recognizance, the same shall be forfeited, and like proceedings shall be had as in case of other recognizances taken in criminal cases: Provided, That if the person charged recognizes or is committed, any person authorized by the warrant of the executive of this state may at all times take him into custody, and the same shall be a discharge of the recognizance, and not be deemed an escape.

1576. It shall be lawful for any police-justice, recorder, judge of any city, borough, town or police court, or a justice of the peace, on satisfactory evidence under oath being presented to him that an application has been made, or is about to be made by the authorities of any other state to the governor of this state for the extradition of any person or persons within the jurisdiction of such magistrate, to issue a warrant or warrants for the arrest of such person or persons and to commit such person or persons to the county jail, or to take bail for his or their appearance from day to day for a period not to exceed thirty days from the date of the arrest of said person or persons: Provided, That any person or persons who may be so arrested and committed to the county jail shall not be imprisoned for a longer period than thirty days.

1577. Any person who shall take, or cause or procure to be taken, or aid or abet in taking any person or persons out of this state, without the consent of such person or persons, for the purpose of answering any criminal charge that may have been preferred against such person or persons in any other state, except upon the warrant or mandate of the governor of this state, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars or be imprisoned not more than two years or both.

DELAWARE.

1. The governor, in any case authorized by the Constitution of the United States, may, on demand, deliver over to the executive authority of any other state or territory any person charged therein with treason, felony, or other crime committed therein; and he may, on application, appoint an agent to demand of the executive authority of any other state or territory any person charged with felony or other crime, who has fled from the justice of this state; but such application must be accompanied by sworn evidence that the party charged is a fugitive from justice, and that the application is made in good faith for the punishment of crime, and not for the purpose of collecting a debt or pecuniary mulct, or of removing the alleged fugitive to a foreign jurisdiction with a view there to serve him with civil process, and also by a duly attested copy of an indictment or an information, or a duly attested copy of a complaint made before a court or magistrate authorized to take the same, such complaint to be accompanied by an affidavit or affidavits to the facts constituting the offense charged by persons having actual knowledge thereof, and such further evidence in support thereof as the governor may require. Fugitive convicts shall also be surrendered and demanded upon the record of their conviction, or sworn evidence, duly authenticated, satisfactory to the governor.

2. When such demand or application is made, the attorney-general shall, if the governor requires it, forthwith investigate the grounds thereof and report to the governor all the material facts which may come to his knowledge, and especially in the case of a person demanded, whether he is held in custody or is under recognizance to answer for any offense against the laws of this state, or by force of any civil process, with an opinion as to the legality and necessity of complying with the demand or application.

3. Whenever the executive authority of any state or territory demands any person as a fugitive from justice, charged with having committed a crime in such state or territory, the governor may issue a warrant to the sheriff of the county in which such person so charged may be found, either directing him to arrest and deliver such person to the duly authorized agent of the executive authority making such demand, appointed to receive the fugitive, or, in case he shall deem it necessary, commanding said sheriff to arrest and bring such person forthwith before the chief justice or any associate judge of this state, to be examined on the charge; and upon the return of the warrant by the sheriff, with the person so charged in custody, the judge before whom the person so arrested is brought, and to whom the warrant is returned, shall proceed to hear and examine such charge, and, upon proof made in such examination by him adjudged sufficient, shall commit such person to the jail of the county in which such examination is so had for a reasonable time, to be fixed by the judge in the order of commitment, and thereupon shall cause notice to be given to the executive authority making such demand, or to the duly authorized agent of such executive authority appointed to receive the fugitive, and on payment of all costs by such agent, such fugitive shall be delivered to him, to be thence removed to the proper place for prosecution; and if such agent does not appear within the time so fixed and pay the costs, as aforesaid, the sheriff shall discharge the person so imprisoned. The sheriff, or other officer, having a person in his custody, arrested pursuant to the governor's warrant directing him to deliver such person to the agent of the executive authority demanding him as a fugitive from justice, shall, before so delivering him, allow such person, on application by himself, his friends or counsel, a reasonable opportunity for resort to appropriate proceedings for reviewing and determining the legality of the demand and of his arrest and detention. Whenever the attorney-general shall have been called on in such case for any service under this act, a reasonable charge for his services may be taxed by the judge as a part of the costs to be paid as aforesaid, and in default thereof to be paid by the state treasurer upon a draft drawn on him for the same. Bail shall be taken for the appearance of the accused by the judge before whom he is brought in pursuance of the provisions of this section as in other cases.

4. When an affidavit is filed before the chief justice or any judge of the superior court, or a justice of the peace, setting forth that a person charged with the commission of an offense against the laws of any other state or of any of the territories of the United States, and which, if the act had been committed in this state, would by the laws thereof have been a crime, is, at the time of filing such affidavit, within the county where the same is filed, such judge or justice of the peace shall issue his warrant directed to the sheriff or any constable of the county, commanding him forthwith to arrest and bring before him the person so charged.

5. When a person is arrested in pursuance of the preceding section and brought before the officer who issued the warrant, the officer shall hear and examine such charge, and, upon proof by him adjudged to be sufficient, commit such person to the jail of the county in which such examination is had.

6. When a person is committed to jail by a judge or justice of the peace under the preceding section, such judge or justice of the peace shall forthwith give or cause to be given notice, by letter or otherwise, to the sheriff of the county in which such offense was committed, or to the person injured by such offense, or to the person upon whose affidavit the arrest was made; and no person so committed shall be detained longer in jail than is necessary to allow a reasonable time to the persons so notified, after they receive such notice, to apply for and obtain the proper requisition for the person so committed. In all cases arising under this and the two preceding sections, bail shall be taken as in other cases.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

(Code of 1902.)

930. In all cases where the laws of the United States provide that fugitives from justice shall be delivered up, the chief justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia shall cause to be apprehended and delivered up such fugitive from justice who shall be found within the district, in the same manner and under the same regulations as the executive authorities of the several states are required to do by the provisions of sections fifty-two hundred and seventy-eight and fifty-two hundred and seventy-nine, title sixty-six of the Revised Statutes of the United States, "Extradition," and all executive and judicial officers are required to obey the lawful precepts or other process issued for that purpose, and to aid and assist in such delivery.

931. Any associate justice of said court shall have like power, in case of the illness, absence or other disability of the chief justice, or when any such application shall be certified to him by the chief justice.

FLORIDA.

(Revised Statutes 1892, in force January 1, 1904.)

3002. The governor of this state, when demand shall be made of him by the executive of any state or territory, of any fugitive from justice, in the manner prescribed by the Act of Congress, approved 12th of February, 1793, shall cause said fugitive to be arrested and secured, either by making public proclamation or by issuing an order to that effect, as he may deem most expedient, under his hand and the seal of the state, directed to all and singular the sheriffs of this state, therein commanding them to arrest the fugitive therein named; and it shall be the duty of any sheriff, upon receiving such order, forthwith to execute the same.

3003. When any fugitive shall be arrested, he or she shall be immediately committed to some safe jail or prison, and it shall be the duty of the sheriff or deputy sheriff, upon such arrest being made, to notify the governor thereof, and also of the jail or prison to which said fugitive shall be committed; and said fugitive shall be dealt with as by said Act of Congress is provided.

3005. No judge, justice of the peace, sheriff, constable or other officer shall be obliged to take any action in or about the arrest and detention of such alleged fugitive from justice, nor shall any sheriff or jailer be obliged to receive or keep in custody such alleged fugitive without prepayment of the costs to which the officer of whom the service is demanded shall be entitled, and in case of the sheriff or jailer, upon the commitment of such alleged fugitive from justice, the prepayment of the jail fees, including the cost of feeding the prisoner; and all such fees and costs shall be the same as are or may be provided for by law in like cases and neither the State of Florida nor any county thereof shall be responsible or liable for any costs or expense in the premises.

GEORGIA.

(Code 1895, in force January 1, 1904.)

1270. Whenever there is found within this state, a fugitive from justice from a foreign state, and by the treaty stipulations of the United States such person is to be surrendered up to the authorities of such foreign state upon requisition from the proper officers, the governor, by his warrant, shall cause him to be arrested and delivered over to such officer.

1271. It is the duty of the governor, under his warrant, to cause to be arrested and delivered up to the proper officers of any other state of the United States, any fugitive from justice from said state, upon demand made of him by the executive of such other state in the manner prescribed by the laws and Constitution of the United States. And, if such fugitive shall have assumed another name in this state, and the governor is satisfied, by evidence on oath filed in his office, of the identity of such person with the fugitive demanded, he shall state the fact in his warrant for the arrest.

1272. If any person demanded as a fugitive from justice is, at the time of such demand, under prosecution for an offense against the laws of this state, the governor shall suspend his delivery until the issue is determined as to his guilt, and if condemned, until he shall have suffered the penalty of the law imposed.

1273. When a person, charged with the commission of an offense in some other state, shall flee into this, and is pursued and caught, or some person in this state, finding, shall arrest him, it is the duty of the governor, on oath filed in his office of the commission of the offense, and the identity and locality of the party, to issue his warrant for his arrest, as in other cases, and command his lodgment in any jail in the state, for as long as twenty days, and if, at their expiration, their is no formal demand made by the governor of the state where the offense is alleged to be committed, he shall be discharged from custody; but upon affidavit, made before any proper officer, of the commission of the offense and of such intended application, the accused shall be held under it five days.

1274. When the governor or other officer issues such or any other warrant of arrest, it is the duty of the sheriffs, their deputies, coroners and constables, to execute them when placed in their hands.

1275. In addition to any rules that are now or may hereafter be adopted by the governor, the following rules shall be observed as a condition precedent to obtain a requisition by him for the extradition of any fugitive from the justice of this state:

(1) The application for a requisition as aforesaid must be made to the governor of this state by a solicitor-general or a solicitor of a county court, judge of said city or county court, or the mayor of any city or town of this state, and must show the full name of the fugitive for whom extradition is asked, the crime charged, the state or territory to which he has fled, the full name of the person suggested to act as agent of this state to receive and convey said fugitive to this state, said agent in no case to be the prosecutor; but the governor may, in his discretion appoint some other suitable person as agent of this state to receive and convey the prisoner. The application must also show that the ends of public justice require that the fugitive be brought back to this state for trial, and that the requisition is not wanted for the purpose of enforcing the collection of a debt or for any private purpose whatever, but solely for the purpose of a criminal prosecution as provided by law.

(2) The application must be accompanied by the affidavit of the prosecutor, if any, stating that the requisition is wanted for the sole purpose of punishing the accused, and not in any way to collect a debt or money or to enforce the payment thereof.

(3) If the fugitive has been indicted, two certified copies of the indictment or presentment must be forwarded to the governor with said application.

(4) If no indictment has been preferred, and an affidavit is the basis of the requisition, it must describe the crime committed with all the particularity required in an indictment, and two certified copies of such affidavit must accompany the petition for the requisition.

IDAHO.

(Penal Code 1901.)

5803. Reward may be offered by governor not to exceed one thousand dollars.

5804. A person charged in any state or territory of the United States with treason, felony or other crime, who flees from justice and is found in this state, must, on demand of the executive authority of the state or territory from which he fled, be delivered up by the governor of this state, to be removed to the state or territory having jurisdiction of the crime.

5805. A magistrate may issue a warrant for the apprehension of a person so charged, who flees from justice and is found in this state.

5806. The proceedings for the arrest and commitment of a person charged are in all respects similar to those provided in this code for the arrest and commitment of a person charged with a public offense committed in this state, except that an exemplied copy of an indictment found, or other judicial proceedings had against him in the state or territory in which he is charged to have committed the offense, may be received as evidence before the magistrate.

5808. The magistrate may admit the person arrested to bail by an undertaking with sufficient sureties, and in such sum as he deems proper, for his appearance before him at a time specified in the undertaking, and for his surrender to arrest upon the warrant of the governor of this state.

5809. Immediately upon the arrest of the person charged the magistrate must give notice thereof to the district attorney of the county.

5812. The magistrate must return his proceedings to the next district court of the county, which must thereupon inquire into the cause of the arrest and detention of the person charged, and if he is in custody, or the time for his arrest has not elapsed, it may discharge him from detention, or may order his undertaking of bail to be cancelled, or may continue his detention for a longer time, or re-admit him to bail to appear and surrender himself within a time to be specified in the undertaking.

5813. When the governor of this state, in the exercise of the authority conferred by section two, article four of the Constitution of the United States, or by the laws of this state, demands from the executive authority of any state or territory of the United States, or of any foreign government the surrender to the authorities of this state of a fugitive from justice, who has been found and arrested in such state, territory or foreign government, the accounts of the person employed by him to bring back such fugitive must be audited by the board of examiners and paid out of the state treasury.

5814. No compensation, fee, or reward of any kind can be paid to or received by a public officer of this state, or other person, for a service rendered in procuring from the governor the demand mentioned in the last section, or the surrender of the fugitive, or for conveying him to this state or detaining him therein, except as provided for in such section.

ILLINOIS.

1. Whenever the executive of any other state, or of any territory of the United States shall demand of the executive of this state any person as a fugitive from justice, and shall have complied with the requisitions of the Act of Congress in that case made and provided, it shall be the duty of the executive of this state to issue his warrant under the seal of the state, to apprehend the said fugitive, directed to any sheriff, coroner or constable, of any county of this state, or other person whom the said executive may think fit to entrust with the execution of said process.

2. Any such officer or person may, at the expense of the agent making the demand, execute such warrant anywhere within the limits of this state, and require aid as in criminal cases, and may convey such fugitive to any place within this state which the executive in his said warrant shall direct, and deliver such fugitive to such agent.

3. When a person is found in this state, charged with an offense cemmitted in another state or territory, and liable, by the Constitution and Laws of the United States to be delivered over upon the demand of the executive of such other state or territory, any judge, justice of the peace or police magistrate may, upon complaint under oath, setting forth the offense, and such other matters as are necessary to bring the case with the provision of law, issue a warrant to bring the person charged before the same or some other judge, justice of the peace or police magistrate within this state, to answer to such complaint as in other cases.

4. If, upon examination, it shall appear to the satisfaction of such judge, justice or police magistrate, that the said person is guilty of the offense alleged against him, it shall be the duty of the said judge, justice or police magistrate to commit him to the jail of the county; or if the offense is bailable according to the laws of this state, to take bail for his appearance at the next circuit court to be holden in that county, except that in the county of Cook the recognizance shall be for the appearance of the accused to the next term of the criminal court of Cook county. It shall be the duty of the said judge, justice or police magistrate to reduce the examination of the prisoner, and those who bring him, to writing and to return the same to the next term of the court at which the prisoner is bound to appear, as in other cases; and he shall also send a copy of the examination and proceedings to the executive of this state as soon thereafter as may be. If, in the opinion of the executive of this state the examination so furnished contains sufficient evidence to warrant the finding of an indictment against such person, he shall forthwith notify the executive of the state or territory where the crime is alleged to have been committed, of the proceedings which have been had against such person, and that he will deliver such person on demand, without requiring a copy of an indictment to accompany such demand.

When such demand shall be made the executive of this state shall forthwith issue his warrant, under the seal of the state to the sheriff of the county where the said person is committed or bailed, commanding him, upon the payment of the expense of such proceedings, to surrender him to such agent as shall be therein named, to be conveyed out of this state. If the said person shall be out on bail, it shall be lawful for the sheriff to arrest him forthwith anywhere within the state, and to surrender him agreeably to said warrant.

5. If the accused shall appear at the court according to the condition of his recognizance, unless he shall have been demanded by some person authorized by the warrant of the executive to receive him, the court may discharge the said recognizance, or continue it, or require a further recognizance or commit the accused on his failing to recognize as required by the court, according to the circumstances of the case, such as the distance of the place where the offense is alleged to have been committed, the time that has intervened since the arrest, and the strength of the evidence against the accused. In no case shall the accused be held in prison or to bail longer than till the end of the second term of the circuit court after his caption, except that in the county of Cook he may be held till the end of the third term of the criminal court of Cook county after his caption. If he is not demanded within that time, he shall be discharged from prison, or exonerated from his recognizance, as the case may be.

6. If the recognizance shall be forfeited, it shall enure to the benefit of the state.

7. In all cases where complaint shall be made as aforesaid, against any fugitive from justice, it shall be the duty of the judge, justice or police magistrate, to take good and sufficient security for the payment of all costs which may accrue from the arrest and detention of such fugitive; which security shall be by bond, to the clerk of the circuit court, except that in the county of Cook the bond shall be to the clerk of the criminal court of said county, conditioned for the payment of costs as above; which bond, together with a statement of the cost which may have accrued on the examination, shall be returned to the office of the clerk of the circuit court or criminal court of Cook county, as the case may be; and upon the determination of the proceedings against such fugitive within that county, the clerk shall issue a fee bill as in other cases, to be served on the persons named in the bond, or any of them; which fee bill shall be served and returned by the sheriff, for which he shall be allowed the same fees as are given him for serving notices. If the fees be not paid on or before the first day of the next court, nor any cause then shown why they should not be paid, the clerk may issue an execution for the same, against those parties on whom the fee bill has been served; and when the said fees are collected shall pay over the same to the persons respectively entitled thereto. Nothing therein contained shall prevent the clerk from instituting suits on said bonds, in the ordinary mode of judicial proceedings, if he shall deem it proper.

8. Whenever the executive of this state shall demand a fugitive from justice from the executive of any other state, he shall issue his warrant, under the seal of the state, to some messenger, commanding him to receive the said fugitive and convey him to the sheriff of the proper county where the offense was committed.

9. The manner of making application to the governor of this state for a requisition for the return of a fugitive from justice shall be by petition, in which shall be stated the name of the fugitive, the crime charged in the words of the statute defining the crime, the county in which the crime is alleged to have been committed, the time as nearly as may be, when the fugitive fled, the state or territory to which he has fled, giving facts and circumstances tending to show the whereabouts of the fugitive at the time of the application. Such petition shall be verified by affidavit, and have endorsed thereon the certificate of the judge of the county court of the county in which the crime is alleged to have been committed; that the ends of justice require the return of such fugitive. Such petition shall be filed by the governor in the office of the secretary of the state, to remain of record in that office.

10. When the application is based upon an indictment found, a copy of the indictment certified by the clerk under the seal of the court in which the indictment was found, shall be attached to the petition.

11. When the punishment of the crime shall be the confinement of the criminal in the penitentiary, the expenses shall be paid out of the state treasury on the certificate of the governor and warrant of the auditor; in all other cases they shall be paid out of the county treasury of the county wherein the crime is alleged to have been committed. The expenses shall be the fees paid to the officers of the state on whose governor the requisition is made, and not exceeding twelve cents per mile for all necessary travel in returning such fugitives. Before such accounts shall be certified by the governor, or paid by the county, they shall be verified by affidavit and certified to by the judge of the county court of the county wherein the crime is alleged to have been committed.

12. If any person charged with, or convicted of treason, murder, rape, robbery, burglary, arson, larceny, forgery or counterfeiting shall break prison, escape or flee from justice, or abscond and secrete himself, in such cases it shall be lawful for the governor, if he shall judge it necessary, to offer any reward not exceeding two hundred dollars for apprehending and delivering such person into the custody of such sheriff or other officer as he may direct. The person so apprehending and delivering any such person as aforesaid, and producing to the governor the receipt of the sheriff or other proper officer, for the body, it shall be lawful for the governor to certify the amount of such claim to the auditor, who shall issue his warrant on the treasurer for the same.

13. It shall be lawful for the county board of any county, by an order to be entered upon its records to fix upon a sum not exceeding one thousand dollars as a reward to be paid to any person who shall hereafter pursue and apprehend, beyond the limits of the county where the offense shall have been committed, any person guilty of any felony or other high crime, which reward shall be paid by the county where the offense was committed, on the conviction of the criminal: Provided, nevertheless, That said reward shall not disqualify the person entitled thereto from being a witness.

14. It shall be lawful for the county board of any county to enter an order upon their records, allowing to any person who shall have aided or assisted in the pursuit or arrest of any person suspected or accused of any felony, or other high crime, committed in their county, such reasonable sum as said county board shall deem just, to defray the expenses of the person in aiding or assisting in the pursuit or arrest of such offender in making such pursuit or arrest; which sum so allowed shall be paid out of the county treasury in the same manner that other county expenses are paid.

15. The county boards of the respective counties may offer rewards not exceeding one thousand dollars each, for the pursuit, arrest, detection or conviction of any person guilty of stealing any horse, mare, colt, mule, ass, or neat cattle, or any other property exceeding fifty dollars in value.

16. For the purpose of providing a fund for the payment of said rewards and disbursements, the said county boards are hereby authorized to levy a tax, annually, of such amount as to them may seem necessary, for the purpose herein contemplated, said taxes to be levied and collected in the same manner as other taxes for county purposes are by law authorized to be levied and collected.

17. When any person shall pursue any person charged with felony, for whom no reward shall have been offered, or in any case where a reward has been offered, and the pursuit shall be unsuccessful, the party pursuing may make out his bill for all necessary expenses, which shall not exceed one dollar for each man per day, and present the same to the county board, and it shall be the duty of the said board to allow said account, if satisfied of its correctness and propriety and pay the same out of said fund: Provided, When a reward is paid no expenses shall be allowed and the expenses of more than five persons shall never be paid in the same case, and only such shall be paid, in any case, as the county board shall see fit to allow.

INDIANA.

(Statutes of 1896, in force January 1, 1904.)

1598. If any person having committed a crime in one county shall be found in another, any justice of the peace within the county wherein said fugitive may be, shall, on the oath of any person charging such fugitive with such crime, (either directly or on the belief of the affiant,) issue his warrant, and cause such fugitive to be arrested and brought before him; and, after evidence heard, if, in the opinion of such justice, the proof or presumption is strong as to the guilt of the person charged, such justice shall issue his warrant to some constable or sheriff to convey such fugitive to the county in which he committed the offense charged against him, and deliver him to any justice in such county, together with the warrant of the justice before whom the said fugitive was examined. And it shall be the duty of such justice to whom such fugitive shall be delivered to cause him to be committed to the custody of some constable or sheriff of the county for safe keeping, and to summon, forthwith, the person against whose person or property the said offense shall have been committed, or some witness thereto; and such justice shall, on the examination, be governed in all respects as though said complaint had been made and affidavit taken before him in the first instance. And the constable who shall convey such fugitive from the county where he was first arrested to the county in which the offense was committed shall receive the same fees for such service as are by law allowed to sheriffs for like services, and subject to the same rules and conditions. The justice shall transmit by the constable a copy of the affidavit and proceedings had before him, and the same shall be delivered to the justice of the county in which the offense was committed.

1599. Upon the demand of the executive authority of any state or territory of the United States upon the governor of this state, to surrender any fugitive from justice from said state or territory, pursuant to the constitution and laws of the United States, he shall issue his warrant, reciting the fact of such demand and the charge upon which it is based, with the time and place of the alleged commission of the offense, directed generally to any sheriff or constable of any county of this state, commanding him to apprehend said fugitive and bring him before the circuit or criminal judge of this state who may be nearest or most convenient of access to the place at which the arrest may be made; and such warrant may be executed by any sheriff or constable in this state, in his own county or in any other county in this state.

1600. The judge before whom such alleged fugitive shall be brought shall proceed, by the examination of witnesses, to ascertain if the person apprehended be the fugitive demanded and mentioned in the warrant of the governor of this state; and if satisfied of the identity of the person, the judge shall order him to be delivered up to the agent of the state or territory demanding him, to be transported to such state or territory, agreeably to the laws of the United States; otherwise he shall discharge the person from custody.

1601. If no agent of the state or territory making the demand be present, the fugitive shall be committed to the jail of the county in which the hearing before the judge is had; and such judge shall forthwith inform the governor of this state of the fact of such commitment. And, on request by the agent of the state or territory making the demand, upon the jailer having such fugitive in custody, and upon the order of the governor of this state such fugitive shall be delivered up to such agent, to be transported to the state or territory from which he fled; and if such fugitive be not demanded within ninety days after his commitment, the jailer shall discharge him.

1602. All costs incurred in apprehending, securing and keeping said fugitive shall be paid by the agent of the state or territory making the demand, before he shall be permitted to remove him or receive him into custody.

1603. If it shall be made to appear to the governor before the issuing of the warrant provided for by this Act, that the alleged fugitive is held in custody or on bail to answer for any crime or misdemeanor against the laws of this state, the governor of this state shall thereupon refuse to issue such warrant, informing the executive authority of the state or territory making the demand, of the grounds of such refusal.

1604. If it shall appear to the judge before whom the examination provided for by this Act may be had, that the alleged fugitive is held in custody or on bail for any crime or misdemeanor against the laws of this state, such judge shall, for that reason, refuse to make an order for the delivery or removal of such fugitive, and shall immediately report the facts to the governor of this state, who shall inform the governor of the state or territory making the demand thereof.

1605. No citizen or resident of this state shall be surrendered under pretense of being a fugitive from justice from any other state or territory, where it shall be clearly made to appear to the judge holding the examination provided for by this Act that such citizen or inhabitant was in this state at the time of the alleged commission of the offense, and not in the state or territory from which he is pretended to have fled; and in such case the judge holding the examination shall discharge the person arrested, and forthwith report the facts to the governor.

INDIAN TERRITORY.

(Statutes of 1899.)

Same as Arkansas.

IOWA.

(Statutes of 1897, in force January 1, 1904.)

5169. The governor of the state in any case authorized by the Constitution and laws of the United States may appoint agents to demand of the executive authority of any other state or territory, or from the executive authority of any foreign government, any fugitive from justice charged with treason or felony, and the accounts of the agents appointed for that purpose must be audited by the auditor of state, and paid out of the state treasury. The expenses to be allowed agents for returning fugitives from justice shall be the fees paid the officers of the state upon whose governor the requisition is made, not exceeding ten cents per mile, each way, for all necessary travel of himself, and for each fugitive, five cents per mile additional for the number of miles which such fugitive shall have been conveyed. Bills for such expenses shall be made out so as to show the actual route travelled, and the number of miles be verified and accompanied by proof that the fugitive for whom requisition was made has been returned and delivered into the custody of the proper authority; but the state shall, in no case, pay the costs of returning the fugitive where he has not been tried unless it is shown to the satisfaction of the governor that a failure of trial has not occurred by any fault or neglect on the part of those interested in the prosecution.

5170. No compensation, fee, or reward of any kind can be paid to, or received by, a public officer of this state for a service rendered or expense incurred in procuring from the governor the demand mentioned in the last section, or the surrender of the fugitive or for conveying him to this state, or detaining him therein, except as provided by law. A violation of this section is a misdemeanor.

5171. No executive warrant for the arrest and surrender of any person demanded by the executive authority of any other state or territory, as a fugitive from justice of such state or territory, and no requisition upon the executive authority of another state or territory, for the surrender of any person as a fugitive from the justice of this state, shall be issued unless the requisition from the executive authority of such other state or territory, or the application for such requisition upon the executive authority of such other state or territory is accompanied by sworn evidence that the party charged is a fugitive from justice and by a duly attested copy of an indictment, preliminary information or complaint made before the court or magistrate authorized to receive the same.

5172. Whenever a demand is made upon the governor of this state by the executive of any other state or territory, in any case authorized by the Constitution and laws of the United States, for the delivery of a person charged in such state or territory with any crime, if such person is not held in custody or under bail to answer for any offense against the laws of the United States or of this state, he shall issue his warrant under the seal of the state, authorizing the agent who makes such demand, either forthwith or at such time as may be designated in the warrant, to take and transport such person to the line of this state at the expense of such agent, and may also by such warrant require all peace officers to afford all needful assistance in the execution thereof.

5173. If any person be found in this state charged with any crime committed in any other state or territory, and liable by the Constitution and laws of the United States to be delivered over upon the demand of the governor thereof, any magistrate may, upon complaint on oath setting forth the offense and such other matters as are necessary to bring the case within the provisions of law, issue a warrant for the arrest of such person.

5175. If such person does not give bail, or if he is charged with the crime of murder, he must be committed to prison, and there detained until such day, in like manner as if the offense charged had been committed within the state.

5176. A failure of such person to attend before the magistrate at the time and place mentioned in the undertaking is a forfeiture thereof.

5178. Whether the person so charged be bound to appear, be committed, or discharged, any person authorized by the warrant of the governor may at any time take him into custody, and the same is a discharge of the undertaking, if there be one, unless a forfeiture thereof has been previously entered of record.

5179. The complainant in any such case is answerable for all the costs and charges and for the support in prison of any person so committed, and the magistrate, before issuing his warrant or hearing the cause, must require the complainant to give security for the payment of all such costs, or may require them in advance.

5180. Upon the application for the appointment of an agent for the arrest of a fugitive from justice under the provisions of this chapter the governor may make the appointment and the issuance of the writ conditional that the same be executed without expense to the state.

KANSAS.

(General Statutes 1901.)

3179. Whenever the executive of any other state or territory shall demand of the executive of this state any person as a fugitive from justice, and shall have complied with the requisites of the Act of Congress in that case made and provided, it shall be the duty of the governor of this state to issue his warrant, under the seal of the state, directed to any sheriff, coroner, or other person whom he may think fit to intrust with the execution of such warrant.

3180. The warrant shall authorize the officer or person to whom it is directed to arrest the fugitive anywhere within the limits of this state, and convey him to any place therein named, and shall command all sheriffs, coroners, constables, and other officers to whom the warrant may be shown, to aid and assist in the execution thereof.

3182. The officer or person executing such warrant may, when necessary, confine the prisoner arrested by him in the jail of any county through which he may pass in conveying such prisoner to the place commanded in the warrant; and the keeper of such jail shall receive and safely keep such prisoner until the person having him in charge shall be ready to proceed on his route.

3183. The governor of this state may, on application, appoint an agent to demand of the executive authority of any other state or territory any offender fleeing from the justice of this state: Provided, That such application is accompanied by sworn evidence that the party charged is a fugitive from justice, and that the application is made in good faith for the punishment of crime, and not for the purpose of collecting a debt or pecuniary mulct, or of recovering the alleged fugitive to a foreign jurisdiction with a view there to serve him with civil process; and also by a duly attested copy of an indictment, or a duly attested copy of a complaint or information made before a court or magistrate authorized to take the same, such complaint or information to be accompanied by an affidavit to the facts constituting the offense charged, by a person or persons having actual knowledge thereof, and such further evidence in support thereof as the governor may require.

3184. Before the governor of this state shall demand any fugitive from justice from the executive authority of any other state or territory, the county attorney of the county wherein the alleged crime is said to have been committed shall examine into the case, and if satisfied that a crime has been committed, and that the person charged is the guilty person, he shall so certify to the governor, with a certified copy of the affidavit, information or indictment presented, and ask a requisition to be made in accordance therewith.

3185. Applications for requisitions on the executive authority of any other state or territory for the surrender of fugitives from the justice of this state shall be made to conform to such rules and regulations as may be adopted and promulgated by the executive authority of this state.

3186. The governor of this state, in any case authorized by the Constitution of the United States and the Acts of Congress made in pursuance thereof, may, on demand, deliver over to the executive authority of any other state or territory any person charged therein with treason, felony or other crime committed therein: Provided, That such demand or application is accompanied by a duly attested copy of an indictment, or a duly attested copy of a complaint or information, certified as authentic, and also by sworn evidence that the demand is made in good faith for the punishment of crime, and not for the purpose of collecting a debt or pecuniary mulct, or of removing the alleged fugitive to a foreign jurisdiction with a view there to serve him or her with civil process.

3191. If, in the opinion of the governor, the examination contains sufficient evidence to warrant the finding an indictment, he shall forthwith notify the executive of the state or territory in which the crime is alleged to have been committed, of the proceedings against the person arrested, and that he will be delivered on demand without requiring a copy of an indictment to accompany the demand.

3192. When a demand shall be made for the offender, the governor shall forthwith issue his warrant, under the seal of the state, to the sheriff of the county wherein the party charged is committed or bailed, commanding him to surrender the accused to such messenger as shall be therein named, to be conveyed out of the state.

3193. If the accused shall be at large on bail or otherwise, it shall be lawful for the sheriff to arrest him forthwith anywhere within the state, and to surrender him agreeably to the command of the warrant.

3194. In all cases where the party shall have been admitted to bail and shall appear according to the condition of his recognizance, and he shall not have been demanded, the district court may discharge the recognizance or continue it, according to the circumstances of the case, such as distance of the place where the offense is alleged to have been committed, the time since the arrest, the nature of the evidence, and the like.

3195. In no case shall the party be kept in prison or held to bail beyond the end of the second term of the district court after the arrest; and, if no demand is made for him within that time he shall be discharged.

3196. When any such recognizance shall be forfeited, it shall enure to the benefit of the state.

3197. When a complaint shall be made against any person, as provided by this act, the judge or justice shall take from the prosecutor a bond to the clerk of the district court, with sufficient security to secure the payment of the costs and expenses which may accrue by occasion of the arrest and detention of the party charged which bond shall be certified and returned with the examination to the office of the clerk of the district court.

3199. If the costs and charges are not paid on or before the first day of the next term of the district court, nor any cause shown why they should not be paid, the clerk may issue execution for the same against the parties on whom the fee bills were served.

3200. Nothing in the two preceding sections shall be construed to prevent the clerk from instituting suit on such bond, for the recovery of the costs and charges.

3201. No person shall take or remove any fugitive from this state, or do any act toward such removal, unless authorized to do so pursuant to the provisions of this act; and any person violating the provisions of this section shall forfeit and pay to the aggrieved party a sum not less than five hundred dollars.

3202. Whenever any person shall have been committed to the jail of any county, upon the examination for a bailable offense, under the provisions of this act, he may be let to bail with sufficient surety for his appearance at the next term of the court of the county having criminal jurisdiction, such bail to be taken and approved by the court or judge of the court, having criminal jurisdiction or the probate judge.

KENTUCKY.

(Carroll's Statutes 1903.)

1926. Upon the demand of the executive of any state or territory of the United States, made upon the governor of this commonwealth, to surrender a fugitive from justice from said state or territory, pursuant to the constitution and laws of the United States, he shall issue his warrant to the sheriff or constable of any county within this commonwealth, commanding him to apprehend said fugitive and bring him before some circuit judge.

1927. The circuit judge shall proceed, by the examination of witnesses, to ascertain if the person apprehended be the fugitive demanded, and mentioned in the warrant of the governor of this state, and, if satisfied of the identity of the person, the judge shall order him to be delivered up to the agent of the state or territory demanding him, to be transported to such state or territory agreeably to the laws of the United States; otherwise, he shall discharge the person from custody.

1928. If no such agent be present, the fugitive shall be committed to the jail of the county in which the hearing before the judge is had. Of the fact of commitment the judge shall forthwith inform the governor of this state, and, on demand by the agent of the state or territory upon the jailer, by the authority of the governor of this commonwealth, the fugitive from justice shall be delivered up to such agent. If said fugitive be not demanded within three months after his commitment, the jailer shall discharge him.

1929. All costs incurred in apprehending and securing said fugitive shall be paid by the agent of the state or territory before he shall be permitted to remove him or receive him into custody.

1930. A person guilty of felony anywhere in the United States, if found in this state, may be arrested and confined in jail, and delivered over to the proper authority, in the following manner: 1. A warrant issued by any judicial authority, upon affidavit made of the facts, shall authorize his arrest by any ministerial officer, or other person, to whom it may be directed by name. 2. The person arresting the accused shall immediately take him before the circuit judge, the judge of the county court or the police judge of a city, in the county in which he was arrested, who shall, upon hearing the evidence, if satisfied of the guilt of the prisoner, commit him to the jail of the county where he was arrested, there to remain sixty days unless he be legally discharged or removed upon the demand of the executive of the state or territory in which it is charged that the offense was committed. 3. It shall be the duty of the person who caused the arrest of such fugitive to be made, to notify the executive of the state or territory in which the crime was committed.

1932. The governor may offer a reward not to exceed five hundred dollars.

1933. Whenever the governor of this commonwealth shall issue his proclamation, offering a reward for a fugitive from justice, or any one charged with crime and he shall designate in his proclamation the jail to which the prisoner shall be delivered, and it need not be the jail of the county where the offense was committed, may order the same published in a newspaper or not, as he shall deem proper under the circumstances and to the interests of the commonwealth; and if he shall order the same so published, he shall designate the paper or papers in which the publication shall be made, and the number of times it shall be inserted. The account for such publication with the approval of the governor indorsed thereon, shall be paid out of the state treasury.

1934. In all cases where the governor of this commonwealth shall make a requisition upon the governor of any other state or a territory for a fugitive from justice, the person named in such requisition as the agent of this commonwealth shall, unless a different condition is contained in the commission of the agent, be allowed to receive as a compensation for his services, at the rate of six cents per mile for the distance he may travel to and from the jail of the county designated in the proclamation to the place where said fugitive may be arrested—the distance to be computed by the route most usually travelled, and such other fees and necessary expenses as he may have to expend in reclaiming and transporting such fugitive. Upon the return of the fugitive to the county in which is located the jail mentioned in the proclamation, the person having him in charge shall go before a magistrate, who shall issue a mittimus to the jailer to receive the prisoner and keep him until he is discharged.

1935. Any one claiming a reward for the apprehension of a fugitive from justice shall be paid the amount of the reward as full compensation for all services and expenses in arresting and returning the fugitive.

LOUISIANA.

(Wolff's Statutes 1897, in force January 1, 1904.)

1038. When any person shall be charged on oath of any credible person before any judge or justice of the peace of this state, with having committed any crime within any state or territory of the United States, and has fled from justice, it shall be the duty of such judge or justice to issue his warrant for the arrest of such accused and to proceed to the examination of such case, and commit or discharge the accused, as such judge or justice may determine, provided no person so accused shall be detained in custody exceeding ninety days.

1039. The governor may in his discretion deliver over to justice any person found within the state, who shall be charged with having committed any crime under the Constitution and laws of the United States, or of any state or territory.

1040. Such delivery shall only be made on the requisition of the duly authorized ministers or officers of the government within the jurisdiction of which the crime shall be charged to have been committed, and upon their paying all expenses attending the apprehension, confinement, and delivery of the party accused.

1041. It shall be the duty of the governor to require such evidence of the guilt of the person so charged, as would be necessary to justify his apprehension and commitment for trial, had the crime charged been committed within the state.

MAINE.

(Statutes in force January 1, 1904.)

8. In any case, authorized by the Constitution and laws of the United States the governor may appoint an agent to demand and receive of the executive authority of any other state, any fugitive from justice charged with any crime in this state; and the accounts of such agent shall be audited and paid from the treasury by order of the governor and council.

9. Whenever a prisoner convicted of, or charged with a capital crime or other high offense escapes from prison in this state the governor may offer a reward not exceeding one thousand dollars.

10. When such demand as is mentioned in section eight is made on the governor of this state, and he is satisfied on examination of the grounds hereof, that it is according to law and ought to be granted, he shall issue his warrant, under the seal of the state, authorizing the agent making the demand, at his own expense, to take and transport such fugitive to the line of the state at the time designated in the warrant, and shall therein require the civil officers of the state to afford all needful aid in its execution.

11. When such fugitive from justice in another state is found in this state, any court or magistrate authorized to issue warrants in criminal cases may, on complaint under oath, setting forth the offense and other facts necessary to bring the case within the provisions of law, grant a warrant and have the accused arrested for examination as in other cases.

12. On such examination, if the court or magistrate believes that the complaint is true, and that the accused can lawfully be demanded of the governor, the case shall be adjourned long enough to obtain an executive warrant, and if the offense is bailable, the accused may recognize with sufficient sureties to appear at the adjournment; and if he does not so recognize or the offense is not bailable, he shall be committed; and if any such recognizance is forfeited, the same proceedings shall be had as in case of other recognizance.

13. If the accused appears at the adjournment he shall be discharged, unless some person is authorized to receive him by an executive warrant, or another adjournment is ordered for sufficient cause, and in that case the same proceedings shall be had as at the first adjournment; but nothing in this, or the two preceding sections shall prevent the arrest of any accused by an executive warrant and such arrest discharges any such existing recognizance.

14. The complainant is answerable in all such cases for the actual costs and charges and the support in prison of the accused when committed, to be paid as a creditor pays for his debtor committed on execution; and if his support in prison is not so paid, the jailer may discharge the accused as if he were committed on execution for debt.

MARYLAND.

Section one hundred and eighty-nine, article twenty-seven, page six hundred and thirty-six, laws of 1903, provides that fugitive convicts shall be delivered up on demand by another state. The executive department will have to be consulted for rules and regulations with regard to the rendition of fugitives from justice.

MASSACHUSETTS.

11. The governor in any case authorized by the Constitution and laws of the United States may upon demand deliver over to the executive of any other state or territory any person charged therein with treason, felony or other crime, or may upon application, appoint an agent to demand of the executive authority of any other state or territory any such offender fleeing from the justice of this commonwealth. Such demand or application shall be accompanied by sworn evidence that the party charged is a fugitive from justice, and by a duly attested copy of an indictment, or of a complaint made before a court or magistrate authorized to receive it. Such complaint shall be accompanied by affidavits to the facts constituting the crime charged, by persons having actual knowledge thereof, and by such further evidence as the governor may require.

12. Upon such demand or application the attorney-general or a district attorney shall, if the governor so requires forthwith investigate the grounds thereof, and report to the governor all the material facts which may come to his knowledge, with an abstract of the evidence in the case, and in case of a person demanded, whether he is held in custody or is under recognizance to answer for a crime against the laws of this commonwealth or of the United States or by force of any civil process, with an opinion as to the legality or expediency of complying therewith.

13. If the governor is satisfied that the demand is conformable to law, and ought to be complied with, he shall issue his warrant, under the seal of the commonwealth, to an officer authorized to serve warrants in criminal cases, directing him, at the expense of the agent making the demand at a time designated in the warrant, to take and transport such person to the boundary line of his commonwealth and there deliver him to such agent. Such officer may require aid as in criminal cases.

14. A person who is arrested upon such warrant shall not be delivered to such agent of a state or territory until he has been notified of the demand made for his surrender and has had an opportunity to apply for a writ of habeas corpus, if he claims such right of the officer who makes the arrest. If such writ is applied for, notice thereof, and of the time and place of hearing thereon shall be given to the attorney-general or district attorney for the district within which the arrest is made. An officer who delivers over to such agent for extradition a person in his custody upon such warrant without having complied with the provisions of this section shall forfeit a sum not exceeding one thousand dollars.

15. If the application for the arrest of a fugitive from the justice of the commonwealth is complied with, and an agent is appointed, his account shall be paid like other expenses in criminal cases by the county in which the proceedings are pending; but the governor may direct the whole or a part of such account to be paid by the commonwealth.

16. If a person who is found in this commonwealth is charged with a crime committed in another state or territory, and liable by the Constitution and laws of the United States to be delivered over upon the demand of the executive of such other state or territory, any court or magistrate authorized to issue warrants in criminal cases may, upon complaint under oath setting forth the offense and such other matters as are necessary to bring the case within the provisions of law, issue a warrant to bring the person charged before the same or some other court or magistrate within the state, to answer to such complaint as in other other cases.

17. If upon examination of the person charged the court or magistrate has reasonable cause to believe that the complaint is true and that such person may be lawfully demanded of the executive, he shall, if not charged with a capital crime, be required to recognize with sufficient sureties in a reasonable sum to appear before such court or magistrate at a future day allowing a reasonable time to obtain the warrant of the executive and to abide the order of the court or magistrate.

18. If such person does not so recognize, he shall be committed to prison and there detained until such day, as if the crime charged had been committed within this commonwealth and if he fails to appear according to the condition of his recognizance, he shall be defaulted; and like proceedings shall be had as in case of other recognizances entered into before such court or magistrate. If the person is charged with a capital crime, he shall be committed to jail until the day so appointed for his appearance.

19. If the person so recognized or committed appears before the court or magistrate upon the day appointed he shall be discharged unless he is demanded by a person authorized by the warrant of the executive to receive him or unless the court or magistrate has cause to commit him or to require him to recognize anew for his appearance on another day, and if, when ordered, he does not so recognize he shall be committed and detained as before. If the person charged has recognized or is committed, or discharged, a person authorized by the warrant of the executive may at any time take him into custody, and the same shall be a discharge of the recognizance and not be an escape.

20. The complainant in such case shall be answerable for all actual costs and charges, and for the support in jail of a person so committed to be paid as by a creditor for his debtor committed on execution. If the charge for support in jail is not so paid, the jailer may discharge him as if he had been committed on an execution.

MICHIGAN.

(Compiled Laws of 1897, in force January 1, 1904.)

11991. The governor of this state may, in any case authorized by the Constitution and laws of the United States, appoint agents to demand of the executive authority of any other state or territory, or from the executive authority of any foreign government, any fugitive from justice, or any person charged with treason; and the accounts of the agents appointed for that purpose shall, unless otherwise directed by the governor, be audited by the auditor-general and paid out of the state treasury.

11992. Whenever a demand shall be made upon the governor of this state by the governor of any other state or territory, in any case authorized by the Constitution and laws of the United States, for the delivery over of any person charged in such state or territory with treason, felony or any other crime, and there shall be produced with such demand a copy of the indictment found or information filed, or affidavit or complaint made before a magistrate of the state or territory demanding, charging the person so demanded with having committed treason, felony or other crime within such state or territory, duly certified as authentic by the governor or chief magistrate of the state or territory from whence the person so charged fled, with due proof of the fleeing, it shall be the duty of the governor of this state to issue an order or warrant to the sheriff of the county in which such person so charged may be found, commanding him to forthwith arrest such alleged fugitive and to deliver him to the duly authorized agent appointed by the executive authority making such demand to receive him and remove him to the proper place for prosecution. But the said sheriff, while the alleged fugitive is in his custody, and before delivering him up to the agent of the demanding state, shall afford him every proper facility to enable him to have a judicial examination, if he desires it, by habeas corpus or otherwise, to ascertain whether the demand and arrest have been made conformably to the requirements of law, so that such person, if he ought not to be delivered up, may be duly discharged, and the attorney-general, when required by the governor, shall forthwith investigate the grounds of demand, and report to the governor all material facts which may come to his knowledge, as to the situation and circumstances of the person so demanded, and especially whether he is held in custody, or is under recognizance to answer for any offense against the laws of this state or of the United States, or by virtue of any civil process, and also whether such demand was made conformably to law, so that such person ought to be delivered up.

11993. If the governor shall be satisfied that the demand is conformable to law, and ought to be complied with, he shall issue his warrant, under the seal of the state, authorizing the agents who make such demand, either forthwith or at such time as shall be designated in the warrant, to take and transport such person to the line of this state, at the expense of such agents, and shall also by such warrant require the civil officers within this state to afford all needful assistance in the execution thereof.

11994. Whenever any person shall be found within this state, charged with any offense committed in any other state or territory, and liable by the Constitution and laws of the United States to be delivered over upon the demand of the governor of such other state or territory, any court or magistrate authorized to issue warrants in criminal cases may, upon complaint on oath setting forth the offense, and such other matters as are necessary to bring the case within the provisions of law, issue a warrant to bring the person so charged before the same or some other court or magistrate, within this state, to answer to such complaint as in other cases.

11998. The complainant in any such case shall be answerable for all the actual costs and charges and for the support in prison of any person so committed, to be paid weekly or otherwise, as may be ordered by the court or magistrate; and, if the charge for his support in prison shall not be so paid, the jailer may, on the failure of the complainant, discharge such person from his imprisonment.

MINNESOTA.

(General Statutes 1894 as amended 1903 and in force January 1, 1904.)

7084. As amended April 8, 1903. The governor of this state may, in any case authorized by the Constitution and laws of the United States, appoint agents who shall be sheriffs of the counties respectively from which applications for extradition shall come in all cases where the sheriff of such county can serve, to demand of the executive authority of any state or territory any fugitive from justice or any person charged with felony, or other crime, in this state; and whenever an application is made to the governor for that purpose the attorney-general, when required by the governor, shall forthwith investigate, or cause to be investigated by any county attorney the grounds of such application and report to the governor all material circumstances which may come to his knowledge, with an abstract of the evidence, and his opinion as to the expediency of the demand; and the accounts of the agents appointed for such purpose shall in each case be audited by the board of the county commissioners of the county wherein said crime is alleged to have been committed upon which said proceedings for extradition are based, and said expenses shall be paid from the treasury of said county. Said agent so appointed shall receive the sum of four dollars ($4.00) for each calendar day and necessary expenses incurred by him in the performances of such duties.

7085. When a demand is made upon the governor by the executive of any state or territory in any case authorized by the Constitution and laws of the United States, for the delivery over of any person charged in such state or territory with treason, felony or any other crime, the attorney-general when required by the governor shall forthwith investigate the ground of such demand, or cause the same to be investigated by any county attorney, and report to the governor all material facts which may come to his knowledge as to the situation and circumstances of the person so demanded, especially whether he is held in custody, or is under recognizance to answer for any offense against the laws of the state or of the United States, and also whether such demand is made according to law, so that such person ought to be delivered up; and if the governor is notified that such demand is conformable to law, and ought to be complied with, he shall issue his warrant, under the seal of the state, authorizing such person as he shall name therein either forthwith or at the time designated by the warrant, to take and transport the person so demanded to the line of the state, at the expense of the state or territory in whose name such person may have been demanded, and to deliver over such person, at the line of the state, to the agent of the state or territory making such demand; and shall also, by such warrant, require the civil officers within this state to afford all needful assistance in the execution thereof. Provided, however, That the governor when issuing his warrant shall deliver the same to the sheriff or some other public officer of any county in this state, and such officer, upon receipt of such warrant, shall have power to arrest and detain in his custody the person whose surrender is demanded; but no such person arrested upon such warrant shall be delivered to the agent designated therein or to any other person, until the person so arrested and whose surrender is demanded shall be notified of the demand made for his surrender and the nature of the criminal charge made against him, and not until he has had an opportunity to apply for a writ of habeas corpus, if he claims such right of the officer making the arrest. When such writ is applied for, notice thereof and of the time and place of the hearing thereon shall be given to the attorney-general or other prosecuting officer of the judicial district in which the arrest is made. Any sheriff or other officer making such arrest, who shall deliver over to the agent named in such warrant or to any other person, for extradition, the person so in his custody under such warrant, without having complied with the provisions of this act, shall upon conviction thereof be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars or imprisoned in the county jail of the county not exceeding six months, or be subject to both fine and imprisonment at the discretion of the court.

7086. Whenever any person is found within this state charged with any offense committed in any state or territory and liable by the Constitution and laws of the United States to be delivered over upon the demand of the executive of such state or territory, any court or magistrate authorized to issue warrants in criminal cases, may, upon complaint under oath, setting forth the offense, and such other matters as are necessary to bring the case within the provisions of law, issue a warrant to bring the person so charged before the same or some other court or magistrate within the county where such person is found.

7087. If upon examination of the person charged, it appear to the court or magistrate that there is reasonable cause to believe that the complaint is true, and that such person may be lawfully demanded of the governor, he shall, if the offense is bailable be required to recognize with sufficient sureties, in a reasonable sum to appear before such court or magistrate at a future day, allowing a reasonable time to obtain the warrant of the executive, and to abide the order of the court or magistrate and if such person shall not so recognize, he shall be committed to prison, and there detained until such day, in like manner as if the offense charged had been committed within this state; and if the person so recognizing fails to appear according to the condition of his recognizance he shall be defaulted, and the like proceeding shall be had as in case of other recognizances entered into before such court or magistrate; but if the offense is not bailable he shall be committed to prison, and there detained until the day so appointed for his appearance before the court or magistrate.

7088. If the person so recognized or committed appear before the court or magistrate upon the day ordered he shall be discharged unless he is demanded by some person authorized by the warrant of the executive to receive him, or unless the court or magistrate sees cause to commit him or to require him to recognize anew, for his appearance at some other day; and if when ordered, he shall not so recognize he shall be committed and detained as before provided; whether the person so discharged is recognized committed or discharged, any person authorized by the warrant of the executive may at all times take him into custody, and the same is a discharge of the recognizance, if any, and shall not be deemed an escape.

MISSISSIPPI.

(Annotated Code 1892, in force January 1, 1904.)

2162. It shall be the duty of the governor of this state, on demand made by the executive authority of any other state, territory or district for any person charged on affidavit or indictment in such other state, territory or district with a criminal offense, and who shall have fled from justice, and be found in this state, accompanied with a copy of such affidavit or indictment, certified as authentic by such executive authority, to cause such offender to be arrested and delivered up to the authority of such state, territory or district, for removal to the jurisdiction having cognizance of such offense, upon the payment of the costs and expenses consequent on such arrest: and it shall be the duty of the governor, in like manner, to demand and receive fugitives from justice for offenses committed in this state.

1471. If it shall appear to the justice of the peace, or other officer before whom such person shall be brought, that there is reasonable cause to believe that the complaint is true, he shall, if the prisoner would be entitled to bail if the offense had been committed in this state, require him to furnish bail to appear before the circuit court of the county at its next term, and from day to day and term to term until discharged by law, and, if such person shall not give bail with sufficient sureties as required, he shall be committed to jail until he shall give such bail, or until he shall be discharged, as hereinafter provided. If such person would not be bailable if the offense charged had been committed in this state, he shall be committed to jail to remain until discharged as provided by law.

1472. Any recognizance or bond so taken shall be delivered at once to the clerk of the circuit court before which the party is bound to appear, and in case of forfeiture, like proceedings shall be had thereon as in other cases.

1473. The justice of the peace, or other officer recognizing or committing such person, shall immediately report the fact to the governor of this state.

1474. If the person bound appear before the circuit court according to his obligation, he shall be discharged by such court, unless he shall be demanded by some person authorized by the governor of this state to demand him, or unless the court shall commit him, if he were improperly admitted to bail, or shall require him to give a new bond or recognizance, if his bail be insufficient, or shall order his bond or recognizance as first given to continue in force for a longer time; but any such person may, at any time, be taken into custody by any person authorized by the governor of this state, and such taking into custody shall be a discharge from any bail he may have given.

1475. The person making complaint to procure the arrest of any person charged with crime in some other state or territory shall be answerable for all the costs of the arrest and proceedings, and for the jail fees, if the person be committed to jail; and the justice of the peace, or other officer applied to, may require such deposit of money or security for the payment of all costs, charges and fees in such proceedings as he thinks reasonable, and may refuse to issue a warrant, or to commit a person to jail, or do anything in such matter, until compliance with the requirement.

MISSOURI.

(Statutes of 1899, in force January 1, 1904.)

7466. Whenever the executive of any other state shall demand of the executive of this state any person as a fugitive from justice, and shall have complied with the requisites of the Act of Congress in that case made and provided, it shall be the duty of the executive of this state to issue his warrant, under the seal of the state, directed to any sheriff, coroner or other person whom he may think fit to entrust with the execution of such warrant.

7467. The warrant shall authorize the officer or person to whom it is directed, to arrest the fugitive anywhere within the limits of this state, and convey him to any place therein named, and shall command all sheriffs, coroners, constables and other officers to whom the warrant may be shown, to aid and assist in the execution thereof.

7468. Every warrant so issued may be executed in any part of the state, and the officer or person to whom it is directed shall have the same power to command assistance therein, and in receiving and conveying to the proper place any person duly arrested by virtue thereof, as sheriffs and other officers by law, have in the execution of civil or criminal process directed to them, with like penalties on those who refuse their assistance.

7469. The officer or person executing such warrant may, when necessary, confine the prisoner arrested by him in the jail of any county through which he may pass, in conveying such prisoner to the place commanded in the warrant; and the keeper of such jail shall receive and safely keep such prisoner until the person having him in charge shall be ready to proceed on his route.

7470. The expenses which may accrue under the foregoing sections of this chapter shall be paid by the state or territory making the demand of such fugitive from justice.

7471. Whenever any person within this state shall be charged, on the oath or affirmation of any credible witness, before any judge or justice of a court of record, or a justice of the peace, with the commission of any crime in any other state or territory of the United States and that he fled from justice, it shall be lawful for the judge or justice to issue his warrant for the apprehension of the party charged.

7472. If upon examination, it shall appear to the judge or justice that the person charged is guilty of the crime alleged, he shall commit him to the jail of the county; or, if the offense is bailable take bail for his appearance at the next term of court of the county having criminal jurisdiction.

7473. The judge or justice shall proceed in the examination in the same manner as is required when a person is brought before such officer charged with an offense against the laws of this state, and shall reduce the examination to writing and make return thereof as in other cases and shall also send a copy of the examination and proceedings to the governor of this state without delay.

7474. If, in the opinion of the governor, the examination contains sufficient evidence to warrant the finding of an indictment, he shall forthwith notify the executive of the state or territory in which the crime is alleged to have been committed, of the proceedings against the person arrested, and that he will be delivered on demand without requiring a copy of an indictment to accompany the demand.

7475. When a demand shall be made for the offender, the governor shall forthwith issue his warrant, under the seal of the state, to the sheriff of the county wherein the party charged is committed or bailed, commanding him to surrender the accused to such messenger as shall be therein named, to be conveyed out of the state.

7476. If the accused shall be at large, on bail or otherwise, it shall be lawful for the sheriff to arrest him forthwith anywhere within the state, and to surrender him agreeably to the command of the warrant.

7477. In all cases where the party shall have been admitted to bail and shall appear according to the condition of his recognizance, and he shall not have been demanded, the court may discharge the recognizance or continue it, according to the circumstances of the case such as distance of the place where the offense is alleged to have been committed, the time since the arrest, the nature of the evidence and the like.

7478. In no case shall the party be kept in prison or held to bail beyond the end of the second term of the court after the arrest, and if no demand is made for him within that time, he shall be discharged. When any such recognizance shall be forfeited it shall enure to the benefit of the state.

7479. When a complaint shall be made against any person, as provided by this chapter, the judge or justice shall take from the prosecutor a bond, to the clerk of the court, with sufficient security, to secure the payment of the costs and expenses which may accrue by occasion of the arrest and detention of the party charged, which bond shall be certified and returned, with the examination, to the office of the clerk of the court having criminal jurisdiction.

7480. Upon the determination of the proceedings in that court, the clerk may issue fee bills, which shall be served on the principal and securities in the bond by the sheriff, in the same manner as other fee bills, for which service the sheriff shall be allowed the same fees as for serving notices.

7481. If the costs and charges are not paid on or before the first day of the next term of the court, nor any cause shown why they should not be paid, the clerk may issue execution for the same against the parties on whom the fee bills were served.

7482. Nothing in the two preceding sections shall be construed to prevent the clerk from instituting suit on such bond for the recovery of the costs and charges.

7483. Whenever any person shall have been committed to the jail of the county, upon examination for a bailable offense, under the provisions of this chapter, he may be let to bail, with sufficient security for his appearance at the next term of the court of the county having criminal jurisdiction, by the court or judge of the court having criminal jurisdiction, or by any judge or justice of the county court.

MONTANA.

(Penal Code 1895, in force January 1, 1904.)

2853. A person charged in any state of the United States with treason, felony or other crime, who flees from justice and is found in this state, must, on demand of the executive authority of the state from which he fled, be delivered up by the governor of this state, to be returned to the state having jurisdiction of the crime.

2854. A magistrate may issue a warrant for the apprehension of the person so charged, who flees from justice and is found in this state.

2855. The proceedings for the arrest and commitment of a person so charged are, in all respects, similar to those provided in this code for the arrest and commitment of a person charged with a public offense committed in this state, except that an exemplified copy of the indictment found, or other judicial proceedings had against him, in the state in which he is charged to have committed the offense, may be received as evidence before the magistrate.

2856. If, from the examination, it appears that the accused has committed the crime alleged, the magistrate, by warrant reciting the accusation, must commit him to the proper custody in his county for such time, to be specified in the warrant, as the magistrate may deem reasonable, to enable the arrest of the fugitive under the warrant of the executive of this state, on the requisition of the executive authority of the state in which he committed the offense, unless he gives bail as provided in the next section, or until he is legally discharged.

2857. The magistrate may admit the person arrested to bail by an undertaking with sufficient sureties and in such sum as he deems proper for his appearance before him at a time specified in the undertaking, and for his surrender to arrest upon the warrant of the governor of this state.

2858. Immediately upon the arrest of the person so charged, the magistrate must give notice thereof to the county attorney of the county.

2859. The county attorney must immediately thereafter give notice to the executive authority of the state, or to the prosecuting attorney or presiding judge of the court of the city or county within the state having jurisdiction of the offense, to the end that a demand may be made for the arrest and surrender of the person so charged.

2860. The person arrested must be discharged from custody or bail, unless before the expiration of the time designated in the warrant or undertaking he is arrested under the warrant of the governor of this state.

2861. The magistrate must return his proceedings to the district court of the county, which must thereupon inquire into the cause of the arrest and detention of the person charged, and if he is in custody, or the time of his arrest has not elapsed, it may discharge him from detention, or may order his undertaking or bail to be cancelled, or may continue his detention for a longer time, or re-admit him to bail, to appear and surrender himself within a time specified in the undertaking.

2862 and 2863 provide for the auditing of the accounts of the agent appointed by the governor.

NEBRASKA.

8076. Whenever any person is committed to jail by any judge or justice of the peace, by either of the provisions of the preceding section it shall be the duty of such judge or justice of the peace forthwith to give notice, by letter or otherwise, to the sheriff of the county in which such offense shall have been committed, or to the person injured by such offense, or to the proper authorized agent or officer and no person so committed shall be delayed longer in jail than necessary to allow a reasonable time to the person so notified, after he shall have received such notice, to apply for and obtain the proper requisition for the person so committed.

8077. Whenever a demand is made upon the governor of this state by the executive of any other state or territory, in any case authorized by the Constitution and laws of the United States for the delivery of any person charged in such state or territory with any crime, if such person is not held in custody or under bail to answer for any offense against the laws of the United States or of this state, he shall issue his warrant under the seal of the state, authorizing the agent who makes the demand, either forthwith or at such time as may be designated in the warrant, to take and transport such person to the line of this state at the expense of such agent, and may also by such warrant require all peace officers to afford needful assistance in the execution thereof.

8078. The governor of this state may, in any case authorized by the Constitution and laws of the United States, appoint agents to demand of the executive authority of any foreign government any fugitive from justice, charged with treason or felony, and the accounts of the agents appointed must be audited by the auditor and paid out of the state funds.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

(Chapter 263, Laws of 1901.)

1. Whenever any person in this state is charged with an offense committed in another state, and is liable by the laws of the United States to be delivered over upon demand of the executive of such state, any court or justice may, upon complaint on oath setting forth the offense and other matters necessary to bring the case within the law, issue a warrant to bring the person so charged before him or some other justice, to answer such complaint.

2. If, upon examination, there is reasonable cause to believe that the complaint is true, and that such person may be lawfully demanded of the executive of this state, he shall, if charged with a capital offense, be committed to jail, there to be detained until a day so appointed as to allow a reasonable time to obtain the warrant of such executive.

3. If such person is charged with an offense not capital, the court or magistrate may order him to recognize with sufficient sureties, to appear at a day so appointed, and, if he fails to recognize, may commit him to jail, there to be detained not exceeding thirty days, unless sooner discharged by due course of law.

4. If the person so recognized or committed appears before the court or magistrate upon the day ordered, he shall be discharged, unless he is demanded by some person authorized by the warrant of the executive to receive him.

5. Any person authorized by warrant of the executive may take such offender into custody at any time, whether recognized, committed or discharged, and such taking shall be a discharge of the recognizance, if any, and shall not be deemed an escape.

6. The complainant in every such case shall pay all the actual costs and charges, and for the support in jail of any person committed as aforesaid, at the rate of two dollars and fifty cents per week, and shall advance the money therefor from time to time, or give to the jailer satisfactory security therefor. If the complainant neglects for twenty-four hours after he is required by the jailer to give such security or advance such money, the jailer may discharge him.

7. When a demand is made upon the governor by the executive of any other state for the delivery over of any person charged in such state with any crime, the attorney-general, or any other prosecuting officer, when required by the governor, shall ascertain and report to the governor all material facts known relating to the case, and especially whether he is held in custody or is under recognizance to answer for any offense against the laws of the United States or of this state, or by force of any civil process, and also whether such demand is made conformably to law, so that such person ought to be delivered up.

8. If the governor is satisfied that the demand is conformable to law and ought to be complied with, he shall issue his warrant, under the seal of the state, authorizing the agent who shall make such demand, either forthwith or at such time as shall be designated in the warrant, to take and transport such person to the line of the state, at the expense of such agent, and shall also, by such warrant, require the civil officers within this state to afford all needful assistance in the execution thereof.

9. Whenever any offender is apprehended in any neighboring state, and it may be necessary to carry him through this state to the place where the offense was committed, any justice, upon application and proof that lawful process has issued against such offender, shall issue a warrant under his hand and seal, directed to any sheriff or his deputy, or to any person by name who shall be sworn to the faithful performance of his duty, authorizing such conveyance.

10. Such person or officer shall cause such offender to be conveyed to the line of this state next to the state where the offense was committed, there to be delivered to some proper officer ready to receive him; and all persons to whom such warrant may be directed are required to obey such order, upon payment or tender of the lawful fees therefor.

11. Any sheriff, deputy sheriff, constable, or other officer of justice of any neighboring state, with his assistants, in the execution of any lawful process issuing from and returnable to any court in such state, may pass himself, and convey such persons or things as he may have in his custody by virtue of such lawful process, through this state, in as full and ample a manner as any officer of this state might do.

12. If a person shall assault or obstruct any officer or his assistant, passing through this state in the execution of any such process, he shall be liable to the same punishment as if such person were an officer of this state.

NEVADA.

(Laws in force January 1, 1904.)

4533. A person charged, in any state or territory of the United States, with treason, felony or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in this state, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the state or territory from which he fled, be delivered up by the governor of this state, to be removed to the state or territory having jurisdiction of the crime.

4534. A magistrate may issue a warrant for the apprehension of a person so charged, who shall flee from justice and be found in this state.

4535. The proceedings for the arrest and commitment of the person charged shall be in all respects similar to those provided in this act for the arrest and commitment of a person charged with a public offense committed within this state, except that an exemplified copy of an indictment found or other judicial proceedings had against him in the state or territory in which he is charged to have committed the offense, may be received as evidence before the magistrate.

4536. If, from the examination, it appear that the person charged has committed treason, felony or other crime charged, the magistrate, by warrant reciting the accusation, shall commit him to the proper custody within his county, for a time to be specified in the warrant, which the magistrate may deem reasonable, to enable the arrest of the fugitive under the warrant of the executive of this state, on the requisition of the executive authority of the state or territory in which he committed the offense, unless he give bail as provided in the next section, or until he be legally discharged.

4537. The magistrate may admit the person arrested to bail by recognizance with sufficient securities and in such sum as he may deem proper for his appearance before him at a time specified in the recognizance, and upon his surrender to be arrested upon the warrant of the governor of this state.

4538. Immediately upon the arrest of the person charged, the magistrate shall give notice to the district attorney of the district of the name of the person and the cause of the arrest.

4539. The district attorney shall immediately thereafter give notice to the executive authority of the state or territory or to the prosecuting attorney, or presiding judge of the criminal court of the city or county, within the state or territory having jurisdiction of the offense, to the end that a demand may be made for the arrest and surrender of the person charged.

4540. The person arrested shall be discharged from custody or bail, unless before the expiration of the time designated in the warrant or recognizance he be arrested under the warrant of the governor of this state.

4541. The magistrate shall make return of his proceedings to the next district court of the county, which shall thereupon inquire into the cause of the arrest and detention of the person charged, and if he be in custody, or the time of his arrest has not elapsed the court may discharge him from detention or may order his recognizance of bail to be cancelled, or may continue his detention for a longer time, or may re-admit him to bail, to appear and surrender himself within a time to be specified in the recognizance.

NEW JERSEY.

(General Statutes 1895, in force January 1, 1904.)

209. That it shall be unlawful to take, or cause or procure to be taken, or to aid or abet in taking, any person or persons from out of this state, whether with or without the consent of such person or persons, for the purpose of answering any criminal charge that may have been preferred against such person or persons in any other state, except upon the warrant or mandate of thegovernor of this state.

210. That if the governor shall be satisfied that the facts in the premises justify the granting of an application for extradition, he shall thereupon issue his warrant or mandate to the sheriffs, under-sheriffs, detectives or constables of the several counties of the state, directing said officers to cause the said person or persons to be apprehended and delivered into the custody of the officer or agent appointed by the governor of the state making such requisition to receive such person or persons.

212. That it shall then be lawful for such officer or agent aforesaid to take such person or persons out of this state, giving a receipt for the body or bodies of such person or persons to the said officer, who shall transmit the same to the prosecutor of the pleas who shall forward the same to the secretary of state.

213. That it shall be lawful for any police justice, recorder, or jusice of the peace, on satisfactory evidence under oath being presented to him that application has been made or is about to be made by the authorities of any other state to the governor of this state for the extradition of any person or persons within the jurisdiction of such magistrate, to issue a warrant or warrants for the arrest of such person or persons and to commit such person or persons to the county jail, or to take bail for his or their appearance from day to day for a period not to exeeed thirty days from the date of the arrest of said person or persons: Provided, That any person or persons who may be so arrested and committed to the county jail shall not be detained or imprisoned for a longer period than thirty days.

214. That any agent or officer or other person appointed by or representing the authorities of any other state who shall violate any of the provisions of this act, or any person or persons who shall aid or abet such agent, officer, or other person in the violation of any of the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than two hundred dollars and not to exceed one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment of not less than four months and not to exceed two years or both, at the discretion of the court.

NEW MEXICO.

(Statutes of 1897, in force January 1, 1904.)

3449. Any person charged in any state or territory of the United States, with treason, felony, or other crime, and who shall escape from justice and be found in this territory, shall be, on a requisition from the executive authority of the state or territory from which he shall have escaped, delivered up by the governor of this territory, in order thay he may be carried to the state or territory that has jurisdiction of said crime.

3450. Any justice of the peace or other authority shall have power to issue a process for the apprehension of any person thus charged, who shall have fled from justice and be found in this territory.

3451. The proceedings for the apprehension and imprisonment of any person charged with a criminal offense, shall be in all respects similar to those proceedings in our code for the apprehension and imprisonment of a person charged with a criminal offense, with the exception that an exemplified copy of the accusation attached to other judicial proceedings had against him in the state or territory in which he may have been charged to have committed the offense, shall be received as conclusive evidence before the justice.

3452. If it should appear, on the examination, that the person accused has committed the crime alleged, the justice, by a written order setting forth the accusation, shall confine him in jail for any time specified in the order that he may deem sufficient in order that the arrest of the fugitive may be made by order of the executive of this territory, upon a requisition of the executive authority of the state or territory in which he shall have committed the offense, unless the accused shall give security, as provided in the following section, or until he shall be legally set at liberty.

3453. It shall be the duty of the justice of the peace unless the offense of which the fugitive is charged shall be proven to be an offense that merits capital punishment according to the laws of the state or territory in which the offense was committed, to admit the person arrested to bail under a bond with sufficient securities in any sum that the justice may deem sufficient for his appearance before him at the time specified in the bond given, and to deliver himself up for the purpose of being arrested upon the requisition of the governor of this territory.

3454. The person so arrested shall be set at liberty under the bond, unless that before the time designated in the order or bond, he shall be arrested under a process from the governor of this territory.

3455. If the fugitive should be set at liberty under bonds, and shall fail to deliver himself up according to his bond, the justice shall endorse on his bond, "forfeited," signing his name to the same, and transmit it to the clerk of the district court by the first day of the next ensuing term, and a conditional judgment shall be rendered thereon, and proceedings had as in case of forfeited bonds in that court, the endorsement of the justice being presumptive evidence of the forfeiture.

3456. At the expiration of the time specified in the process, the justice may set him at liberty or remand him to jail until the following day, or may admit him to bail for his appearance and surrender as provided in section thirty-four hundred and fifty-three; if he shall have given bond and shall appear according to the bonds entered into, the justice may set him at liberty or may require him to give new bonds for his appearance and surrender at any future day.

3457. Any person against whom prosecution shall have been commenced under the laws of this territory for an offense against the law, any such person may be surrendered or not surrendered, at the discretion of the governor, before he shall have been tried, or set at liberty, or if he shall be sentenced or punished for the same.

3459. Such process shall authorize the officer or person to whom it is directed, to arrest the fugitive in any place within the limits of the territory and to require the assistance of all sheriffs and constables to whom the process may be shown, to aid in the execution thereof.

3460. Every officer or person charged with the execution or service of the process, has the same authority to arrest the fugitive, to require assistance to do so, as sheriffs and other officers have by law in the execution of process directed to them, and those who shall refuse to assist them shall be subject to the same penalties.

3461. The officer or person executing such process may, when it shall be necessary, confine the prisoner arrested by him in the jail of any county through which he may pass, and the jailer of said jail shall receive and keep him securely until the person who has him in charge is ready to proceed on his way with him, and said person shall be responsible for the payment of the expenses of his retention in jail.

NEW YORK.

1. It shall be the duty of the governor in all cases where by virtue of a requisition made upon him by the governor of another state or territory, any citizen, inhabitant, or temporary resident of this state is to be arrested as a fugitive from justice provided that said requisition be accompanied by a duly certified copy of the indictment or information from the authorities of such other state or territory charging such person with treason, felony, or other crime in such state or territory, to issue and transmit a warrant for such purpose to the sheriff of the proper county or his under-sheriff or in the cities of this state (except in the city and county of New York, where such warrant shall only be issued to the superintendent or any inspector of police,) to the chiefs, inspectors or superintendents of police, and only such officers as are above mentioned, and such assistants as they may designate to act under their direction, shall be competent to make service of or execute the same. The governor may direct that any such fugitive be brought before him, and may for cause by him deemed proper revoke any warrant issued by him as herein provided. The officer to whom is directed and intrusted the execution of the governor's warrant must, within thirty days from its date, unless sooner requested, return the same and make return to the governor of all his proceedings had thereunder, and of all facts and circumstances relating thereto. Any officer of this state, or of any city, county, town or village thereof must, upon request of the governor, furnish him with such information as he may desire in regard to any person or matter mentioned in this chapter.

Before any officer to whom such warrant shall be directed or intrusted shall deliver the person arrested into the custody of the agent or agents named in the warrant of the governor of this state, such officer must, unless the same be waived as hereinafter stated, take the prisoner or prisoners before a judge of the Supreme Court, of any superior city court, or the presiding judge of a court of sessions, who shall, in open court if in session, otherwise at chambers, inform the prisoner or prisoners of the cause of his or their arrest, the nature of the process, and instruct him or them that if he or they claim not to be the particular person or persons mentioned in said requisition, indictment, affidavit, or warrant annexed thereto, or in the warrant issued by the governor thereon, he or they may have a writ of habeas corpus upon filing an affidavit to that effect. Said person or persons so arrested may in writing, consent to waive the right to be taken before said court or a judge thereof at chambers. Such consent or waiver shall be witnessed by the officer intrusted with the execution of the warrant of the governor and one of the judges aforesaid or a counsellor at law of this state, and such waiver shall be immediately forwarded to the governor by the officer who executed said warrant. If after a summary hearing as speedily as may be consistent with justice, the prisoner or prisoners shall be found to be the person or persons indicted or informed against, and mentioned in the requisition, the accompanying papers, and the warrant issued by the governor thereon, then the court or judge shall order and direct the officer intrusted with the execution of the said warrant of the governor to deliver the prisoner or prisoners into the custody of the agent or agents designated in the requisition and the warrant issued thereon, as the agent or agents upon the part of such state to receive him or them; otherwise to be discharged from custody by the court or judge.

If upon such hearing the warrant of the governor shall appear to be defective or improperly executed, it shall be by the court or judge returned to the governor, together with a statement of the defect or defects, for the purpose of being corrected and returned to the court or judge, and such hearing shall be adjourned a sufficient time for the purpose, and in such interval the prisoner or prisoners shall be held in custody until such hearing be finally disposed of.

It shall not be lawful for any person, agent, or officer to take any person or persons out of this state upon the claim, ground or pretext that the prisoner or prisoners consent to go, or by reason of his or their willingness to waive the proceedings afore described, and any officer, agent, person, or persons who shall procure, incite or aid in the arrest of any citizen, inhabitant, or temporary resident of this state, for the purpose of taking him or sending him to another state, without a requisition first duly had and obtained, and without a warrant duly issued by the governor of this state, served by some officer as in this section provided, and without, except in case of waiver in writing as aforesaid, taking him before a court or judge as aforesaid, unless in pursuance to the provisions of the following sections of this chapter, and any officer, agent, person or persons who shall by threats or undue influence, pursuade any citizen inhabitant, or temporary resident of this state to sign the waiver of his right to go before a court or judge as hereinbefore provided, or who shall do any of the acts declared by this chapter to be unlawful, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction be sentenced to imprisonment in a state prison or penitentiary for the term of one year.

Any wilful violation of this act by any of the above-named officers shall be deemed a misdemeanor in office.

2. A magistrate may issue a warrant as a preliminary proceeding to the issuing of a requisition by the governor of another state or territory upon the governor of this state for the apprehension of a person charged with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found within this state.

3. The proceedings for the arrest and commitment of the person charged are in all respects similar to those provided in this code for the arrest and commitment of a person charged with a public offense committed in this state, except that an exemplified copy of an indictment found, or other judicial proceeding had against him, in the state or territory in which he is charged to have committed the offense, may be received as evidence before the magistrate.

If, from the examination, it appear that the person charged has committed the crime alleged, the magistrate by warrant reciting the accusation, must commit him to the proper custody in his county for a time specified in the warrant, which the magistrate deems reasonable to enable the arrest of the fugitive under the warrant of the executive of this state, on the requisition of the executive authority of the state or territory in which he committed the offense, unless he give bail, as provided in the next section, or until he be legally discharged.

A judge of the Supreme Court may admit the person arrested to bail, by an undertaking with sufficient sureties and in such sum as he deems proper, for his appearance before him at a time specified in the undertaking, and for his surrender to be arrested upon the warrant of the governor of this state.

4. If from the examination under such warrant it appears to the satisfaction of the magistrate that the person under arrest is charged in such other state or territory with treason, felony or other crime, and has fled from justice, the magistrate, by warrant reciting the accusation, must commit him to the proper custody in his county for a time specified in the warrant to enable an arrest of the fugitive to be made under the warrant of the governor of this state, which commitment shall not exceed thirty days, exclusive of the day of arrest, on the requisition of the executive authority of the state or territory in which he is charged to have committed the offense unless he give bail, as provided in the next section, or until he be legally discharged.

5. Any judge of any court named in section one may in his discretion admit the person arrested to bail by an undertaking with sufficient sureties and in such sum as he deems proper, for his appearance before him at a time specified in the undertaking, which must not be later than the expiration of thirty days from the date of arrest, exclusive of such date and for his surrender to be arrested upon the warrant of the governor of this state.

6. Immediately upon the arrest of the person charged, the magistrate must give notice to the district attorney of the county, of the name of the person and the cause of his arrest.

7. The district attorney must immediately thereafter give notice to the executive authority of the state or territory, or to the prosecuting attorney or presiding judge of the criminal court of the city or county therein having jurisdiction of the offense, to the end that a demand may be made for the arrest and surrender of the person charged.

8. The person arrested must be discharged from custody or bail unless, before the expiration of the time designated in the warrant or undertaking, he be arrested under the warrant of the governor of this state.

NORTH CAROLINA.

(Criminal Code 1899, in force January 1, 1904.)

178. Any justice of the Supreme Court, or any judge of the superior court or of any criminal court, or any justice of the peace, or mayor of any city or chief magistrate of any incorporated town, on satisfactory information laid before him that any fugitive in the state has committed, out of the state and within the United States, any offense which, by law of the state in which the offense was committed, is punishable either capitally or by imprisonment for one year or upwards in any state prison, shall have full power and authority, and is hereby required, to issue a warrant for said fugitive and commit him to any jail within the state for the space of six months, unless sooner demanded by the public authorities of the state wherein the offense may have been committed, pursuant to the Act of Congress in that case made and provided; if no demand be made within that time, the said fugitive shall be liberated, unless sufficient cause be shown to the contrary.

179. Every magistrate committing any person under the preceding section shall keep a record of the whole proceedings before him, and immediately transmit a copy thereof to the governor, for such action as he may deem fit therein under the law.

180. The governor shall immediately inform the governor of the state or territory in which the crime is alleged to have been committed, or the President of the United States if it be alleged to have been committed within the District of Columbia, of the proceedings had in such case.

181. Every sheriff or jailer in whose custody any person so committed shall be, upon the order of the governor shall surrender him to the person named in such order.

182 relates to rewards and expenses for recovery of criminals who have fled from North Carolina.

NORTH DAKOTA.

(Code of 1899, in force January 1, 1904.)

North Dakota code the same as the California code from section 1547 to 1558, with the following additions:

8492. Any person who is arrested within this state by virtue of a warrant issued by the governor of this state upon a requisition of the governor of any other state or territory as a fugitive from justice, under the laws of the United States, shall not be delivered to the agent of such state or territory until notified of the demand made for his surrender, and given twenty-four hours to make demand for counsel; and should such demand be made for the purpose of suing out a writ of habaes corpus, the prisoner shall be forthwith taken to the nearest judge of the district court, and ample time given to sue out such writ, such time to be determined by the said judge of the district court.

8493. Any officer who shall deliver such person to such agent for extradition without first having complied with the provisions of the preceding section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

OHIO.

(Bates' Annotated Statutes, in force January 1, 1904.)

95. The governor, in any case authorized by the Constitution of the United States, may, on demand, deliver over to the executive authority of any other state or territory, any person charged therein with treason, felony or other crime committed therein, and he may, on application, appoint an agent to demand of the executive authority of any other state or territory any person charged with felony who has fled from justice in this state; but such demand or application must be accompanied by sworn evidence that the party charged is a fugitive from justice, and that the demand or application is made in good faith, for the punishment of crime, and not for the purpose of collecting a debt or pecuniary mulct, or of removing the alleged fugitive to a foreign jurisdiction with a view there to serve him with civil process; and also by a duly attested copy of an indictment or an information, or duly attested copy of a complaint made before a court or magistrate authorized to take the same, such complaint to be accompanied by an affidavit or affidavits to the facts constituting the offense charged by persons having actual knowledge thereof; the same shall also be accompanied by a statement in writing from the prosecuting attorney of the proper county, who shall briefly set forth all the facts of the case, the reputation of the party or parties asking such requisition, and whether, in his opinion, such requisition is sought from improper motives, or in good faith to enforce the criminal laws of Ohio, and such further evidence in support thereof as the governor may require. Fugitive convicts shall also be so surrendered and demanded upon sworn evidence, duly authenticated, satisfactory to the governor. For issuing such requisition, fees not to exceed five dollars may be charged.

96. When such demand or application is made, the attorney general or the prosecuting attorney of any county shall, if the governor requires it, forthwith investigate the grounds thereof, and report to the governor all the material facts which may come to his knowledge, with an abstract of the evidence in the case, and, especially in case of a person demanded, whether he is held in custody or is under recognizance to answer for any offense against the laws of this state, or by force of any civil process, with an opinion as to the legality and necessity of complying with the demand or application.

97. If in case of demand for surrender of a person charged with an offense committed in another state or territory, the governor decides that it is proper to comply with the demand, he shall issue a warrant to the sheriff of the county in which such person so charged may be found commanding him forthwith to arrest and bring such person before a judge of the Supreme Court, of the circuit court or of the common pleas court, to be examined on the charge; and upon the return of the warrant by the sheriff, with the person so charged in custody, the judge before whom the person so arrested is brought and to whom the warrant is returned, shall proceed to hear and examine such charge, and upon proof made in such examination, by him adjudged sufficient, shall commit such person to the jail of the county in which such examination is so had, for a reasonable time to be fixed by the judge in the order of commitment, and thereupon shall cause notice to be given to the executive authority making such demand, or to the duly authorized agent of such executive authority appointed to receive the fugitive; and on payment of all costs, and the depositing of a sum of money with the clerk of such court, equal to ten cents a mile from the place where such arrest has been made, to the proper place for the prosecution of such supposed fugitive by such agent, such fugitive shall be delivered to him to be thence removed to the proper place for prosecution; and if such agent does not appear within the time so fixed and pay the costs and make such deposit, the sheriff shall discharge the person so imprisoned. In case the supposed fugitive should not be found guilty of the crime charged in the warrant for his arrest, such deposit shall be paid to him but upon the conviction of such fugitive of the crime so charged, such sum shall be paid to the agent making the deposit.

98. Whenever it shall be made to appear to the governor by sworn evidence, in writing that any person has committed any crime within the State of Ohio, for which by the provisions of any law of the United States, or of any treaty between the United States and any foreign government, such person may be delivered to the United States, or its authorities by any such foreign government or its authorities, and that such person is a fugitive from justice of the State of Ohio and may be found within the territory of any such foreign government, it shall be the duty of the governor under the great seal of Ohio to request the President of the United States or the Secretary of State of the United States, to take any steps necessary for the extradition of such person from such foreign territory, and his delivery to any agent of the State of Ohio whom the governor may appoint to receive him, or to the proper officer of the county within which he may be charged with such crime: Provided, That before any such request be made by the governor, he shall be satisfied by sworn evidence, in writing, that such extradition is sought in good faith for the punishment of such crime only and not for the purpose of collecting a debt or pecuniary mulct, nor of bringing the alleged fugitive within the State of Ohio with the view to serve him with civil process, or with criminal process other than for the crime for the commission of which his extradition may be sought.

99. When an affidavit is filed before a judge of a court of common pleas, or a judge of probate or police court, or a justice of the peace, setting forth that a person charged with the commission of an offense against the laws of any other state, or of any of the territories of the United States, and which, if the act had been committed in this state, would, by the laws thereof, have been a crime, is, at the time of filing such affidavit, within the county where the same is filed, such judge or justice of the peace shall issue his warrant, directed to the sheriff or any constable of the county, commanding him forthwith to arrest and bring before him the person so charged.

100. When a person is arrested in pursuance of the preceding section and brought before the officer who issued the warrant, the officer shall hear and examine such charge, and, upon proof by him adjudged to be sufficient, commit such person to the jail of the county in which such examination is had, or cause him to be delivered to a suitable person to be removed before any such judge or justice of the proper county in which to take such examination, who shall take the same, and proceed as if the warrant had been issued by him.

101. When a person is committed to jail by a judge or justice of the peace, under the preceding section, such judge or justice of the peace shall forthwith give notice, by letter or otherwise, to the sheriff of the county in which such offense was committed, or to the person injured by such offense; and no person so committed shall be detained longer in jail than is necessary to allow a reasonable time to the persons so notified, after they receive such notice, to apply for and obtain the proper requisition for the person so committed.

OKLAHOMA.

(Annotated Statutes of 1903.)

Sections 5691 to 5700 same as sections 1547 to 1556 in the California code.

5701. Any person who is arrested within this territory, by virtue of a warrant issued by the governor of this territory, upon a requisition of the governor of any other state or territory as a fugitive from justice under the laws of the United States, shall not be delivered to the agent of such state or territory until notified of the demand made for his surrender, and given twenty-four hours to make demand for counsel; and should such demand be made for the purpose of suing out a writ of habeas corpus, the prisoner shall be forthwith taken to the nearest judge of the district court, and ample time given to sue out such writ, such time to be determined by the said judge of the district court.

5702. Any officer who shall deliver such person to such agent for extradition without first having complied with the provisions of the preceding section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

Sections 5703 and 5704 the same as sections 1557 and 1558 of the California code.

5705. A violation of the last section is a misdemeanor.

OREGON.

(Bellinger & Cotton's Annotated Codes 1902.)

1718. Whenever a person charged with treason, felony or other crime, in this state, shall flee from justice, the governor of this state may appoint an agent to demand such fugitive of the executive authority of any state or territory of the United States in which he may be found.

1719. Before appointing such agent, the governor may require the district attorney of the county to investigate the matter and report to him the material circumstances, together with his opinion upon the expediency of allowing the application.

1720. The account of the agent, embracing his actual expenses incurred in performing the service, must be paid by the state, after being audited and allowed as other claims against the state.

1721. A person charged in any state or territory of the United States with treason, felony or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in this state, must, on demand of the executive authority of the state or territory from which he fled, be delivered up by the governor of this state, to be removed to the state or territory making the demand.

1722. When the person demanded is in custody in this state, either upon a criminal charge, an indictment for a crime, or a judgment upon a conviction thereof, he cannot be delivered up until he is legally discharged from such custody; but if he be in custody upon civil process only, the governor may deliver him up or not before the termination of such custody, as he may deem most conducive to the public good.

1723. Before issuing a warrant for the delivery of a fugitive from justice, the governor may require the district attorney of the county to ascertain and report to him whether such fugitive is in custody as mentioned in the last section, and if he be so upon civil process only, whether such custody be with the consent or procurement of the fugitive.

1724. When the governor finds that the demand is conformable to law, and the person demanded should be given up, either then or at some future time, if he be in custody, he must issue his warrant, under the seal of the state and attested by the Secretary of State, directed to the person who makes the the demand, and authorizing him, either forthwith or at some future time therein designated, to take and transport the fugitive to the border line of the state.

1725. The executive warrant must also require all peace officers and magistrates, when requested by the person to whom the warrant is directed, to render all needful assistance in the execution thereof, and in so doing, such officers or magistrates may exercise the same power and authority to prevent a rescue, an escape, or to effect a recapture, as if the fugitive was in arrest upon a charge of crime committed in this state.

1726. A magistrate authorized to issue a warrant of arrest may issue a warrant for the arrest of a person charged as provided in section 1721 who shall flee from justice and be found in this state.

1727. The proceedings for the arrest and commitment of the person charged are in all respects similar to those provided in this code for the arrest and commitment of a person charged with a crime committed in this state, except that an exemplified copy of an indictment found, or other judicial proceedings had against him, in the state or territory in which he is charged to have committed the crime, may be received as evidence before the magistrate.

1728. If, from the examination, it appear that the person charged has committed the crime alleged, the magistrate must commit him to the proper custody in his county for a time, specified in the commitment, which the magistrate deems reasonable, to enable the arrest of the fugitive under the warrant of the executive authority of the state, on the requisition of the executive authority of the state or territory in which he committed the crime, or until he be legally discharged, unless he give bail as provided in the next section.

1729. The magistrate may admit the person arrested to bail by an undertaking, with sufficient sureties and in such an amount as he deems proper, for his appearance before him at a time specified in the undertaking, and for his surrender to be arrested upon the warrant of the governor of this state.

1730. Immediately upon the commitment of the person charged, the magistrate must inform the governor of this state of the name of the person, the cause of the arrest, and his commitment, and the governor must thereupon give the like notice to the executive authority of the state or territory having jurisdiction of the crime, to the end that a demand may be made for the arrest and surrender of the person charged.

1731. The person arrested must be discharged from custody or bail unless, before the expiration of the time designated in the warrant or undertaking, he be arrested under the warrant of the governor of this state.

1732. The person making the complaint to the magistrate is liable for the costs and expenses of the proceeding, and for the support in the jail of the person so committed; and unless he advance to the jailer, from week to week during the commitment a sum sufficient for such support, the jailer may, upon the order of any magistrate of the county, discharge such person from custody.

1733. The county may offer reward of not to exceed one thousand dollars for apprehension of fugitives from justice who have committed felony or been convicted in the county.

1734. County court authorized to pay the reward.

1735. Clerk may issue warrant on proper showing.

1736. If the sheriff of any other county than the one where said crime was committed apprehend the said criminal, he shall elect to receive either the reward offered or the regular fees allowed him by law for such service.

PENNSYLVANIA.

(Brightly's Purdon's Digest 1894, in force January 1, 1904.)

1. It shall be the duty of the governor of this commonwealth, in all cases where, by virtue of a requisition made upon him by the governor of another state or territory, any citizen, inhabitant or temporary resident of this commonwealth is to be arrested as a fugitive from justice, [Provided, That the said requisition be accompanied with a certified copy of the indictment or information from the authorities of such other state or territory, charging such person with any crime in such state or territory,] to issue and transmit a warrant for such purpose to the sheriff of the proper county, or other officer authorized by law to execute warrants, in which the requisition describes the party or parties to be residing or domiciled; and the sheriff or the deputy sheriff or other officer, as aforesaid, of the county shall alone be competent to make service of the same.

2. Before the sheriff or his deputy or other officer, as aforesaid, shall deliver the person arrested into the custody of the officer or officers named in the requisition, it shall be the duty of the sheriff or other officer, as aforesaid, to take the prisoner or prisoners before a judge of a court of record, who shall, in open court, if in session, or otherwise at chambers, inform the prisoner or prisoners of the cause of his or their arrest, the nature of the process, and instruct him or them that if he or they claim not to be the particular person or persons mentioned in said requisition, indictment, or affidavit before a magistrate of said other state or territory, charging said person with some crime, and warrant of arrest, he or they may have a writ of habeas corpus upon filing an affidavit to that effect: Provided, however, The investigation and hearing under said writ shall be limited to the question of identification, and shall not enter into the merits or facts of the charge or indictment, or information, accompanying or referred to in the requisition; and if, after due hearing, the prisoner or prisoners shall be found to be the parties indicted or informed against and mentioned in the requisition or warrant, then the court shall order and direct the sheriff or other officer, as aforesaid, to deliver the prisoner or prisoners, into the custody of the officer designated in the requisition as the agent on the part of such state to receive him or them, otherwise to be discharged from custody by the court.

3. It shall not be lawful for any person or officer to take any person or persons out of this commonwealth upon the ground that the prisoner or prisoners consent to go, or by reason of his or their willingness to waive the proceedings afore described; and any person or persons who shall arrest or procure the arrest of any citizen, inhabitant or temporary resident of this commonwealth for the purpose of taking him or sending him to another state, without a requisition first had and obtained, accompanied by a certified copy of the indictment or information, and without a warrant issued by or under the direction of the governor of this commonwealth, served by the sheriff or his deputy, and without first taking him before a judge of the court of record, as aforesaid, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction be sentenced to one year's imprisonment.

4. Any violation of this Act on the part of the sheriff or his deputy or other officer, as aforesaid, shall be deemed a misdemeanor in office.

5. That nothing in this Act shall be construed to prevent the sheriff of any county, or chief of police of any city, or other person, to cause the arrest of any person or persons upon information of the offense or crime committed in another state, and that a warrant has there been issued for the arrest of the said party or parties, or has there been indicted: Provided, The officers of any town, city or county, or authorities of such other state or territory, shall procure a requisition, and have the same presented to the governor of this commonwealth, within fifteen days after the arrest shall have been made, and the prisoner or prisoners, upon being arrested or detained, shall be brought before a court or judge in the manner and for the purpose provided in the second section of this Act: Provided, Such person shall not be committed or held to bail for a longer period than fifteen days exclusive of the day of arrest, at the expiration of which time, if the sheriff has not received the requisition or warrant from the governor of this commonwealth, then the person or persons so arrested and detained shall be discharged from custody.

6. Any person giving false information under this Act, with intent to injure any person or deprive him of his liberty, shall be liable to the penalties of the third section of this Act.

RHODE ISLAND.

(General Laws of 1896, in force January 1, 1904.)

1. Whenever any person shall be found within this state charged with an offense committed in any other state or territory, and be liable by the Constitution and laws of the United States to be delivered over upon the demand of any executive of any other state or territory any court authorized to issue warrants in criminal cases may, upon complaint under oath, setting forth the crime or offense, and such other matters as are necessary to bring the case within the provisions of law, issue his warrant to bring the person so charged before the same or some other court within the state, to answer such complaint as in other cases.

2. If upon the examination of any person so charged, it shall appear that there is reasonable cause to believe the complaint true, and that such person may be lawfully demanded of the executive of this state, he shall, if charged with an offense bailable by such magistrate, when committed within this state, be required to recognize in a reasonable sum with sufficient sureties to appear before such court at some future day, allowing a reasonable time to obtain a warrant from the said executive, and to abide the order of such magistrate on such complaint.

3. If such person shall not so recognize he shall be committed to jail, and be there detained until he gives such recognizance or until such day.

4. If he shall recognize and shall fail to appear according to the conditions of his recognizance, he shall be defaulted, and like proceedings shall be had as in case of other recognizances entered into before a magistrate.

5. If such person shall be charged with an offense not bailable by such court when committed within this state, he shall be committed to prison and there detained until the day appointed for his appearance before such court, but in such case the said person shall be bailable in the same manner as he would be if such offense had been committed in this state.

6. If the person so recognized or committed shall appear before such court upon the day appointed, he shall be discharged unless he shall be demanded by some person authorized by a warrant of the executive to receive him: Provided, That whether such person so charged be recognized, committed, or discharged, any person authorized by a warrant from the executive of this state may at all times take him into custody, and the same shall be a discharge of the recognizance, if any, and shall not be deemed an escape.

7. No warrant shall be issued in pursuance of the provisions of section one of this chapter until the complainant shall have given recognizance with surety, in such sum as the court shall approve and direct to pay all the costs that may accrue thereon, including the board of the person complained of, if committed to jail, nor shall any such warrant supersede any arrest, either on civil or criminal process theretofore made, supersede any arrest made on any such warrant or on any warrant issued by the executive of this state in such cases.

8. Sheriffs, deputy-sheriffs, constables, and other officers of the adjoining states, with their assistants in the legal execution of any writ, warrant or other process issuing from and returnable to courts in their respective states, shall have full liberty, power and authority to pass and repass, and also to convey such persons or things as they may legally have in their custody by virtue of any writ or warrant in or by any of the roads or ways lying in or leading through any of the towns or lands of this state, in as full, free, and ample manner as the officers of justice in this state do use and exercise in the discharge of their duty and office.

9. Every person who shall obstruct any such officer of any of the United States in such execution of his office, while he is passing through any of the lands or roads of this state shall be subject to the same pains and penalties as persons would by law be subject to for obstructing similar officers of justice of this state in the due execution of their office.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

(Criminal Code, 1902.)

5. Any officer in the state aurthorized by law to issue warrants for the arrest of person charged with crime, shall, on satisfactory information laid before him under the oath of any credible person, that any fugitive in the state has committed out of the state and within any other state, any offense which by the laws of the state in which the offense was committed is punishable, either capitally or by imprisonment for one year or upwards in any state prison, shall have full power and authority, and is hereby required, to issue a warrant for said fugitive, and commit him to any jail within the state for the space of twenty days, unless sooner demanded by the public authorities of the state wherein the offense may have been committed, agreeable to the Act of Congress in that case made and provided; if no demand be made within the time, the said fugitive shall be liberated, unless sufficient cause be shown to the contrary: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to deprive any person so arrested of the right to release on bail, as in cases of similar character of offenses against the laws of this state.

6. Every officer committing any person under this section shall keep a record of the whole proceedings before him, and immediately transmit a copy thereof to the governor of this state for such action as he may deem fit therein under the law.

7. The governor of this state shall immediately inform the governor of the state in which the crime is alleged to have been committed of the proceedings had in such case.

8. Every sheriff or jailer, in whose custody any person committed under this section shall be, upon the order of the governor of this state, shall surrender him to the person named in said order for that purpose.

8915. Provides that agents of the State of South Dakota shall receive $3.00 per day actual traveling expenses and no more.

Otherwise the code is the same as North Dakota.

TENNESSEE.

(Code of 1896, in force January 1, 1904.)

7318. The governor may appoint an agent to demand of the executive authority of any other state or territory any fugitive from justice or other person charged with treason, felony or other crime in this state.

7319. Such agent may, if necessary, employ a sufficient guard or escort to bring such criminal to this state, and contract other expenses absolutely required in performing the duties of the agency.

7320. The expenses thus necessarily incurred, and reasonable compensation to such agent, guard and escort, shall be paid by the treasurer, upon the warrant of the governor.

7321. Whenever a demand is made upon the governor of this state by the executive of any other state or territory, in any case authorized by the Constitution and laws of the United States, for the delivery of any person charged in such state or territory with any crime, if such person is not held in custody or under bail to answer for any offense against the laws of the United States or of this State, he shall issue a warrant for the apprehension of such person.

7322. The warrant shall be under the seal of the state, and authorize the agent who makes the demand, either forthwith or at such time as may be therein designated, to take and transport such person to the line of this state, at the expense of such agent, and may also require all peace officers to afford needful assistance in the execution thereof.

7323. If any person be found in this state charged with any crime committed in any other state or territory, and liable by the Constitution and laws of the United States to be delivered over upon the demand of the governor thereof, any magistrate may, upon complaint on oath, setting forth the offense and such other matters as are necessary to bring the case within the provisions of law, issue a warrant to arrest such person.

7324. If, upon examination, it appear that there is reasonable cause to believe the complaint true, and that such person may be lawfully demanded of the governor, he shall, if not charged with an offense punished capitally by the laws of the state in which it was committed, be required to give bail by bond or undertaking with sufficient security, in a reasonable sum, to appear before such magistrate at a future day specified, allowing sufficient time to obtain the warrant from the governor, and abide the order of such magistrate in the premises.

7325. If such person does not give bail, or if he is charged with a capital offense, he shall be committed to prison, and there detained until such day, in like manner as if the offense charged had been committed within this state.

7326. If such person appear before the magistrate upon the day specified, he shall be discharged unless he is demanded under warrant of the governor, or unless the magistrate see good cause to commit him to some other day, or to require him to give bail for his appearance at such day, to await a warrant from the governor.

7328. Whether the person so charged be bound to appear, be committed or discharged, any person authorized by the warrant of the governor may at any time take him into custody, and such apprehension is a discharge of the bond or undertaking, if there be one.

7329. The complainant in any such case is answerable for all costs and charges, and for the support in prison of any person so committed, and the magistrate, before issuing his warrant, shall require him to give security for the payment of such costs, or may require them to be paid in advance to the officers entitled.

7330. And no jailer is bound to receive any person committed under a warwant issued by virtue of the provisions of this chapter until his jail fees for the time specified in such warrant are paid in advance.

7331. But the officer or person executing such warrant may, when necessary, by paying the jail fees in advance, or otherwise securing them to the satisfaction of the jailer, confine the prisoner arrested by him in the jail of any county through which he may pass; and the jailer, in such case, shall receive and safely keep the prisoner until the person having charge of him is ready to proceed on his route.

TEXAS.

(Criminal Code, 1888, in force January 1, 1904.)

1022. A person charged in any other state or territory of the United States with treason, felony or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in this state, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the state or territory from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the state or territory having jurisdiction of the crime.

1023. It is declared to be the duty of all judicial and peace officers of the state to give aid in the arrest and detention of a fugitive from any other state or territory, that he may be held subject to a requisition by the governor of the state or territory from which he may have escaped.

1024. Whenever complaint on oath is made to a magistrate that any person within his jurisdiction is a fugitive from justice from another state or territory, it is his duty to issue a warrant of arrest for the apprehension of the person accused.

1025. The complaint shall be sufficient if it recite:

(1) The name of the person accused.

(2) The state or territory from which he has fled.

(3) The offense committed by the accused.

(4) That he has fled to this state from the state or territory where the offense was committed.

(5) That the act alleged to have been committed by the accused is a violation of the penal law of the state or territory from which he fled.

1026. The warrant of a magistrate to arrest a fugitive from justice shall direct a peace officer to apprehend the person accused and bring him before such magistrate.

1027. When the person accused is brought before the magistrate he shall hear proof, and if satisfied that the defendant is charged in another state or territory with the offense named in the complaint he shall require of him bail, with good and sufficient security in such amount as such magistrate may deem reasonable, to appear before such magistrate at a specified time; and in default of such bail he may commit the defendant to jail to await a requisition from the governor of the state or territory from which he fled.

1028. A properly certified transcript of an indictment against the accused shall be evidence to show that he is charged with the crime alleged.

1029. A person arrested under the provisions of this title shall not be committed or held to bail for a longer time than ninety days.

1030. The magistrate by whose authority a fugitive from justice has been held to bail or committed shall immediately notify the Secretary of State of the facts, stating in such notice the name of such fugitive, the state or territory from which he is a fugitive, the crime with which he is charged, and the date when he was committed or held to bail. Such notice may be forwarded either through the mail or by telegraph.

1031. The magistrate shall also immediately notify the district or county attorney of his county of the facts of the case, who shall forthwith give notice of such facts to the executive authority of the state or territory from which the accused is charged to have fled.

1032. The secretary of state upon receiving information as provided in article 1030 shall forthwith communicate such information by telegraph when practicable or, if not practicable, by mail, to the executive authority of the proper state or territory.

1033. If the accused is not arrested under a warrant from the governor of this state before the expiration of ninety days from the day of his commitment or the date of his bail-bond he shall be discharged.

1034. A person who shall have been once arrested under the provisions of this title, and discharged under the provisions of the preceding article or by habeas corpus shall not be again arrested upon a charge of the same offense, except by a warrant from the governor of this state.

1036. The person commissioned by the governor to bear a requisition for a fugitive from justice to another state or territory, shall be paid out of the state treasury a reasonable compenstation for his services, to be paid upon the certificate of the governor specifying the services rendered and the amount allowed therefor.

1037. The governor may, whenever he deems it proper offer a reward for the apprehension of any person accused of a felony, in this state and who is evading an arrest.

1038 and 1039 provide for the payment of the reward.

UTAH.

(Statutes of 1898.)

Same as North Dakota.

VERMONT.

(Laws of 1894, in force January 1, 1904.)

2039. A person who is arrested in this state by virtue of a warrant issued by the governor of this state upon a requisition of the governor of any other state, as a fugitive from justice under the laws of the United States, shall not be delivered to the agent of such state until notified of the demand made for his surrender, and given opportunity to apply for a writ of habeas corpus if he claim such right of the officer making the arrest within twenty-four hours after being notified of the demand made for his surrender.

2040. An officer who delivers such person to such agent for extradition without having complied with the provisions of the preceding section, shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars.

2041. If a justice has reason to suspect that the crime of murder, or assault with intent to commit murder, or piracy, arson, robbery, forgery or the utterance of forged paper, has been committed within the county in which such justice has jurisdiction, and that the person who committed said crime is in the territory of Great Britain or the dependencies thereof, such justice shall summon before him any person having knowledge respecting the commission of such crime, who shall thereupon make his deposition in writing before said justice, of the facts within his knowledge as to the commission of such crime; and such deposition shall be kept on file in the office of the justice.

2042. If upon the taking of such depositions the justice is of the opinion that the same contain sufficient ground to warrant the apprehension and detention for trial of the person suspected of such crime he shall issue his warrant for the apprehension of such suspected person in the same form as in complaints made by town grand jurors.

2043. Proceedings in such cases may also be had in the manner heretofore provided by law.

2044. Sheriffs shall receive a person charged with crime delivered to them by an officer of another state having a warrant from proper authority for delivering such person, and shall forthwith take such person before a justice for examination.

2045. The authorities of the state of New York shall have the same power and authority to detain and transport through the territory of this state, persons convicted of offenses and sentenced to be confined in the penitentiary in the State of New York which they have to detain and transport them in said state.

VIRGINIA.

(General Laws, in force January 1, 1904.)

4188. The governor shall, whenever required by the executive authority of the United States, pursuant to the Constitution and laws thereof, deliver over to justice any person found within the state who is charged with having committed any crime without the jurisdiction of the United States.

4189. The governor, though not so required, may, in his discretion, deliver over to justice any person found within the state who is charged with having committed, without the jurisdiction of the United States, any crime, except treason, which by the laws of this state, if committed therein, is punishable by death or confinement in the penitentiary; such delivery shall only be made on the requisition of the duly authorized officers or agents of the government within the jurisdiction of which the crime is charged to have been committed; and the governor shall require such evidence of the guilt of the person so charged as would be necessary to justify his apprehension and commitment for trial had the crime charged been committed within this state. The expense of apprehension and delivery shall be defrayed by those to whom the delivery is made.

4190. Any person charged in another state of this Union with treason, felony or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found within this state, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the state from which he fled, made in the manner prescribed by the Constitution and laws of the United States, be delivered up according to said Constitution and laws, to be removed to the state having jurisdiction of the crime.

4192. If it shall appear to the justice before whom the person charged is brought that there is reasonable cause to believe that the complaint is true, he shall, if he would have been bailable by a justice in case the offense had been committed in this state, be required to enter into a recognizance, with sufficient surety, in a reasonable sum, to appear before the court of the county or corporation of the justice before whom he is brought at a future day, allowing a reasonable time to obtain the warrant of the executive, and to abide the order of the court; and if such person do not enter into such recognizance he shall be committed to jail, and be there detained until such day. The recognizance, if any, shall be returned to the said court without delay; and if the person entering into the recognizance fail to appear according to the conditions thereof, his default shall be entered of record, and the like proceedings be had as in the case of other recognizances entered into before a justice; but if such person would not have been bailable by a justice in case the offense had been committed in this state, he shall be committed to jail, and there detained until the day so appointed for his appearance before the court.

4193. The justice by whom such person is so recognized or committed shall immediately by letter apprise the governor of the fact, who shall thereupon communicate the same to the executive of the state where the crime is charged to have been committed.

4195. The complainant in such case shall be answerable for all the actual costs and charges, and for the support, in jail, of any person so committed to be paid in the same manner as by a creditor for his debtor committed on execution; and if the charge for his support in jail shall not be so paid, the jailer may discharge him in like manner as if he had been committed for debt on an execution.

4196. No person under prosecution for any offense alleged to be committed within this state shall be delivered up to the executive authority of another state, or of the United States, until such prosecution shall have been determined and the person prosecuted shall have been punished, if condemned; nor shall any person, under recognizance to appear as a witness in any such prosecution, be so delivered up until said prosecution be determined. Nor shall any person who was in custody upon any execution, or upon process in any suit, at the time of his arrest for a crime charged to have been committed without the jurisdiction of this state, be so delivered up, without the consent of the plaintiff in such execution or suit, until the amount of such execution shall have been paid, or until such person shall be otherwise discharged from such execution or process.

4197. The governor may offer a reward for apprehending and securing any person convicted of an offense or charged therewith who shall have escaped from prison, or for apprehending and securing, any person charged with an offense, who there is reason to fear cannot be arrested in the common course of proceedings. But no such reward shall be paid to any sheriff, sergeant or other officer, who arrests such person by virtue of any process in his hands to be executed. The governor may also offer a reward for the detection and conviction of the person guilty of an offense, when such offense has been committed, but the person guilty thereof is unknown.

4198. The governor shall not grant a pardon in any case before conviction. In any case in which he shall exercise the power conferred on him by the constitution to commute capital punishment, he may issue his order to the superintendent of the penitentiary, requiring him to receive and confine, and the superintendent shall receive and confine in the penitentiary, according to such order, the person whose punishment is commuted. To carry into effect any commutation of punishment, the governor may issue his warrant directed to any proper officer, and the same shall be obeyed and executed.

4199. The governor shall not remit in whole or in part, any fine or amercement assessed or imposed by any court of record, court-martial, or other authority having jurisdiction to assess or impose the same, except as follows:

4200. Whenever judgment shall have been rendered against any person for a contempt of court, other than for non-performance of or disobedience to some order, decree, or judgment, the governor shall have power to pardon the offense and remit the punishment whether corporal or pecuniary, either in whole or in part.

4201. Any officer, to whom any order or warrant of the governor is directed, shall make return thereof to the secretary of the commonwealth, who shall preserve the same in his office.

WASHINGTON.

2034. The governor of this state may appoint agents to demand of the executive authority of any state or territory any fugitive from justice, or any other person charged with felony or any other crime in this state, and whenever an application shall be made to the governor for that purpose the prosecuting attorney, when required by the governor, shall forthwith investigate the ground of such application and report to the governor all material circumstances which may come to his knowledge, with an abstract of the evidence and his opinion as to the expediency of the demand; but the governor may, in any case, appoint such agents without requiring the opinion of or any report from the prosecuting attorney; and the accounts of the agents appointed for such purpose shall in all cases be audited by the state auditor and paid from the state treasury.

2035. When a demand shall be made upon the governor of this state by the executive of any state or territory, in any case authorized by the Constitution and laws of the United States, for the delivery over of any person charged in such state or territory with treason, felony or any other crime, the prosecuting attorney, or any other prosecuting officer, when required by the governor, shall forthwith investigate the ground of such demand and report to the governor all material facts which may come to his knowledge as to the situation and circumstances of the person so demanded, especially as to whether he is held in custody or is under recognizance to answer for any offense against the laws of this state or of the United States, or by force of any civil process, and also whether such demand is made according to law, so that such person ought to be delivered up; and if the governor is satisfied that such demand is conformable to law, and ought to be complied with, he shall issue his warrant, under the seal of the state, authorizing the agents who make such demand, either forthwith or at such time as shall be designated by the warrant, to take and transport such person to the line of the state, at the expense of such agents, and shall also, by such warrant, require the civil officers within this state to afford all needful assistance in the execution thereof.

2036. Whenever any person shall be found within this state charged with an offense committed in any state or territory, and liable by the Constitution and laws of the United States to be delivered over on the demand of the executive of such state or territory, any court or magistrate authorized to issue warrants in criminal cases may, upon complaint under oath, setting forth the offense, and such other matters as are necessary to bring the offense within the provisions of law, issue a warrant to bring the person so charged before the same or some other court or magistrate so authorized within the state, to answer such complaint as in other cases.

2037. If, upon the examination of the person charged, it shall appear to the court or magistrate, by proof in addition to the oath of the complainant, that there is reasonable cause to believe that the complaint is true, and that such person may be lawfully demanded of the governor, he shall, if not charged with a capital crime, be required to recognize with sufficient sureties, in a reasonable sum, to appear before such court or magistrate at a future day, allowing a reasonable time to obtain a warrant of the executive, and to abide the order of the court or magistrate, and if such person shall not so recognize, he shall be committed to prison, and there be detained until such day, in like manner as if the offense charged had been committed in this state; and if the person so recognizing shall fail to appear according to the conditions of his recognizance, he shall be defaulted, and the like proceedings shall be had as in case of other recognizances entered into before such court or magistrate; but if such person be charged with a capital crime he shall be committed to prison, and there be detained until the day so appointed for his appearance before the court or magistrate.

WEST VIRGINIA.

(Warth Code 1899, in force January 1, 1904.)

12. The governor in any case authorized by the Constitution of the United States, may, on demand, deliver over to the executive of any other state or territory any person charged therein with treason, felony, or other crime committed therein, and he may on application appoint an agent to demand of the executive authority of any other state or territory any offender fleeing from the justice of this state: Provided, That such demand or application is accompanied by sworn evidence that the party charged is a fugitive from justice, and that the demand or application is made in good faith for the punishment of of crime and not for the purpose of collecting a debt or pecuniary mulct or of removing the alleged fugitive to a foreign jurisdiction with a view there to serve him with civil process and also by a duly attested copy of an indictment or duly attested copy of the complaint made before a court or magistrate authorized to take the same, such complaint to be accompanied by affidavits to the facts constituting the offense charged, by persons having actual knowledge thereof, and such further evidence in support thereof, as the governor may require. The governor may pay out of civil contingent fund any reasonable expenses incurred under this section.

13. Whenever any person shall be found within this state, charged with treason, felony, or other crime committed in any other state, any justice may, upon complaint on oath, or other satisfactory evidence that such person committed the offense, issue a warrant to bring the person so charged before the same or some other justice within the state; and the officer to whom such warrant may be directed may execute the same in any county in the state, and bring the party when arrested, before any justice of the same or any other county.

14. If it shall appear to the justice before whom the person charged may be brought that there is reasonable cause to believe that the complaint is true, he shall, if he would have been bailable by a justice, in case the offense had been committed in this state, be required to recognize, with sufficient sureties, in a reasonable sum to appear before the circuit court of the county at a future day, allowing a reasonable time to obtain the warrant of the executive, and to abide the order of the court; and if such person shall not so recognize he shall be committed to prison, and be there detained until such day. The recognizance, if any, shall be returned to the said court without delay, and if the person so recognizing shall fail to appear, according to the condition of his recognizance, he shall be defaulted, and the like proceeding shall be had, as in the case of other recognizances entered into before a justice, but if such person would not have been bailable by a justice in case the offense had been committed in this state, he shall be committed to prison, and there detained until the day so appointed for his appearance before the court.

15. The justice by whom such person may be so recognized or committed, shall immediately by letter apprise the governor of the fact who shall thereupon communicate the same to the executive of the state, where the crime is charged to have been committed.

16. If the person so recognized or committed shall appear before the court upon the day ordered, he shall be discharged, unless he shall be demanded by some person authorized by the warrant of the governor to receive him, or unless the court shall see cause to commit him, or to require him to recognize anew for his appearance at some other day; and if when ordered, he shall not so recognize, he shall be committed and detained as before. But whether the person so charged shall be recognized, committed or discharged, any person authorized by the warrant of the governor may at all times take him into custody and the same shall be a discharge of the recognizance, if any, and shall not be deemed an escape.

17. The complainant in each case shall be answerable for all the actual costs and charges, and for the support in prison of any person so committed; and if the charge for his support in prison shall not be paid when demanded, the jailer may discharge such person from prison.

18. No person under prosecution for any offense alleged to be committed within this state shall be delivered up to the executive authority of another state, or of the United States, until such prosecution shall have been determined and the person prosecuted shall have been punished, if condemned; nor shall any person under recognizance to appeear as a witness in any such prosecution be so delivered up until said prosecution shall be determined. Nor shall any person who was in custody upon any execution, or upon process in any suit, at the time of being apprehended for a crime charged to have been committed without the jurisdiction of this state, be so delivered up without the consent of the plaintiff in such execution or suit, until the amount of such execution shall have been paid, or until such person shall be otherwise discharged from such execution or process.

WISCONSIN.

(Statutes of 1898, in force January 1, 1904.)

4843. The governor of this state may, in any case authorized by the constitution and laws of the United States, demand of the executive authority of any other state or territory any fugitive from justice or any person charged with felony or any other crime in this state and appoint agents to receive the same; and whenever an application shall be made to the governor for that purpose the district attorney or any other prosecuting officer of the state, when required by the governor, shall forthwith investigate the grounds of such application and report to the governor all material circumstances which may come to his knowledge, with an abstract of the evidence and his opinion as to the expediency of the demand; but the governor may in any case appoint such agents without requiring the opinion of or any report from the district attorney; and the accounts of the agents appointed for such purpose shall in all cases be audited by the county board of supervisors of the county from which such fugitive may have fled and paid from the treasury of such county. The compensation of such agent shall be eight dollars per day for the time necessarily devoted for the performance of his duties and his actual and necessary expenses for such time, which compensation and expenses shall be allowed by the county board upon the presentation thereto of an itemized and verified account, stating the number of days he was engaged, the number of miles travelled and each item of expense incurred as and while acting as such agent. No allowance whatever shall be made him as mileage.

4844. The district attorney or other prosecuting officer of the state shall certify that he approves of the application; that the party whose arrest is sought is a fugitive from justice; that he believes the said fugitive to have taken refuge in the state or territory of (naming the same), and that the ends of justice require that the said fugitive should be brought back to this state for trial.

4846. Duplicate originals or certified copies of all papers necessary upon application for a requisition, including the application and all other papers in the case, must be furnished to the governor; and when a requisition is asked for from more than one state an additional copy thereof must be furnished for each state, and one set of such papers shall be filed and kept in the executive office; and in all cases, except upon indictment, duplicate originals or certified copies of the affidavits and of the papers made before the magistrate for the arrest and examination of the accused must be furnished with the certificate of such magistrate that the person making any such affidavit is to be believed, and with the certificate of the clerk of the circuit court of the county that such magistrate is a lawful magistrate of such county (and name the town).

4847. When a demand shall be made upon the governor of this state by the executive of any other state or territory, in any case authorized by the constitution and laws of the United States, for the delivery over of any person charged in such state or territory with treason, felony or any other crime the district attorney or any other prosecuting officer of the state, when required by the governor, shall forthwith investigate the ground of such demand and report to the governor all material facts which may come to his knowledge as to the situation and circumstances of the person so demanded, especially whether he is held in custody or is under recognizance to answer for any offense against the laws of this state or of the United States or by force of any civil process, and also whether such demand is made according to law, so that such person ought to be delivered up; if the governor is satisfied that such demand is conformable to law and ought to be complied with he shall issue his warrant, under the seal of the state, authorizing any duly appointed agent of the executive who makes such demand forthwith, or at any such time as shall be designated by the warrant, to take and transport such person to the line of the state at the expense of such agent, and shall also by warrant require the civil officers within this state to afford all needful assistance in the execution thereof.

4848. Whenever any person shall be found within this state charged with any offense committed in any other state or territory and liable by the Constitution and laws of the United States to be delivered over upon the demand of the executive of such other state or territory any court or magistrate authorized to issue warrants in criminal cases may upon complaint under oath setting forth the offense and such other matters as are necessary to bring the case within the provisions of law, issue a warrant to bring the person so charged before the same or some other court or magistrate within the state to answer to such complaint, as in other cases.

executive, and to abide the order of the court or magistrate; and if such person shall not so recognize he shall be committed to prison and be there detained until such day, in like manner, as if the offense charged had been committed within this state; and if the person so recognizing shall fail to appear, according to the condition of his recognizance, he shall be defaulted, and the like proceedings shall be had as in the case of other recognizances entered into before such court or magistrate; but if such person be charged with a capital crime he shall be committed to prison and there detained until the day so appointed for his appearance before the court or magistrate.

4850. If the person so recognized or committed shall appear before the court or magistrate upon the day ordered he shall be discharged unless he be demanded by some person authorized by the warrant of the executive to receive him or unless the court or magistrate shall see cause to commit him or to require him to recognize anew for his appearance at some other day, and if, when ordered, he shall not so recognize, he shall be committed and detained as before provided; whether the person so charged shall be recognized, committed or discharged any person authorized by the warrant of the executive may at all times take him into custody, and the same shall be a discharge of the recognizance, if any, and shall not be deemed an escape.

4852. It shall be lawful for all officers in the state of Michigan or other persons duly authorized, on lawful warrants from any judicial officer of that state, to convey any person who has been convicted of or may be charged with any crime committed, within the state of Michigan through the state of Wisconsin, from the upper peninsula to the lower peninsula or from the lower peninsula to the upper peninsula of Michigan, for the purpose of final execution or trial.

4853. If any person so convicted of or charged with crime in the state of Michigan or being so conveyed by such officers or other person duly authorized under the laws of Michigan to have the custody of such person, shall sue out a writ of habeas corpus it shall be a sufficient answer to said writ by the person having such custody that he holds such person by virtue of a lawful warrant from any judicial officer of the state of Michigan, and he shall annex to such answer a copy of the writ by which he claims the custody of such person.

4854. Any or all persons who shall in any manner aid such person so being conveyed through the state of Wisconsin by virtue of any such writ or warrant to escape or shall resist any officer or person while engaged in carrying any such prisoner through this state shall be liable to the same penalties as now provided by the laws of this state against persons aiding prisoners to escape or resisting officers of this state.

WYOMING.

5454. Whenever any person is committed to jail by any judge or justice of the peace by either of the provisions of the preceding section, it shall be the duty of such judge or justice of the peace forthwith to give notice, by letter or otherwise, to the sheriff of the county in which such offense shall have been committed, or to the person injured by such offense, and no person so committed shall be delayed longer in a jail than necessary to allow a reasonable time to the person so notified, after they shall have received such notice to apply for and obtain the proper requisition for the persons so committed.

YELLOWSTONE PARK.

(United States Revised Statutes, 1901, Section 2475.)

Fugitives from justice taking refuge in said park shall be subject to the same laws as refugees from justice found in the State of Wyoming.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

(Ratifications exchanged in Buenos Aires, June 2, 1900; proclaimed June 5, 1900.)

The President of the United States of America and the President of the Argentine Republic, interested in the improvement of the administration of justice and in the prevention of crime within their respective territories, have agreed to celebrate a treaty by which fugitives from justice will be, in determined circumstances, reciprocally delivered up to which effect they have named as their plenipotentiaries, to wit:

The President of the United States of America, William I. Buchanan, their Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary, to the Argentine Republic, and the President of the Argentine Republic, H. E. Senor Doctor Don Amancio Alcorta, minister of foreigh relations, who, after communicating to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE 1.

The Government of the United States of America and the Government of the Argentine Republic mutually agree to deliver up those persons found accused of, or convicted of having committed, in the territory of one of the high contracting parties, any of the crimes or offenses specified in the following article, who shall take refuge or be found within the territory of the other.

This will only take place when the evidence of criminality is of such a character that according to the laws of the country where the fugitive or person so accused is found, would legally justify his arrest and commitment for trial if the crime or offense had been there committed.

ARTICLE 2.

Extradition will be granted for the following crimes and offenses.

1. Homicide (comprehending assassination, parricide, poisoning, infanticide, manslaughter, when voluntary,) or the attempt to commit any of these crimes.

2. Arson.

3. Burglary, house-breaking, shopbreaking, robbery committed with violence, actual, attempted or threatened. Larceny of property of the value of two hundred dollars, or upwards.

4. Forgery, or the utterance of forged papers; the forgery of official acts of government, of public authorities, or of the courts of justice, or the utterance of the thing forged or falsified.

5. The counterfeiting, or falsifying of money, whether coin or paper, or of instruments of debt created by national, state, provincial or municipal governments, or of coupons thereof, or of bank notes, or the utterance or circulation of these; the counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of seals of state.

6. Embezzlement of public moneys, committed within the jurisdiction of either of the high contracting parties by public functionaries or depositaries; embezzlement committed by one or more persons, hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers or principals; where in either class of cases the embezzlement exceeds the sum of two hundred dollars.

7. Fraud, or breach of trust, committed by a bailee, banker, agent, factor, trustee, director, member or public officer of any company, when such act is punishable by the laws of both contracting parties, and the amount of money or the value of the property misappropriated is not less than two hundred hundred dollars.

8. Perjury, or subornation of perjury.

9. Rape, abduction, kidnapping and child-stealing.

10. Any act committed with criminal intent, the object of which is to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon a railway.

11. Crimes and offenses committed at sea:

(a) Piracy by the law of nations.

(b) Revolt, or conspiracy to revolt, by two or more persons on board a ship on the high seas against the authorities of the ship.

(c) Wrongfully sinking or destroying a ship at sea, or attempting to do so.

(d) Assaults on board a ship at sea with intent to do serious bodily harm.

12. Trading in slaves when the offense is declared criminal by the laws of both countries.

In all cases the extradition of agents, participants or co-operators in any of the crimes or offenses enumerated herein, or attempts thereof, will be granted when the punishment fixed for the crime or offense is greater than one year's imprisonment.

ARTICLE 3.

In no case shall the nationality of the person accused be an impediment to his extradition, under the conditions stipulated by the present treaty, but neither government shall be bound to deliver its own citizens for extradition under this convention; but either shall have the power to deliver them up, if, in its discretion, it be deemed proper to do so.

ARTICLE 4.

The requisition for extradition shall be made through the diplomatic agents of the high contracting parties or, in case of their defect, by the superior consular officers thereof, accompanied by a legalized copy of the sentence of the judge, or of the warrant of arrest, issued in the country where the crime or offense may have been committed, as also the depositions or other testimony by virtue of which the warrant of arrest was issued.

Besides the sentence of the judge, or the warrant of arrest, it will be necessary in the formal request for extradition, to accompany it with such evidence as may be necessary to establish the identity of the person demanded, together with a duly certified copy of the law applicable to the act charged, as shown by statute or judicial decision.

For the purpose of extradition the two high contracting parties will proceed, in accordance with this treaty, in conformity with the laws regulating judicial proceedings at the time being in force in the country to which the demand for extradition shall be directed.

ARTICLE 5

In urgent cases the two high contracting parties may request, by mail or telegraph, the provisional arrest of the person accused and the retention of the objects relating to the crime or offense, in each case setting forth the existence of a sentence, or warrant of arrest, and clearly stating the nature of the crime or offense charged.

Such provisional detention will cease and the person held will be placed at liberty if the formalities for his extradition, in the required form set out in the preceeding article, are not presented within two months, counting from the day of arrest.

ARTICLE 6.

Extradition will not be granted for a crime or offense of a political character nor for those connected therewith.

No person delivered up in virtue of this treaty can be tried, or punished, for a political crime or offense, nor for an act having connection therewith, committed before the extradition or surrender of such person.

In cases of doubt with relation to the present article, the decision of the judicial authorities of the country to which the demand for extradition is directed will be final.

ARTICLE 7.

Extradition will not be granted when the crime or offense charged, or for which the fugitive has been condemned, is found unpunishable, by reason of statutory limitation, in accordance with the laws of the country of asylum.

ARTICLE 8.

In no case can the person surrendered be held or tried in the country to which he has been surrendered for any crime other than that for which extradition was granted until he has returned, or had an opportunity to return, to the surrendering state.

This stipulation will not apply to crimes or offenses committed after extradition has taken place.

ARTICLE 9.

All articles at the time of apprehension in the posession of the person demanded, whether being the proceeds of the crime or offense charged, or being material as evidence in making proof of the crime or offense, shall, so far as practicable in conformity with the laws of the respective countries, be given up when the extradition takes place. Nevertheless, the rights of third parties with regard to such articles shall be duly respected.

ARTICLE 10.

If the individual claimed by one of the high contracting parties, in pursuance of the present treaty, shall also be claimed by one or several powers, on account of the crimes or offenses committed within their respective jurisdictions, his extradition shall be granted to the state whose demand is first received: Provided, That the government from which extradition is sought is not bound by treaty to give preference otherwise.

ARTICLE 11.

All expenses connected with the extradition of a fugitive, excepting the compensation of public officers who receive a fixed salary, will be borne by the state asking such extradition.

ARTICLE 12.

The present treaty shall take effect on the thirtieth day after the date of the exchange of the ratifications.

The ratifications of the present treaty shall be exchanged at Buenos Aires as soon as possible, and it shall remain in force for a period of six months after the date on which either of the contracting governments shall give notice to the other of a purpose to terminate it.

In witness whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed this treaty and affixed thereto their seals.

Done in duplicate, at the city of Buenos Aires, this twenty-sixth day of September, eighteen hundred and ninety-six.

WILLIAM I. BUCHANAN. [SEAL]
AMANCIO ALCORTA. [SEAL]

AUSTRIA.

(Concluded July 3, 1856; proclaimed December 15, 1856.)

ARTICLE I.

It is agreed that the United States and Austria shall, upon mutual requisitions by them or their ministers, officers or authorities, respectively made, deliver up to justice all persons who, being charged with the crime of murder, or assault with intent to commit murder, or piracy, or arson, or robbery, or forgery, or the fabrication or circulation of counterfeit moneys, whether coin or paper money, or the embezzlement of public moneys committed within the jurisdiction of either party, shall seek an asylum or shall be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his apprehension and commitment for trial, if the crime or offense had there been committed; and the respective judges and other magistrates of the two governments shall have power, jurisdiction and authority, upon complaint made under oath, to issue a warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive or person so charged, that he may be brought before such judges or other magistrates respectively, to the end that the evidence of criminality may be heard and considered; and if, on such hearing, the evidence be deemed sufficient to sustain the charge, it shall be the duty of the examining judge or magistrate to certify the same to the proper executive authority, that a warrant may issue for the surrender of such fugitive. The expense of such apprehension and delivery shall be borne and defrayed by the party who makes the requisition and receives the fugitive. The provisions of the present convention, shall not be applied, in any manner, to the crimes enumerated in the first article, committed anterior to the date thereof; nor to any crime or offense of a political character.

ARTICLE II.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens or subjects under the stipulations of this convention.

ARTICLE III.

Whenever any person accused of any of the crimes enumerated in this convention shall have committed a new crime in the territories of the state where he has sought an asylum, or shall be found, such person shall not be delivered up under the stipulations of this convention until he shall have been tried and shall have received the punishment due to such new crime, or shall have been acquitted thereof.

ARTICLE IV.

The present convention shall continue in force until the 1st of January, 1858; and if neither party shall have given to the other six months' previous notice of its intention then to terminate the same, it shall further remain in force until the end of twelve months after either of the high contracting parties shall have given notice to the other of such intention; each of the high contracting parties reserving to itself the right of giving such notice to the other at any time after the expiration of the said 1st day of January, 1858.

ARTICLE V.

The present convention shall be ratified by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate of the United States, and by His Majesty the Emperor of Austria, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Washington within six months from the date hereof, or sooner if possible.

In faith whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed this convention and have hereunto affixed their seals.

Done in duplicate at Washington the third day of July, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six and of the Independence of the United States the eightieth.

HULSEMANN. [SEAL]

BADEN.

(Ratified April 25, 1857; proclaimed May 19, 1857.)

WHEREAS, It is found expedient, for the better administration of justice and the prevention of crime within the territories and jurisdiction of the parties, respectively, that persons committing certain heinous crimes, being fugitives from justice, should, under certain circumstances, be reciprocally delivered up; and also to enumerate such crimes explicitly; and, whereas, the laws and Constitution of Baden do not allow its government to surrender its own citizens to a foreign jurisdiction, the Government of the United States, with a view of making the convention strictly reciprocal, shall be held equally free from any obligation to surrender citizens of the United States; therefore, on the one part, the United States of America, and on the other part, His Royal Highness, the Grand Duke of Baden, having resolved to treat on this subject, have, for that purpose, appointed their respective plenipotentiaries to negotiate and conclude a convention—that is to say:

The President of the United States of America, Peter D. Vroom envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States at the court of the Kingdom of Prussia; and his royal highness the Grand Duke of Baden, Adolph, Baron Marschall de Bieberstein, his said royal highness' envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary at the court of his majesty the King of Prussia, &c &c &c, who, after reciprocal communication of their respective powers, have agreed to and signed the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

It is agreed that the United States and Baden shall, upon mutual requisitions by them, or their ministers, officers, or authorities, respectively made, deliver up to justice all persons who, being charged with the crime of murder, or assault with intent to commit murder, or piracy, or arson, or robbery, or forgery, or the fabrication or circulation of counterfeit money, whether coin or paper money, or the embezzlement of public moneys committed within the jurisdiction of either party, shall seek an asylum, or shall be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his apprehension and commitment for trial, if the crime or offense had there been committed; and the respective judges and other magistrates of the two governments shall have power, jurisdiction and authority, upon complaint made under oath, to issue a warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive or person so charged, that he may be brought before such judges or other magistrates respectively, to the end that the evidence of criminality may be heard and considered; and if on such hearing the evidence be deemed sufficient to sustain the charge, it shall be the duty of the examining judge or magistrate to certify the same to the proper executive authority, that a warrant may issue for the surrender of such fugitive.

The expense of such apprehension and delivery shall be borne and defrayed by the party who makes the requisition and receives the fugitive.

Nothing in this article contained shall be construed to extend to crimes of a political character.

ARTICLE II.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens or subjects under the stipulations of this convention.

ARTICLE III.

Whenever any person accused of any of the crimes enumerated in this convention shall have committed a new crime in the territories of the state where he has sought an asylum, or shall be found, such person shall not be delivered up under the stipulations of this convention, until he shall have been tried, and shall have received the punishment due to such new crime or shall have been acquitted thereof.

ARTICLE IV.

The present convention shall continue in force until the 1st of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty—1860; and if neither party shall have given to the other six months previous notice of its intention then to terminate the same, it shall further remain in force until the end of twelve months after either of the high contracting parties shall have given notice to the other of such intention; each of the high contracting parties reserving to itself the right of giving such notice to the other, at any time after the expiration of the said 1st day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty—1860.

ARTICLE V.

The present convention shall be ratified by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate of the United States; and by the Government of Baden, and the ratifications shall be exchanged in Berlin within one year from the date hereof, or sooner if possible.

In faith whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed this convention and have hereto affixed their seals.

Done in duplicate at Berlin, the thirtieth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven (1857) and the eighty-first year of the Independence of the United States.

BAVARIA.

(Ratified November 1, 1854, proclaimed November 18, 1854.)

The United States of America and His Majesty the King of Bavaria, actuated by an equal desire to further the administration of justice and to prevent the commission of crimes in their respective countries, taking into consideration that the increased means of communication between Europe and America facilitate the escape of offenders, and that consequently provision ought to be made in order that the ends of justice shall not be defeated, have determined to conclude an arrangement destined to regulate the course to be observed in all cases with reference to the extradition of such individuals as, having committed any of the offenses hereafter enumerated in one country, shall have taken refuge within the territory of the other. The Constitution and laws of Bavaria, however, not allowing the Bavarian government to surrender their own subjects for trial before a foreign court of justice, a strict reciprocity requires that the Government of the United States shall be held equally free from any obligation to surrender citizens of the United States.

For which purposes the high contracting powers have appointed as their plenipotentiaries: The President of the United States, James Buchanan, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States at the court of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland; His Majesty the King of Bavaria, Augustus Baron de Cetto, His said Majesty's chamberlain, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary at the court of Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, knight commander of the Order for Merit of the Bavarian Crown and of the Order for Merit of St. Michael, Knight Grand Cross of the Royal Grecian Order of our Saviour, who, after reciprocal communication of their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed to the following Articles:

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States and the Bavarian Government promise and engage, upon mutual requisitions by them or their ministers, officers or authorities respectively made, to deliver up to justice all persons who, being charged with the crime of murder, or assault with intent to commit murder, or piracy, or arson, or robbery, or forgery, or the utterance of forged papers, or the fabrication or circulation of counterfeit money, whether coin or paper money, or the embezzlement of public moneys, committed within the jurisdiction of either party, shall seek an asylum or shall be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime or offense had there been committed; and the respective judges and other magistrates of the two governments shall have power, jurisdiction and authority, upon complaint made under oath, to issue a warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive or person so charged, that he may be brought before such judges or other magistrates respectively, to the end that the evidence of criminality may be heard and considered; and if, on such hearing, the evidence be deemed sufficient to sustain the charge, it shall be the duty of the examining judge or magistrate to certify the same to the proper executive authority, that a warrant may issue for the surrender of such fugitive.

The expense of such apprehension and delivery shall be borne and defrayed by the party who makes the requisition and receives the fugitive.

ARTICLE II.

The stipulations of this convention shall be applied to any other state of the German Confederation which may hereafter declare its accession thereto.

ARTICLE III.

None of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens or subjects under the stipulations of this convention.

ARTICLE IV.

Whenever any person accused of any of the crimes enumerated in this convention shall have committed a new crime in the territories of the state where he has sought an asylum or shall be found, such person shall not be delivered up under the stipulations of this convention until he shall have been tried and shall have received the punishment due to such new crime, or shall have been acquitted thereof.

ARTICLE V.

The present convention shall continue in force until the first of January, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-eight, and if neither party shall have given to the other six months' previous notice of its intention to terminate the same, it shall further remain in force until the end of twelve months after either of the high contracting parties shall have given notice to the other of such intention, each of the high contracting parties reserving to itself the right of giving such notice to the other at any time after the expiration of the said first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-eight.

ARTICLE VI.

The present convention shall be ratified by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate of the United States, and by the Government of Bavaria, and the ratifications shall be exchanged in London within fifteen months from the date thereof, or sooner if possible.

In faith whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed this convention and have hereunto affixed their seals.

Done in duplicate in London, the twelfth day of September, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-three, and the seventy-eighth year of the Independence of the United States.

BELGIUM.

(Ratifications exchanged at Washington, June 14, 1902; proclaimed June 14, 1902.)

The United States of America and His Majesty the King of the Belgians, having judged it expedient with a view to the better administration of justice and the prevention of crime within their respective territories and jurisdictions that persons charged with or convicted of the crimes and offenses hereinafter enumerated, and being fugitives from justice, should, under certain circumstances, be reciprocally delivered up, have resolved to conclude a new convention for that purpose and have appointed as their plenipotentiaries: The President of the United States, John Hay, Secretary of State of the United States; and His Majesty the King of the Belgians, Mr. Charles C. Wauters, Chargé d'Affaires ad interim of Belgium near the Government of the United States, who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States and the Government of Belgium mutually agree to deliver up persons who having been charged, as principals or accessories, with or convicted of any of the crimes and offenses specified in the following article committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as according so the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Persons shall be delivered up who shall have been convicted of or be charged, according to the provisions of this convention, with any of the following crimes:

1 Murder, comprehending the crimes designated in the Belgian penal code by the terms of parricide, assassination, poisoning and infanticide.

2. The attempt to commit murder.

3. Rape, or attempt to commit rape. Bigamy. Abortion.

4. Arson.

5. Piracy, or mutiny on ship board whenever the crew, or part thereof, shall have taken possession of the vessel by fraud or by violence against the commander.

6. Larceny; the crime of burglary, defined to be the act of breaking and entering by night into the house of another with the intent to commit felony; and the crime of robbery, defined to be the act of feloniously and forcibly taking from the person of another money or goods by violence or putting him in fear; and the corresponding crimes punished by the Belgian laws under the description of thefts committed in an inhabited house by night and by breaking in by climbing or forcibly, and thefts committed with violence or by means of threats.

7. The crime of forgery, by which is understood the utterance of forged papers, and also the counterfeiting of public, sovereign, or governmental acts.

8. The fabrication or circulation of counterfeit money either coin or paper, or of counterfeit public bonds, coupons of public debt, bank notes, obligations, or in general anything being a title or instrument of credit; the counterfeiting of seals and dies, impressions, stamps, and marks of state and public administrations, and the utterance thereof.

9. The embezzlement of public moneys committed within the jurisdiction of either party by public officers or depositaries.

10. Embezzlement by any person or persons hired or salaried to the detriment of their employers, when the crime is subject to punishment by the laws of the place where it was committed, and the amount of money or the value of the property embezzled is not less than two hundred dollars or one thousand francs.

11. Willful and unlawful destruction or obstruction of railroads which endangers human life.

12. Obtaining money, valuable securities or other property by false pretences, when such act is made criminal by the laws of both countries and the amount of money or the value of the property fraudulently obtained is not less than two hundred dollars or one thousand francs.

13. Kidnapping of minors.

14. Reception of articles obtained by means of one of the crimes or offenses provided for by the present convention.

Extradition may also be granted for the attempt to commit any of the crimes above enumerated when such attempt is punishable by the laws of both contracting parties.

ARTICLE III.

A person surrendered under this convention shall not be tried or punished in the country to which his extradition has been granted, nor given up to a third power for a crime or offense, not provided for by the present convention and committed previously to his extradition, until he shall have been allowed one month to leave the country after having been discharged; and, if he shall have been tried and condemned to punishment he shall be allowed one month after having suffered his penalty or having been pardoned.

He shall morever not be tried or punished for any crime or offense provided for by this convention committed previous to his extradition, other than that which gave rise to the extradition, without the consent of the government which surrendered him, which may, if it think proper, require the production of one of the documents mentioned in Article VII of this convention.

The consent of that government shall likewise be required for the extradition of the accused to a third country; nevertheless, such consent shall not be necessary when the accused shall have asked of his own accord to be tried or to undergo his punishment, or when he shall not have left within the space of time above specified the territory of the country to which he has been surrendered.

ARTICLE IV.

The provisions of this convention shall not be applicable to persons guilty of any political crime or offense or of one connected with such crime or offense. A person who has been surrendered on account of one of the common crimes or offenses mentioned in Article II shall consequently in no case be prosecuted and punished in the state to which his extradition has been granted on account of a political crime or offense committed by him previously to his extradition or on account of an act connected with such a political crime or offense, unless he has been at liberty to leave the country for one month after having been tried and, in case of condemnation, for one month after having suffered his punishment or having been pardoned.

An attempt against the life of the head of a foreign government or against that of any member of his family when such attempt comprises the act either of murder or assassination, or of poisoning, shall not be considered a political offense or an act connected with such an offense.

ARTICLE V.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens or subjects under the stipulations of this convention.

ARTICLE VI.

If the person whose surrender may be claimed pursuant to the stipulations of the present treaty shall have been arrested for the commission of offenses in the country where he has sought an asylum, or shall have been convicted thereof, his extradition may be deferred until he shall have been acquitted or have served the term of imprisonment to which he may have been sentenced.

ARTICLE VII.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice shall be made by the respective diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or, in the event of the absence of these from the country or its seat of government, they may be made by superior consular officers.

If the person whose extradition may be asked for shall have been convicted of a crime or offense, a copy of the sentence of the court in which he may have been convicted authenticated under its seal, and attestation of the official character of the judge by the proper executive authority, and of the latter by the minister or consul of the United States or of Belgium, respectively, shall accompany the requisition. When, however, the fugitive shall have been merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant for his arrest in the country where the crime may have been committed, and of the depositions upon which such warrant may have been issued, must accompany the requisition as aforesaid.

It shall be lawful for any competent judicial authority of the United States, upon production of a certificate issued by the Secretary of State stating that a request has been made by the government of Belgium for the provisional arrest of a person convicted or accused of the commission therein of a crime or offense extraditable under the provisions of this convention, and upon complaint duly made that such crime or offense has been so committed, to issue his warrant for the apprehension of such person. But if the demand for the surrender, with the formal proofs hereinbefore mentioned, be not made as aforesaid by the diplomatic agent of the demanding government, or in his absence, by the competent consular officer, within forty days from the date of the commitment of the fugitive, the prisoner shall be discharged from custody.

And the government of Belgium will, upon request of the Government of the United States, transmitted through the diplomatic agent of the United States, or, in his absence, through the competent consular officer, secure in conformity with law the provisional arrest of persons convicted or accused of the commission therein of crimes or offenses extraditable under this convention. But if the demand for surrender, with the formal proofs hereinbefore mentioned, be not made as aforesaid by the diplomatic agent of the demanding government, or, in his absence, by the competent consular officer, within forty days from date of commitment of the fugitive, the prisoner shall be discharged from custody.

ARTICLE VIII.

The expenses of the arrest, detention, examination and delivery of fugitives under this convention shall be borne by the state in whose name the extradition is sought: Provided, that the demanding government shall not be compelled to bear any expense for the services of such officers of the government from which extradition is sought as receive a fixed salary; And provided, That the charge for the services of such public officials as receive only fees shall not exceed the fees to which such officials are entitled under the laws of the country for services rendered in ordinary criminal proceedings.

ARTICLE IX.

Extradition shall not be granted, in pursuance of the provisions of this convention, if legal proceedings or the enforcement of the penalty for the act committed by the person claimed has become barred by limitation, according to the laws of the country to which the requisition is addressed.

ARTICLE X.

All articles found in the possession of the accused party and obtained through the commission of the act with which he is charged, or that may be used as evidence of the crime for which his extradition is demanded, shall be seized if the competent authority shall so order, and shall be surrendered with his person.

The rights of third parties to the articles so found shall nevertheless be respected.

ARTICLE XI

The present convention shall take effect thirty days after the exchange of ratifications.

After it shall have taken effect, the convention of June 13, 1882, shall cease to be in force and shall be superseded by the present convention which shall continue to have binding force for six months after a desire for its termination shall have been expressed in due form by one of the two governments to the other.

It shall be ratified and its ratification shall be exchanged at Washington as soon as possible.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the above articles both in English and French languages, and they have hereunto affixed their seals.

Done, in duplicate, at the City of Washington this 26th day of October, 1901.

WAUTERS. [SEAL]

BOLIVIA.

(Ratifications exchanged at La Paz, December 23, 1901; proclaimed December 30, 1901.)

The United States of America and the Republic of Bolivia, being desirous to confirm their friendly relations and to promote the cause of justice, have resolved to conclude a treaty for the extradition of fugitives from justice between the United States of America and the Republic of Bolivia, and have appointed for that purpose the following representatives plenipotentiary: The President of the United States to Dr. George H. Bridgman, his envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Bolivia, and the President of Bolivia to Dr. Eliodoro Villazón, his minister of foreign relations, who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States and the Government of Bolivia mutually agree to deliver up persons who having been charged with or convicted of any of the crimes and offenses specified in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime or offense had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Extradition shall be granted for the following crimes and offenses:

1. Murder, comprehending assassination, parricide, infanticide and poisoning; attempt to commit murder; manslaughter, when voluntary.

2. Arson.

3. Robbery, defined to be the act of feloniously and forcibly taking from the person of another money, goods, documents or other property by violence or putting him in fear; burglary.

4. Forgery, or the utterance of forged papers; the forgery or falsification of official acts of government, of public authorities, or of courts of justice, or the utterance of the thing forged or falsified.

5. The counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of money, whether coin or paper, or of instruments of debt created by national, state, provincial or municipal governments, or of coupons thereof, or of bank notes, or the utterance or circulation of the same; or the counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of seals of state.

6. Embezzlement by public officers, embezzlement by persons hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers where in either class of cases the embezzlement exceeds the sum of two hundred dollars; larceny.

7. Fraud or breach of trust by a bailee, banker, agent, factor, trustee or other person acting in a fiduciary capacity, or director or member or officer of any company, when such act is made criminal by the laws of both countries and the amount of money or the value of the property misappropriated is not less than $200.00 or Bs 500.00.

8. Perjury; subornation of perjury.

9. Rape, abduction; kidnapping.

10. Willful and unlawful destruction or obstruction of railroads which endangers human life.

11. Crimes committed at sea:

(a) Piracy, by statute or by the law of nations.

(b) Revolt, or conspiracy to revolt, by two or more persons on board a ship on the high seas against the authority of the master.

(c) Wrongfully sinking or destroying a vessel at sea, or attempting to do so.

(d) Assaults on board a ship on the high seas with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

12. Crimes and offenses against the laws of both countries for the suppression of slavery and slave trading.

Extradition is also to take place for participation in any of the crimes and offenses mentioned in this treaty, provided such participation may be punished, in the United States as a felony, and in Bolivia by imprisonment at hard labor.

ARTICLE III.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice shall be made by the diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or in the absence of these from the country or its seat of government, may be made by the superior consular officers.

If the person whose extradition is requested shall have been convicted of a crime or offense, a duly authenticated copy of the sentence of the court in which he was convicted, or if the fugitive is merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant of arrest in the country where the crime has been committed, and of the depositions or other evidence upon which such warrant was issued, shall be produced.

The extradition of fugitives under the provisions of this treaty shall be carried out in the United States and in Bolivia, respectively, in conformity with the laws regulating extradition for the time being in force in the state on which the demand for surrender is made.

ARTICLE IV.

Where the arrest and detention of fugitive are desired on telegraphic or other information in advance of the presentation of formal proofs, the proper course in the United States shall be to apply to a judge or other magistrate authorized to issue warrants of arrest in extradition cases and present a complaint on oath, as provided by the statutes of the United States.

When, under the provisions of this article, the arrest and detention of a fugitive are desired in the Republic of Bolivia, the proper course shall be to apply to the foreign office which will immediately cause the necessary steps to be taken in order to secure the provisional arrest or detention of the fugitive.

The provisional detention of a fugitive shall cease and the prisoner be released if a formal requisition for his surrender, accompanied by the necessary evidence of his criminality, has not been produced under the stipulations of this treaty, within two months from the date of his provisional arrest or detention.

ARTICLE V.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens or subjects under the stipulations of this treaty.

ARTICLE VI.

A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered if the offense in respect of which his surrender is demanded be of a political character, or if he proves that the requisition for his surrender has, in fact, been made with a view to try or punish him for an offense of a political character.

No person surrendered by either of the high contracting parties to the other shall be triable or tried, or be punished, for any political crime or offense, or for any act connected therewith, committed previously to his extradition.

If any question shall arise as to whether a case comes within the provisions of this article, the decision of the authorities of the government on which the demand for surrender is made, or which may have granted the extradition, shall be final.

ARTICLE VII.

Extradition shall not be granted, in pursuance of the provisions of this treaty, if legal proceedings or the enforcement of the penalty for the act committed by the person claimed has become barred by limitation, according to the laws of the country to which the requisition is addressed.

ARTICLE VIII.

No person surrendered by either of the high contracting parties to the other shall, without his consent, freely grant and publicly declared by him, be triable or tried or be punished for any crime or offense committed prior to his extradition, other than that for which he was delivered up, until he shall have had an opportunity of returning to the country from which he was surrendered.

ARTICLE IX.

All articles seized, which are in the possession of the person to be surrendered at the time of his apprehension, whether being the proceeds of the crime or offense charged, or being material as evidence in making proof of the crime or offense, shall, so far as practicable and in conformity with the laws of the respective countries, be given up when the extradition takes place. Nevertheless, the rights of third parties with regard to such articles shall be duly respected.

ARTICLE X.

If the individual claimed by one of the high contracting parties, in pursuance of the present treaty, shall also be claimed by one or several other powers on account of crimes or offenses committed within their respective jurisdictions, his extradition shall be granted to the state whose demand is first received: Provided, That the government from which extradition is sought is not bound by treaty to give preference otherwise.

ARTICLE XI.

The expenses incurred in the arrest, detention, examination and the delivery of fugitives under this treaty shall be borne by the state in whose name the extradition is sought: Provided, That the demanding government shall not be compelled to bear any expense for the services of such public officers of the government from which extradition is sought as receive a fixed salary: And, provided, That the charge for the services of such public officers as receive only fees or perquisites shall not exceed their customary fees for the acts or services performed by them, had such acts or services been performed in ordinary criminal proceedings under the laws of the country of which they are officers.

ARTICLE XII.

The present treaty shall take effect on the thirtieth day after the date of the exchange of ratifications, and shall not operate retroactively.

The ratifications of the present treaty shall be exchanged at La Paz as soon as possible, and it shall remain in force for a period of six months after either of the contracting governments shall have given notice of a purpose to terminate it.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the above articles, both in the English and the Spanish languages, and have hereunto affixed their seals.

Done in duplicate at the City of La Paz, Bolivia, this twenty-first day of April of one thousand nine hundred.

BRAZIL.

(Ratifications exchanged at Rio de Janeiro, April 18, 1903; proclaimed, April 30, 1903.)

The United States of America and the United States of Brazil, desiring to strengthen their friendly relations and to facilitate the administration of justice by the repression of crimes and offenses committed in their respective territories and jurisdictions, have agreed to celebrate a treaty of extradition, and have nominated for that purpose the following plenipotentiaries: The President of the United States of America, Mr. Thomas L. Thompson, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary near the Government of the United States of Brazil; and the President of the United States of Brazil, General Dionisio Evangelista de Castro Cerqueira, minister of state for foreign relations; who, having made known their respective full powers, which have been found in good form, agree upon the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States of America and the Government of the United States of Brazil mutually agree to deliver up the persons who, having been charged or convicted, as the authors of or accomplices in any of the crimes enumerated in the following article, committed in the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, seeks an asylum or be found within the territories of the other: Provided, This shall only take place after such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the person or fugitive so charged shall be found, would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime had there been committed.

ARTICLE II.

Extradition shall be granted for the following crimes and offenses:

1. Voluntary homicide, when such act is punishable in the United States of America, comprehending the crimes of poisoning and infanticide, murder; manslaughter.

2. Abortion.

3. Rape and other offenses against chastity committed with violence.

4. Bigamy.

5. Abduction, willfully and wrongfully depriving any person of natural liberty.

6. Kidnapping or child stealing.

7. Arson.

8. Piracy, by statute or by the law of nations when the state in which the offender is found has no jurisdiction; revolt, or conspiracy to revolt, by two or more persons on board a ship on the high seas, against the authority of the master; to willfully and wrongfully cause shipwreck; to wrongfully and willfully collide with a vessel; to wrongfully and willfully scuttle a vessel for the purpose of sinking it; to wrongfully and willfully destroy a vessel on the high seas.

9. Wrongful and willful destruction or obstruction of railroads which endangers human life.

10. Counterfeiting, falsifying or altering money of any kind, or of legally authorized bank notes which circulate as money; to utter or to give circulation to any such counterfeited, falsified or altered money; the falsification of instruments of debt created by national and state or municipal governments, or of the coupons thereof; counterfeiting, falsifying or altering seals of the federal or state governments; to knowingly use any such instruments or papers.

11. Forgery, the utterance of forged papers; forgery or falsification of official acts of government, of public authorities, or of courts of justice, of public or private instruments; the use or the utterance of the thing forged or falsified.

12. Perjury, or to bear false witness, to suborn or bribe a witness.

13. Fraud committed by a depositor, banker, agent, broker, manager, treasurer, director, member or employe of any company or corporation.

14. Embezzlement, consisting in the misappropriation or theft of public moneys, committed in the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, by a public officer or depositary.

15. Embezzlement, or theft of moneys, committed by persons salaried or employed, to the detriment of those who employ them.

16. Burglary, defined to be the act of entering during the night, by breaking or climbing, the dwelling-house of another, with intent to commit a felony; robbery, defined to be the act of feloniously and forcibly taking from another money or goods of any value, by violence, or putting in fear, and known in the the Brazilian Penal Code as roubo.

17. Complicity in or attempts at the commission of any of the crimes specified in the preceding sections, provided that such complicity or attempt be punishable by the laws of the country from whence the extradition is demanded.

ARTICLE III.

Extradition shall not be granted if the offense on which the surrender is demanded be of a political character, or if the fugitive prove that there is an intention to try or punish him for a political crime, nor if the circumstances on which extradition is demanded are connected with political crimes.

The government from which extradition is demanded will examine the circumstances, to ascertain whether the crime be of a political character, and its decision shall be final.

The following shall not be considered political crimes when they are unconnected with political movements, and are such as constitute murder, or willful and illegal homicide, as provided for in Section 1 of the preceding article:

1. An attempt against the life of the President of the United States of America, or against the life of the governor of any of the states; an attempt against the life of the President of the United States of Brazil, or against the life of the president or governor of any of the states thereof.

2 An attempt against the life of the Vice-President of the United States of America, or against the life of the lieutenant-governor of any of the states; an attempt against the life of the Vice-President of the United States of Brazil, or against the life of the vice-president or vice-governor of any of the states thereof.

ARTICLE IV.

The person surrendered cannot be tried nor punished in the country which has obtained the extradition, nor be surrendered to a third country, for trial or punishment therein, for any crime or offense not mentioned in this treaty, nor for one committed previous to extradition, other than the crime or offense for which he was extradited, unless such person has been in either case at liberty to leave the country which has obtained the extradition for a month subsequent to trial therein.

Furthermore, such person shall not be tried nor punished for an offense or crime mentioned in this treaty committed previous to the extradition, other than the offense or crime for which he was extradited, without the consent of the government which has surrendered such person, and the said government shall be able to demand an exhibition of any of the documents mentioned in Article X of the present treaty.

In like manner the consent of the said government shall be solicited if the extradition of the offender is requested by a third government; although this shall not be necessary when the offender voluntarily requests trial or consents to punishment; or if he fails to leave the territory of the country to which he has been surrendered within the period above fixed.

ARTICLE V.

The contracting parties shall in no case be obliged to surrender their own citizens in virtue of the stipulations of the present treaty.

ARTICLE VI.

If the person shall be in course of trial, or shall have been convicted of an offense other than that for which the surrender is demanded, extradition shall only take place after the trial shall have been concluded and the sentence fullfilled.

ARTICLE VII.

When the person demanded by one of the contracting parties is also demanded by one or more powers on account of crimes and offenses committed within their respective jurisdictions, extradition shall be conceded to the one whose request is first received, unless the government to which the request is made has before agreed by treaty in case of the concurrence of requests to give preference to the country of the person's origin, to the gravity of the crime, or to the request which is of oldest date; in whichsoever of these cases the usual rule shall be followed.

ARTICLE VIII.

Extradition shall be refused when the action or sentence for which the offender is demanded shall have been extinguished by prescription, according to the law of the country to which the request is made, or when such person shall have been already tried and sentenced for the same crime.

ARTICLE IX.

All articles found in the possession of the person accused whether obtained through the commission of the act with which such person is charged, or whether they may be used as evidence of the crime for which such person is demanded, shall be seized and surrendered with the person. Nevertheless, the rights of third persons to the articles so found shall be respected.

ARTICLE X.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice accused or convicted of any of the crimes or offenses hereinbefore mentioned shall be made by the diplomatic agent of the demanding government. In case of the absence of such agent either from the country or from the seat of government such requisition shall be made by a superior consular officer.

When the person whose surrender is requested shall have already been convicted of the crime or offense for which his extradiction is demanded, the demand therefor shall be accompanied by a copy of the judgment of the court or tribunal which has pronounced it, duly signed by the judge of the court or president of the tribunal; and the signature of the judge of the court or president of the tribunal shall be authenticated by the proper executive officer, whose official character shall in turn be attested by the diplomatic agent or a superior consular officer of the government on which the demand is made.

When the person whose surrender is asked is merely charged with the commission of any of the crimes mentioned in the present treaty, the application for extradition shall be accompanied by an authenticated copy of the warrant of arrest issued against such person by the officer duly authorized to do so; and likewise by an authenticated copy of the depositions or declarations made before such officer and setting forth the acts with which the fugitive is charged.

The extradition of fugitives under the provisions of the present treaty shall be carried out in conformity with the laws and practice for the time being in force in the state on which the demand is made, without, however, denying recourse to the writ of habeas corpus.

ARTICLE XI.

When the arrest and detention of a person are desired on telegraphic or other information in advance of the presentation of the formal proofs provided for in the preceding article of the present treaty, the following practice shall be observed: In the United States of America application shall be made by the diplomatic agent of Brazil, or in his absence by a superior consular officer, to the Secretary of State, for a certificate stating that request has been made by the government of the United States of Brazil for the provisional arrest of a person convicted or accused of the commission within the jurisdiction thereof, of a crime or offense extraditable under the terms of the present treaty, which, upon presentation to any competent judicial officer and upon complaint duly made that such a crime or offense has been so committed, it shall be lawful for such judicial officer to issue a warrant for the apprehension of such person; and in the United States of Brazil upon request of the government of the United States of America, duly made through its diplomatic agent, or in his absence by a superior consular officer to the minister for foreign relations, the provisional arrest shall be made of any person convicted or accused of the commission of a crime or offense extraditable under this treaty.

But if the formal requisition for surrender with the formal proofs hereinbefore mentioned, be not made as aforesaid by the diplomatic agent of the demanding government, or in his absence by a superior consular officer, within sixty days from the date of the arrest of the fugitive, the prisoner shall be discharged from custody.

ARTICLE XII.

The expenses incurred in the arrest, detention, examination and delivery of fugitives under this treaty shall be borne by the state in whose name the extradition is sought.

ARTICLE XIII.

The present treaty shall take effect six weeks after the exchange of ratifications, and shall continue in force six months after one of the contracting parties shall have notified the other of an intention to terminate it.

It shall be ratified and the ratifications exchanged at Rio de Janeiro as soon as possible.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries sign the above articles written in the English and Portuguese languages and hereunto affix their seals.

Done and signed in duplicate in the city of Rio de Janeiro, this 14th day of May, 1897.

DIONISIO E. DE CASTRO CERQUEIRA. [SEAL]

CHILE.

(Ratifications exchanged at Washington, May 27, 1902; proclaimed May 27, 1902.)

The United States of America and the Republic of Chile, being desirous to confirm their friendly relations and to promote the cause of justice, have resolved to conclude a treaty for the extradition of fugitives from justice between the United States of America and the Republic of Chile, and have appointed for that purpose the following plenipotentiaries: The President of the United States of America, Henry L. Wilson, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States in Chile, and the President of Chile, Senor Don Rafael Errázuriz Urmeneta, minister of foreign relations of Chile, who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States and the Government of Chile mutually agree to deliver up persons who, having been charged with or convicted of any of the crimes and offenses specified in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime or offense had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Extradition shall be granted for the following crimes and offenses:

1. Murder, comprehending assassination, parricide, infanticide, and poisoning; attempt to commit murder; manslaughter, when voluntary.

2. Arson.

3. Robbery, defined to be the act of feloniously and forcibly taking from the person of another money, goods, documents or other property by violence or putting him in fear; burglary.

4. Forgery, or the utterance of forged papers; the forgery or falsification of official acts of government, of public authorities, or of courts of justice, or the utterance of the thing forged or falsified.

5. The counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of money, whether coin or paper, or of instruments of debt created by national, state, provincial, or municipal governments, or of coupons thereof, or of bank notes, or the utterance or circulation of the same; or the counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of seals of state.

6. Embezzlement by public officers; embezzlement by persons hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers; where in either class of cases the embezzlement exceeds the sum of two hundred dollars; larceny.

7. Fraud or breach of trust by a bailee, banker, agent, factor, trustee, or other person acting in a fiduciary capacity, or director or member or officer of any company, when such act is made criminal by the laws of both countries and the amount of money or the value of the property misappropriated is not less than two hundred dollars.

8. Perjury; subornation of perjury.

9. Rape; abduction; kidnapping.

10. Willful and unlawful destruction or obstruction of railroads which endangers human life.

11. Crimes committed at sea:

(a) Piracy, by statute or by the laws of nations.

(b) Revolt, or conspiracy to revolt, by two or more persons on board a ship on the high seas against the authority of the master.

(c) Wrongfully sinking or destroying a vessel at sea, or attempting to do so.

(d) Assaults on board a ship on the high seas with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

12. Crimes and offenses against the laws of both countries for the suppression of slavery and slave trading.

Extradition is also to take place for participation in any of the crimes and offenses mentioned in this treaty: Provided, Such participation may be punished in the United States as a felony, and in the Republic of Chile by imprisonment at hard labor.

ARTICLE III.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice shall be made by the diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or in the absence of these from the country or seat of government, may be made by the superior consular officers.

If the person whose extradition is requested shall have been convicted of a crime or offense, a duly authenticated copy of the sentence of the court in which he was convicted, or if the fugitive is merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant of arrest in the country where the crime has been committed, and of the depositions or other evidence upon which such warrant was issued, shall be produced.

The extradition of fugitives under the provisions of this treaty shall be carried out in the United States and in the Republic of Chile, respectively, in conformity with the laws regulating extradition for the time being in force in the state on which the demand for surrender is made.

ARTICLE IV.

Where the arrest and detention of a fugitive are desired on telegraphic or other information in advance of the presentation of formal proofs, the proper course in the United States shall be to apply to a judge or other magistrate authorized to issue warrants of arrest in extradition cases and present a complaint on oath, as provided by the statutes of the United States.

When, under the provisions of this article, the arrest and detention of a fugitive are desired in the Republic of Chile, the proper course shall be to apply to the foreign office, which will immediately cause the necesssary steps to be taken in order to secure the provisional arrest or detention of the fugitive.

The provisional detention of a fugitive shall cease and the prisoner be released if a formal requisition for his surrender, accompanied by the necessary evidence of his criminality, has not been produced under the stipulations of this treaty within two months from the date of his provisional arrest or detention.

ARTICLE V.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens or subjects under the stipulations of this treaty.

ARTICLE VI.

A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered if the offense in respect of which his surrender is demanded be of a political character, or if he proves that the requisition for his surrender has, in fact, been made with a view to try or punish him for an offense of a political character.

No person surrendered by either of the high contracting parties to the other shall be triable or tried, or be punished, for any political crime or offense, or for any act connected therewith, committed previously to his extradition.

If any question shall arise as to whether a case comes within the provisions of this article, the decision of the authorities of the government on which the demand for surrender is made, or which may have granted the extradition, shall be final.

ARTICLE VII.

Extradition shall not be granted, in pursuance of the provisions of this treaty, if legal proceedings or the enforcement of the penalty for the act committed by the person claimed has become barred by limitation, according to the laws of the country to which the requisition is addressed.

ARTICLE VIII.

No person surrendered by either of the high contracting parties to the other shall, without his consent, freely granted and publicly declared by him, be triable or tried or be punished for any crime or offense committed prior to his extradition, other than that for which he was delivered up, until he shall have had an opportunity of returning to the country from which he was surrendered.

ARTICLE IX.

All articles seized which are in the possession of the person to be surrendered at the time of his apprehension, whether being the proceeds of the crime or offense charged, or being material as evidence in making proof of the crime or offense, shall, so far as practicable and in conformity with the laws of the respective countries, be given up when the extradition takes place. Nevertheless, the rights of third parties with regard to such articles shall be duly respected.

ARTICLE X.

If the individual claimed by one of the high contracting parties, in pursuance of the present treaty, shall also be claimed by one or several other powers on account of crimes or offenses committed within their respective jurisdictions, his extradition shall be granted to the state whose demand is first received: Provided, That the government from which extradition is sought is not bound by treaty to give preference otherwise.

ARTICLE XI.

The expenses incurred in the arrest, detention, examination and delivery of fugitives under this treaty shall be borne by the state in whose name the extradition is sought: Provided, That the demanding government shall not be compelled to bear any expense for the services of such public officers of the government from which extradition is sought as receive a fixed salary; And provided, That the charge for the services of such public officers as receive only fees or perquisites shall not exceed their customary fees for the acts or services performed by them had such acts or services been performed in ordinary criminal proceedings under the laws of the country of which they are officers.

ARTICLE XII.

The present treaty shall take effect on the thirtieth day after the date of the exchange of ratifications, and shall not operate retroactively.

The ratifications of the present treaty shall be exchanged at Washington as soon as possible, and it shall remain in force for a period of six months after either of the contracting governments shall have given notice of a purpose to terminate it.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the above articles, both in the English and Spanish languages, and have hereunto affixed their seals.

Done in duplicate, at the City of Santiago, this 17th day of April, 1900.

HENRY L. WILSON. [SEAL]

COLOMBIA.

(Ratified March 12, 1890; proclaimed February 6, 1891.)

The President of the United States of America and the President of the Republic of Colombia, with the view of facilitating the administration of justice and to insure the suppression of crimes which may be committed within the territories and jurisdictions of the two countries, and the perpetrators of which may attempt to escape punishment by leaving one country and taking refuge in the other, have agreed to conclude a convention establishing rules for the reciprocal extradition of persons accused or convicted of the crimes hereinafter enumerated, and they have for that purpose authorized and empowered their respective plenipotentiaries, to-wit:—The President of the United States of America, John G. Walker, Chargé d'Affaires ad interim; and the President of the Republic of Colombia, Vicente Restrepo, minister of foreign affairs, who, after communicating to each other their respective full powers, which are found to be in due form, have agreed upon the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States of America, and the government of the Republic of Colombia, under the restrictions and limitations hereinafter contained, agree to deliver, reciprocally, all persons accused, or convicted, as principals or accessories, of any of the crimes mentioned in Article II of this convention, committed within territories or jurisdiction of the one and who are found within the territories or jurisdiction of the other government.

ARTICLE II.

The crimes for which extradition is to be reciprocally accorded, are as follows:

1. Murder and attempts to commit murder, by assault, poison or otherwise.

2. Counterfeiting, or altering money, or knowingly uttering or bringing into circulation counterfeit or altered money; counterfeiting or altering certificates or coupons of public indebtedness, bank notes or other instruments of public credit; or knowingly uttering or circulating the same.

3. Forgery, or altering, or uttering what is forged or altered.

4. Embezzlement, being the criminal misapplication of public or private funds, documents or property or the funds, documents or property of municipal or other corporations, held in trust by a public officer, or as a fiduciary agent, or a confidential employé.

5. Robbery.

6. Burglary, defined to be the breaking into or entering, either in day or night time, the house, office or other building of a government, corporation or private person, with the intent of committing a felony therein.

7. Perjury, or the subornation of perjury.

8. Rape.

9. Arson.

10. Piracy, as defined by the Law of Nations.

11. Murder, manslaughter, or assault with intent to kill, on the high seas, on board of vessels sailing under the flag of the demanding party.

12. Malicious destruction, or attempted destruction, of railways, bridges, tramways, vessels, dwellings, public edifices or other buildings, when the act endangers human life.

ARTICLE III.

When the extradition of a criminal, charged or convicted of any of the foregoing offenses, is demanded, it must be supported by the production of a duly authenticated warrant of arrest, made in accordance with the laws of the country making the demand, and the depositions upon which it is based. If the person whose extradition is demanded has already been convicted, the demand must be acompanied by a duly authenticated copy of the sentence of the court in which he was convicted, and with the attestation of the proper executive authority; the latter of which must be certified by the minister or consul of the government upon which the demand is made.

ARTICLE IV.

If the person demanded be held for trial in the country on which the demand is made, it shall be optional with the latter to grant extradition, or to proceed with the trial: Provided, That unless the trial shall be for the crime for which the fugitive is claimed, the delay shall not prevent ultimate extradition.

ARTICLE V.

If it be made to appear that the extradition is sought with the view of trying or punishing the person demanded for an offense of a political character, surrender shall not take place; nor shall any person surrendered be tried or punished for political offense, committed previously to extradition, or for any offense other than that for which extradition was granted.

ARTICLE VI.

The requisition for extradition shall be made through the diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or in the event of the absence of these from the county or from the seat of government, by superior consular officers. The fugitive shall be surrendered only on such evidence of criminality as would justify his arrest and trial under the laws of the country where he is found, had the crime been there committed.

ARTICLE VII.

On being informed by telegraph, or other written communication through the diplomatic channel, that a lawful warrant has been issued by a competent authority, upon probable cause, for the arrest of a fugitive criminal, charged with any of the crimes enumerated in Article 2 of this convention, and on being assured, through the same source, that a request for the surrender of such criminal is about to be made, in accordance with the provisions of this convention each government will endeavor to procure, so far as it lawfully may, the personal arrest of such criminal, and may keep him in safe custody for a reasonable time, not exceeding three months, to await the production of the documents, upon which the claim for extradition is founded.

ARTICLE VIII.

When a person is extradited under the formalities prescribed in this convention all documents and other objects which may tend to establish his guilt, may be delivered to the demanding government as well as all money or effect which he may have or may have had in his possession or subject to his control, the unlawful possession or taking of which constitutes the offense, in whole or in part, for which his extradition is requested.

ARTICLE IX.

In case a person, who is equally a foreigner in the United States of America and in the Republic of Colombia takes refuge in either country, after having committed any of the foregoing crimes, within one of the other jurisdictions, extradition can be accorded only after the government or its representative, of which the criminal is a citizen or subject has been duly informed, and afforded an opportunity to file objections to the extradition.

ARTICLE X.

Neither of the high contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens under the stipulations of this convention.

ARTICLE XI.

The fact that the person whose extradition is demanded, has contracted obligations of which extradition would hinder the performance, shall be no bar to his extradition.

ARTICLE XII.

The expenses of the arrest, detention, examination and transportation of the accused shall be paid by the government requesting the extradition.

ARTICLE XIII.

The present convention shall commence to be effective sixty days after the exchange of ratifications thereof, but offenses committed anterior to that time, shall furnish no grounds for a demand for extradition. For the termination of this convention twelve months' notice must be given by either of the high contracting parties.

This convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications exchanged in the City of Bogotá, as soon as possible.

In faith whereof, we, the Plenipotentiaries of the United States of America, and of the Republic of Colombia, have signed and sealed these presents, in the City of Bogotá, this seventh day of May, in the year of Our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight.

VINCENTE RESTREPO. [SEAL]

DENMARK.

(Ratifications exchanged at Washington, April 16, 1902; proclaimed April 17, 1902.)

The United States of America and his majesty the King of Denmark, being desirous to confirm their friendly relations and to promote the cause of justice, have resolved to conclude a treaty for the extradition of fugitives from justice, and have appointed for that purpose the following plenipotentiaries: The President of the United States of America, John Hay, Secretary of State of the United States; and his majesty the King of Denmark, Mr. Constantin Brun, Commander of the Order of Dannebroge and decorated with the Cross of Honor of the same order, his majesty's chamberlain and envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary at Washington; who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I

The Government of the United States and the Government of Denmark mutually agree to deliver up persons who having been charged with or convicted of any of the crimes and offenses specified in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime or offense had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Extradition shall be granted for the following crimes and offenses:

1. Murder, comprehending assassination, parricide, infanticide and poisoning; attempt to commit murder; the killing of a human being, when such act is punishable in the United States as voluntary manslaughter, and in Denmark as manslaughter.

2. Arson.

3. Robbery, defined to be the act of feloniously and forcibly taking from the person of another money or goods, by violence or putting him in fear; burglary, also housebreaking or shopbreaking.

4. Forgery, or the utterance of forged papers; the forgery or falsification of official acts of government, of public authorities, or of courts of justice, or the utterance of the thing forged or falsified.

5. The counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of money whether coin or paper, or of instruments of debt created by national, state, provincial or municipal governments, or of coupons thereof, or of banknotes, or the utterance or circulation of the same; or the counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of seals of state.

6. Embezzlement by public officers; embezzlement by persons hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers; larceny; obtaining money, valuable securities or other property by false pretenses, or receiving money, valuable securities or other property knowing the same to have been embezzled, stolen or fraudulently obtained, when such act is made criminal by the laws of both countries and the amount of money or the value of the property fraudulently obtained or received is not less than $200, or Kroner 740.

7. Fraud, or breach of trust by a bailee, banker, agent, factor, trustee or other person acting in a fiduciary capacity, or director or member or officer of any company, when such act is made criminal by the laws of the countries, and the amount of money or the value of the property misappropriated is not less than $200, or Kroner 740.

8. Perjury; subornation of perjury.

9. Rape; abduction; kidnapping.

10. Malicious destruction of, or attempt to destroy, railways, trains or cars, bridges, dwellings, public edifices, or other buildings, when the act endangers human life.

11. Crimes committed at sea:

(a) Piracy, by statute or by the law of nations.

(b) Revolt, or conspiracy to revolt, by two or more persons on board a ship on the high seas against the authority of the master.

(c) Wrongfully sinking or destroying a vessel at sea, or attempting to do so.

(d) Assault on board a ship on the high seas with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

12. Crimes and offenses against the laws of both countries for the suppression of slavery and slave trading.

13. Procuring abortion.

Extradition is also to take place for participation in any of the crimes and offenses mentioned in this treaty, provided such participation may be punished in the United States as a felony, and in Denmark by imprisonment at hard labor.

ARTICLE III.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice shall be made by the diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or in the absence of these from the country or its seat of government, may be made by the superior consular officers.

If the person whose extradition is requested shall have been convicted of a crime or offense, a duly authenticated copy of the sentence of the court in which he was convicted, or if the fugitive is merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant of arrest in the country where the crime has been committed, and of the depositions or other evidence upon which such warrant was issued, shall be produced.

The extradition of fugitives under the provisions of this treaty shall be carried out in the United States and in Denmark respectively, in conformity with the laws regulating extradition for the time being in force in the state on which the demand for surrender is made.

ARTICLE IV.

When the arrest and detention of a fugitive in the United States are desired on telegraphic or other information in advance of the presentation of formal proofs, complaint on oath, as provided by the statutes of the United States, shall be made by an agent of the Danish Government before a judge or other magistrate authorized to issue warrants of arrest in extradition cases.

In the Kingdom of Denmark the diplomatic or consular officer of the United States shall apply to the foreign office, which will immediately cause the necessary steps to be taken in order to secure the provisional arrest and detention of the fugitive.

The provisional detention of a fugitive shall cease and the prisoner be released, if a formal requisition for his surrender, accompanied by the necessary evidence of his criminality, has not been produced under the stipulations of this convention, within two months from the date of his provisional arrest or detention.

ARTICLE V.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens, born or naturalized under the stipulations of this convention.

ARTICLE VI.

A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered if the offense in respect of which his surrender is demanded be of a political character, or if he proves that the requisition for his surrender has, in fact, been made with a view to try or punish him for an offense of a political character.

No person surrendered by either of the high contracting parties to the other shall be triable or tried, or be punished for any political crime or offense, or for any act connected therewith, committed previously to his extradition.

An attempt against the life of the head of either government, or against that of any member of his family, when such attempt comprises the act either of murder or assassination, or of poisoning, shall not be considered a political offense or an act connected with such an offense.

If any question shall arise as to whether a case comes within the provisions of this article, the decision of the authorities of the government on which the demand for surrender is made, or which may have granted the extradition, shall be final.

ARTICLE VII.

Extradition shall not be granted, in pursuance of the provisions of this convention, if legal proceedings or the enforcement of the penalty for the act committed by the person claimed has become barred by limitation, according to the laws of the country to which the requisition is addressed.

ARTICLE VIII.

No person surrendered by either of the high contracting parties to the other shall without his consent, freely granted and publicly declared by him, be triable or tried, or be punished for any crime or offense committed prior to his extradition, other than that for which he was delivered up, until he shall have had an opportunity of returning to the country from which he was surrendered.

ARTICLE IX.

All articles seized which are in the possession of the person to be surrendered at the time of his apprehension, whether being the proceeds of the crime or offense charged, or being material as evidence in making proof of the crime or offense shall, so far as practicable and in conformity with the laws of the respective countries, be given up when the extradition takes place. Nevertheless, the rights of third parties with regard to such articles shall be duly respected.

ARTICLE X.

If the individual claimed by one of the high contracting parties, in pursuance of the present treaty, shall also be claimed by one of several other powers on account of crimes or offenses committed within their respective jurisdictions, his extradition shall be granted to the state whose demand is first received: Provided, That the government from which extradition is sought is not bound by treaty to give preference otherwise.

ARTICLE XI.

The expenses incurred in the arrest, detention, examination and delivery of fugitives under this treaty shall be borne by the state in whose name the extradition is sought: Provided That the demanding government shall not be compelled to bear any expense for the services of such public officers of the government from which extradition is sought as receive a fixed salary: And, provided, That the charge for the services of such public officers as receive only fees or perquisites shall not exceed their customary fees for the acts or services performed by them had such acts or services been performed in ordinary criminal proceedings under the laws of the country of which they are officers.

ARTICLE XII.

The present treaty shall take effect on the thirtieth day after the date of the exchange of ratifications, and shall not operate retroactively.

The ratifications of the present treaty shall be exchanged at Washington as soon as possible and it shall remain in force for a period of six months after either of the contracting governments shall have given notice of a purpose to terminate it.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the above articles, both in the English and the Danish languages and have hereunto affixed their seals.

Done in duplicate, at the City of Washington, this sixth day of January, nineteen hundred and two.

C. BRUN. [SEAL]

ECUADOR.

(Ratified November 12, 1873; proclaimed December 24, 1873.)

The United States of America and the Republic of Ecuador, having deemed it conducive to the better administration of justice and the prevention of crime within their respective territories that all persons convicted of or accused of the crimes enumerated below, being fugitives from justice, shall be, under certain circumstances, reciprocally delivered up, have resolved to conclude a treaty upon the subject, and the President of the United States has for this purpose named Rumsey Wing, a citizen of the United States, and their minister resident in Ecuador, as plenipotentiary on the part of the United States; and the President of Ecuador has named Francisco Tavier Leon, minister of the interior and of foreign affairs, as plenipotentiary on the part of Ecuador; who having reciprocally communicated their full powers, and the same having been found in good and due form, have agreed upon the following articles, viz:

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States, and the Government of Ecuador mutually agree to deliver up such persons as may have been convicted of, or may be accused of the crimes set forth in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, and who may have sought refuge, or be found within the territory of the other: it being understood that this is only to be done when the criminality shall be proved in such manner that according to the laws of the country, where the fugitive or accused may be found such persons might be lawfully arrested and tried, had the crime been committed within its jurisdiction.

ARTICLE II.

Persons convicted of or accused of any of the following crimes shall be delivered up in accordance with the provisions of this treaty.

1. Murder, including assassination, parricide, infanticide and poisoning.

2. The crime of rape, arson, piracy, and mutiny on ship-board when the crew or a part thereof, by fraud or violence against the commanding officer have taken possession of the vessel.

3. The crime of burglary, this being understood as the act of breaking or forcing an entrance into another's house with intent to commit any crime, and the crime of robbery, this being defined as the act of taking from the person of another, goods or money with criminal intent, using violence or intimidation.

4. The crime of forgery: which is understood to be the wilful use or circulation of forged papers or public documents.

5. The fabrication or circulation of counterfeit money, either coin or paper, of public bonds, bank bills and securities, and in general of any kind of titles to or instruments of credit, the counterfeiting of stamps, dies, seals, and marks of the state, and of the administrative authorities, and the sale or circulation thereof.

6. Embezzlement of public property, committed within the jurisdiction of either party by public officers or depositaries.

ARTICLE III.

The stipulations of this treaty shall not be applicable to crimes or offenses of a political character; and the person or persons delivered up charged with the crimes specified in the foregoing article shall not be prosecuted for any crime committed previously to that for which his or their extradition may be asked.

ARTICLE IV.

If the person whose extradition may have been applied for in accordance with the stipulations of the present treaty, shall have been arrested for offenses committed in the country where he has sought refuge, or if he shall have been sentenced therefor, his extradition may be deferred until his acquittal, or the expiration of the term for which he shall have been sentenced.

ARTICLE V.

Requisitions for the extradition of fugitives from justice shall be made by the respective diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or in case of the absence of these from the country or its capital, they may be made by superior consular officers. If the person whose extradition is asked for shall have been convicted of a crime, the requsition must be accompanied by a copy of the sentence of the court that has convicted him, authenticated under its seal, and an attestation of the official character of the judge who has signed it, made by the proper executive authority; also by an authentication of the latter by the minister or consul of the United States or Ecuador respectively. On the contrary, however, when the fugitive is merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant for his arrest in the country where the crime has been committed, and of any evidence in writing upon which such warrant may have been issued, must accompany the aforesaid requisition. The President of the United States or the proper executive authority of Ecuador, may then order the arrest of the fugitive, in order that he may be brought before the judicial authority, which is competent to examine the question of extradition.

If, then, according to the evidence and the law, it be decided that the extradition is due in conformity with this treaty, the fugitive shall be delivered up, according to the forms prescribed in such cases.

ARTICLE VI.

The expenses of the arrest, detention and transportation of persons claimed, shall be paid by the government in whose name the requisition shall have been made.

ARTICLE VII.

This treaty shall continue in force for ten (10) years from the day of the exchange of ratifications, but in case neither party shall have given to the other one year's previous notice of its intention to terminate the same, then this treaty shall continue in force for ten years longer, and so on.

The present treaty shall be ratified and the ratifications exchanged in the capitol of Ecuador within two months from the day on which the session of the coming Congress of Ecuador shall terminate, which will be October, 1873.

In testimony whereof, the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the present treaty in duplicate, and have hereunto affixed their seals.

Done in the City of Quito, capitol of Ecuador, this twenty-eight day of June, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two.

FRANCE.

(Ratified April 12, 1844, proclaimed April 13, 1844.)

The United States of America and His Majesty the King of the French having judged it expedient, with a view to the better administration of justice, and to the prevention of crime within their respective territories and jurisdictions, that persons charged with the crimes hereinafter enumerated, and being fugitives from justice, should, under certain circumstances, be reciprocally delivered up, the said United States of America and His Majesty the King of the French have named as their plenipotentiaries to conclude a convention for this purpose; that is to say, the President of the United States of America, Abel P. Upshur, Secretary of State of the United States, and His Majesty the King of the French, the Sieur Pageot, Officer of the Royal Order of the Legion of Honor, his minister plenipotentiary, ad interim, in the United States of America; who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

It is agreed that the high contracting parties shall, on requisitions made in their name, through the medium of their respective diplomatic agents, deliver up to justice persons who, being accused of the crimes enumerated in the next following article, committed within the jurisdiction of the requiring party, shall seek an asylum, or shall be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall be done only when the fact of the commission of the crime shall be so established as that the laws of the country in which the fugitive or the person so accused shall be found would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial, if the crime had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Persons shall be so delivered up who shall be charged, according to the provisions of this convention, with any of the following crimes, to wit: Murder, (comprehending the crimes designated in the French Penal Code by the terms, assassination, parricide, infanticide and poisoning,) or with an attempt to commit murder, or with rape, or with forgery, or with arson, or with embezzlement by public officers, when the same is punishable with infamous punishment.

ARTICLE III.

On the part of the French Government, the surrender shall be made only by authority of the keeper of the seals, minister of justice; and on the part of the Government of the United States, the surrender shall be made only by authority of the executive thereof.

ARTICLE IV.

The expenses of any detention and delivery effected in virtue of the preceding provisions shall be borne and defrayed by the government in whose name the requisition shall have been made.

ARTICLE V.

The provisions of the present convention shall not be applied in any manner to the crimes enumerated in the second article, committed anterior to the date thereof, nor to any crime or offense of a purely political character.

ARTICLE VI.

This convention shall continue in force until it shall be abrogated by the contracting parties, or one of them; but it shall not be abrogated except by mutual consent, unless the party desiring to abrogate it shall give six months' previous notice of his intention to do so. It shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged within the space of six months, or earlier, if possible.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present convention in duplicate, and have affixed thereto the seal of their arms.

Done at Washington, the ninth day of November, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and forty-three.

(1845 Additional Article to Extradition Convention.)

The crime of robbery, defining the same to be, the felonious and forcible taking from the person of another, of goods, or money to any value, by violence or putting him in fear;—and the crime of burglary, defining the same to be, breaking and entering by night into a mansion house of another with intent to commit felony; and the corresponding crimes included under the French law in the words vol qualifié crime,—not being embraced in the second article of the convention of extradition concluded between the United States of America and France, on the ninth of November, 1843, it is agreed, by the present article, between the high contracting parties, that persons charged with those crimes shall be respectively delivered up, in conformity with the first article of the said convention; and the present article when ratified by the parties, shall constitute a part of the said convention, and shall have the same force as if it had been originally inserted in the same.

In witness whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present article in duplicate, and have affixed thereto the seal of their arms.

(1858 Additional Article to Extradition Convention.)

It is agreed between the high contracting parties that the provisions of the treaties for the mutual extradition of criminals between the United States of America and France, of November 9, 1843, and February 24, 1845, and now in force between the two governments, shall extend not only to persons charged with the crimes therein mentioned, but also to persons charged with the following crimes, whether as principals, accessories or accomplices, namely: forging or knowingly passing or putting in circulation counterfeit coin or bank notes or other paper current as money, with intent to defraud any person or persons, embezzlement by any person or persons hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers, when these crimes are subject to infamous punishment.

In witness whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present article in triplicate, and have affixed thereto the seal of their arms.

ARTICLE X.

It is agreed that the United States and Her Britannic Majesty shall, upon mutual requisitions by them, or their ministers, officers or authorities, respectively made, deliver up to justice all persons who, being charged with the crime of murder, or assault with intent to commit murder, or piracy, or arson, or robbery, or forgery, or the utterance of forged paper, committed within the jurisdiction of either, shall seek an asylum, or shall be found, within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime or offense had there been committed: And the respective judges and other magistrates of the two governments shall have power, jurisdiction and authority, upon complaint made under oath, to issue a warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive or person so charged, that he may be brought before such judges or other magistrates, respectiveiy, to the end that the evidence of criminality may be heard and considered; and if, on such hearing, the evidence be deemed sufficient to sustain the charge, it shall be the duty of the examining judge or magistrate to certify the same to the proper executive authority, that a warrant may issue for the surrender of such fugitive. The expense of such apprehension and delivery shall be borne and defrayed by the party who makes the requisition and receives the fugitive.

ARTICLE XI.

The eighth article of this treaty shall be in force for five years from the date of the exchange of the ratifications, and afterwards until one or the other party shall signify a wish to terminate it. The tenth article shall continue in force until one or the other of the parties shall signify its wish to terminate it, and no longer.

ARTICLE XII.

The present treaty shall be duly ratified, and the mutual exchange of ratifications shall take place in London, within six months from the date hereof, or earlier if possible.

In faith whereof, we, the respective plenipotentiaries, have signed this treaty, and have hereunto affixed our seals.

(1889—Extradition Convention.)

Whereas, by the tenth article of the treaty concluded between the United States of America and Her Britannic Majesty on the ninth day of August, 1842, provision is made for the extradition of persons charged with certain crimes; and whereas, it is now desired by the high contracting parties that the provisions of the said article should embrace certain crimes not therein specified, and should extend to fugitives convicted of the crimes specified in the said article and in this convention; the said high contracting parties have appointed as their plenipotentiaries to conclude a convention for this purpose, that is to say: The President of the United States of America, James G. Blaine, Secretary of State of the United States; and Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Sir Julian Pauncefote, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, and envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of Her Britannic Majesty to the United States; who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The provision of the said tenth article are hereby made applicable to the following additional crimes:

1. Manslaughter, when voluntary.

2. Counterfeiting or altering money; uttering or bringing into circulation counterfeit or altered money.

3. Embezzlement, larceny, receiving any money, valuable security or other property, knowing the same to have been embezzled, stolen or fraudulently obtained.

4. Fraud by a bailee, banker, agent, factor, trustee or director or member or officer of any company, made criminal by the laws of both countries.

5. Perjury or subornation of perjury.

6. Rape, abduction; child-stealing; kidnapping.

7. Burglary; housebreaking or shop breaking.

8. Piracy by the law of nations.

9. Revolt or conspiracy to revolt by two or more persons on board a ship on the high seas, against the authority of the master; wrongfully sinking or destroying a vessel at sea, or attempting to do so; assaults on board a ship on the high seas, with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

10. Crimes and offenses against the laws of both countries for the suppression of slavery and slave trading.

Extradition is also to take place for participation in any of the crimes mentioned in this convention or in the aforesaid tenth article, provided such participation be punishable by the laws of both countries.

ARTICLE II.

A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered, if the offense in respect of which his surrender is demanded be one of a political character, or if he proves that the requisition for his surrender has in fact been made with a view to try or punish him for an offense of a political character.

No person surrendered by either of the high contracting parties to the other shall be triable or tried, or be punished for any political crime or offense, or for any act connected therewith, committed previously to his extradition.

If any question shall arise as to whether a case comes within the provisions of this article the decision of the authorities of the government in whose jurisdiction the fugitive shall be at the time, shall be final.

ARTICLE III.

No person surrendered by or to either of the high contracting parties shall be triable or be tried for any crime or offense committed prior to his extradition, other than the offense for which he was surrendered, until he shall have had an opportunity of returning to the country from which he was surrendered.

ARTICLE IV.

All articles seized which were in the possession of the person to be surrendered at the time of his apprehension, whether being the proceeds of the crime or offense charged, or being material as evidence in making proof of the crime or offense, shall so far as practicable, and if the competent authority of the state applied to for the extradition has ordered the delivery thereof, be given up when the extradition takes place. Nevertheless, the rights of third parties with regard to the articles aforesaid shall be duly respected.

ARTICLE V.

If the individual claimed by one of the two high contracting parties, in pursuance of the present convention, should also be claimed by one or several other powers on account of crimes or offenses committed within their respective jurisdictions, his extradition shall be granted to that state whose demand is first received.

The provisions of this article, and also of articles II to IV, inclusive, of the present convention, shall apply to surrender for offenses specified in the aforesaid tenth article, as well as to surrender for offenses specified in this convention.

ARTICLE VI.

The extradition of fugitives under the provisions of this convention and of the said tenth article shall be carried out in the United States and in Her Majesty's dominions, respectively, in conformity with the laws regulating extradition for the time being in force in the surrendering state.

ARTICLE VII.

The provisions of the said tenth article and of this convention shall apply to persons convicted of the crimes therein respectively named and specified, whose sentence therefor shall not have been executed.

In case of a fugitive criminal alleged to have been convicted of the crime for which his surrender is asked, a copy of the record of the conviction and of the sentence of the court before which such conviction took place, duly authenticated, shall be produced, together with the evidence proving that the prisoner is the person to whom such sentence refers.

ARTICLE VIII.

The present convention shall not apply to any of the crimes herein specified which shall have been committed, or to any conviction which shall have been pronounced, prior to the date at which the convention shall come into force.

ARTICLE IX.

This convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at London as soon as possible.

It shall come into force ten days after its publication, in conformity with the forms prescribed by the laws of the high contracting parties, and shall continue in force until one or the other of the high contracting parties shall signify its wish to terminate it, and no longer.

In witness whereof, the undersigned have signed the same and have affixed thereto their seals.

Done in duplicate, at the City of Washington, this twelfth day of July, 1889.

GUATEMALA.

(Ratifications exchanged at Washington, July 16, 1903. Proclaimed, July 17, 1903)

The United States of America and the Republic of Guatemala, being desirous to confirm their friendly relations and to promote the cause of justice, have resolved to conclude a treaty for the extradition of fugitives from justice between the United States of America and the Republic of Guatemala, and have appointed for that purpose the following plenipotentiaries: The President of the United States of America, John Hay, Secretary of State of the United States, and the President of Guatemala, Senor Don Antonio Lazo Arriaga, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of Guatemala to the United States, who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States and the Government of Guatemala mutually agree to deliver up persons who, having been charged, as principals or accessories, with or convicted of any of the crimes and offenses specified in the following article committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Persons shall be delivered up, according to the provisions of this convention, who shall have been charged with, or convicted of, any of the following crimes or offenses:

1. Murder, comprehending the crimes known as parricide, assassination, poisoning, and infanticide; assault with intent to commit murder; manslaughter, when voluntary.

2. Mayhem and any other wilful mutilation causing disability or death.

3. The malicious and unlawful destruction or attempted destruction of railways, trains, bridges, vehicles, vessels, and other means of travel, or of public edifices and private dwellings, when the act committed shall endanger human life.

4. Rape.

5. Bigamy.

6. Arson.

7. Crimes committed at sea:

(a) Piracy, by statute or by the law of nations.

(b) Wrongfully sinking or destroying a vessel at sea, or attempting to do so.

(c) Revolt, or conspiracy to revolt, by two or more persons on board a ship on the high seas against the authority of the master.

(d) Assaults on board a ship on the high seas with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

8. Burglarly, defined to be the act of breaking and entering into the house of another in the night time, with intent to commit a felony therein.

9. The act of breaking into and entering public offices, or the offices of banks, banking houses, savings banks, trust companies, or insurance companies with intent to commit theft therein, and also the thefts resulting from such acts.

10. Robbery, defined to be the felonious and forcible taking from the person of another of goods or money, by violence or by putting the person in fear.

11. Forgery or the utterance of forged papers.

12. The forgery, or falsification of the official acts of the government or public authority, including courts of justice, or the utterance or fraudulent use of any of the same.

13. The fabrication of counterfeit money, whether coin or paper, counterfeit titles or coupons of public debt, bank notes or other instruments of public credit; of counterfeit seals, stamps, dies, and marks of state or public administration, and the utterance, circulation, or fraudulent use of any of the above mentioned objects.

14. The introduction of instruments for the fabrication of counterfeit coin or bank notes or other paper current as money.

15. Embezzlement or criminal malversation of public funds committed within the jurisdiction of either party by public officers or depositaries, where the amount of money embezzled is not less than two hundred dollars.

16. Embezzlement of funds of a bank of deposit or savings bank, or trust company chartered under the federal or state laws, where the amount of money embezzled is not less than two hundred dollars.

17. Embezzlement by any person or persons hired or salaried to the detriment of their employers, when the crime is subject to punishment by the laws of the place where it was committed, and where the amount of money or the value of the property embezzled is not less than two hundred dollars.

19 Obtaining by threats of injury, or by false devices, money, valuables or other personal property, and the receiving of the same with the knowledge that they have been so obtained, when such crimes or offenses are punishable by imprisonment or other corporal punishment by the laws of both countries, and the amount of money or the value of the property so obtained is not less than two hundred dollars.

20. Larceny, defined to be the theft of effects, personal property, horses, cattle or livestock, or money, of the value of twenty-five dollars or more, or receiving stolen property, of that value, knowing it to be stolen.

21. Fraud or breach of trust by a bailee, banker, agent, factor, trustee, or other person acting in a fiduciary capacity, or director or member or officer of any company, when such act is made criminal by the laws of both countries and the amount of money or the value of the property misappropriated is not less than two hundred dollars.

22. Perjury; violation of an affirmation or a promise to state the truth, when required by law; subornation to commit said crimes.

23. Extradition shall also be granted for the attempt to commit any of the crimes and offenses above enumerated, when such attempt is punishable as a felony by the laws of both contracting parties.

ARTICLE III.

A person surrendered under this convention shall not be tried or punished in the country to which his extradition has been granted, nor given up to a third power for a crime or offense, not provided for by the present convention and committed previously to his extradition, until he shall have been allowed one month to leave the country after having been discharged; and, if he shall have been tried and condemned to punishment, he shall be allowed one month after having suffered his penalty or having been pardoned. He shall moreover not be tried or punished for any crime or offense provided for by this convention committed previous to his extradition, other than that which gave rise to the extradition, without the consent of the government which surrendered him, which may, if it think proper, require the production of one of the documents mentioned in Article XI of this convention.

The consent of that government shall likewise be required for the extradition of the accused to a third country; nevertheless, such consent shall not be necessary when the accused shall have asked of his own accord to be tried or to undergo his punishment, or when he shall not have left within the space of time above specified the territory of the country to which he has been surrendered.

ARTICLE IV.

The provisions of this convention shall not be applicable to persons guilty of any political crime or offense or of one connected with such a crime or offense. A person who has been surrendered on account of one of the common crimes or offenses mentioned in article II shall consequently in no case be prosecuted and punished in the state to which his extradition has been granted on account of a political crime or offense committed by him previously to his extradition, or on account of an act connected with such a political crime or offense, unless he has been at liberty to leave the country for one month after having been tried and, in case of condemnation, for one month after having suffered his punishment or having been pardoned.

An attempt against the life of the head of a foreign government or against that of any member of his family, when such attempt comprises the act either of murder or assassination, or of poisoning, shall not be considered a political offense or an act connected with such an offense.

ARTICLE V.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens under the stipulations of this convention, but the executive authority of each shall have the power to deliver them up, if, in its discretion, it be deemed proper to do so.

ARTICLE VI.

If the person whose surrender may be claimed, pursuant to the stipulations of the present convention, shall have been accused or arrested for the commission of any offense in the country where he or she has sought asylum, or shall have been convicted thereof, his or her extradition may be deferred until he or she is entitled to be liberated on account of the offense charged, for any of the following reasons: acquittal; expiration of term of imprisonment; expiration of the period to which the sentence may have been commuted, or pardoned.

ARTICLE VII.

If a fugitive criminal claimed by one of the parties hereto shall be also claimed by one or more powers, pursuant to treaty provisions on account of crimes or offenses committed within their jurisdiction, such criminal shall be delivered up in preference in accordance with that demand which is the earliest in date, unless the state from which extradition is sought is bound to give preference otherwise.

ARTICLE VIII.

Extradition shall not be granted, in pursuance of the provisions of this convention, if legal proceedings or the enforcement of the penalty for the act committed by the person claimed has becomed barred by limitation, according to the laws of the country to which the requisition is addressed.

ARTICLE IX.

On being informed by telegraph or otherwise, through the diplomatic channel, that a warrant has been issued by competent authority for the arrest of a fugitive criminal charged with any of the crimes enumerated in the foregoing articles of this treaty, and on being assured from the same source that a requisition for the surrender of such criminal is about to be made, accompanied by such warrant and duly authenticated depositions or copies thereof in support of the charge, each government shall endeavor to procure the provisional arrest of such criminal and to keep him in safe custody for such time as may be practicable, not exceeding forty days, to await the production of the documents upon which the claim for extradition is founded.

ARTICLE X.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice shall be made by the respective diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or, in the event of the absence of these from the country or its seat of government, they may be made by superior consular officers.

If the person whose extradition may be asked for shall have been convicted of a crime or offense, a copy of the sentence of the court in which he has been convicted, authenticated under its seal, with attestation of the official character of the judge, by the proper executive authority, and of the latter by the minister or consul of the United States or of Guatemala, respectively, shall accompany the requisition. When, however, the fugitive shall have been merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant of arrest in the country where the crime has been committed, and of the depositions upon which such warrant has been issued, must accompany the requisition as aforesaid.

ARTICLE XI.

The expenses of the arrest, detention, examination and delivery of fugitives under this convention shall be born by the state in whose name the extradition is sought: Provided, That the demanding government shall not be compelled to bear any expenses for the services of such officers of the government from which extradition is sought as receive a fixed salary; and provided that the charge for the services of such public officials as receive only fees shall not exceed the fees to which such officials are entitled under the laws of the country for services rendered in ordinary criminal proceedings.

ARTICLE XII.

All articles found in the possession of the accused party and obtained through the commission of the act with which he is charged, and that may be used as evidence of the crime for which his extradition is demanded, shall be seized if the competent authority shall so order and shall be surrendered with his person.

The rights of third parties to the articles so found shall nevertheless be respected.

ARTICLE XIII.

Each of the contracting parties shall exercise due diligence in procuring the extradition and prosecution of its citizens who may be charged with the commission of any of the crimes or offenses mentioned in article II, exclusively committed in its territory against the government or any of the citizens of the other contracting party, when the person accused may have taken refuge or be found within the territory of the latter, provided the said crime or offense is one that is punishable, as such, in the territory of the demanding country.

ARTICLE XIV.

The present convention shall take effect thirty days after the exchange of ratifications, when the convention of October 11, 1870, and the additional article of October 22, 1887, shall cease to be in force and shall be superseded by the present convention which shall continue to have binding force for six months after a desire for its termination shall have been expressed in due form by one of the two governments to the other.

It shall be ratified and its ratifications shall be exchanged at Washington as soon as possible.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the above articles both in the English and Spanish languages, and have hereunto affixed their seals.

ARTICLE XXXVIII.

It is agreed that the high contracting parties shall, on requisitions made in their name, through the medium of their respective diplomatic agents, deliver up to justice persons who, being charged with the crimes enumerated in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of the requiring party, shall seek an asylum or shall be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall be done only when the fact of the commission of the crime shall be so established as to justify their apprehension and commitment for trial, if the crime had been committed in the country where the persons so accused shall be found; in all of which the tribunals of said country shall proceed and decide according to their own laws.

ARTICLE XXXIX.

Persons shall be delivered up, according to the provisions of this treaty, who shall be charged with any of the following crimes, to-wit: murder, (including assassination, parricide, infanticide, and poisoning); attempt to commit murder; piracy; rape; forgery; the counterfeiting of money; the utterance of forged paper; arson; robbery, and embezzlement by public officers; or by persons hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers; when these crimes are subject to infamous punishment.

ARTICLE XL.

The surrender shall be made, on the part of each country, only by the authority of the executive thereof. The expenses of the detention and delivery, effected in virtue of the preceding articles, shall be at the cost of the party making the demand.

ARTICLE XLI.

The provisions of the foregoing articles relating to the extradition of fugitive criminals shall not apply to offenses committed before the date hereof, nor to those of a political character.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens under the provisions of this treaty.

ARTICLE XLII.

The present treaty shall remain in force for the term of eight years, dating from the exchange of ratifications; and if one year before the expiration of that period neither of the contracting parties shall have given notice to the other of its intention to terminate the same, it shall continue in force, from year to year, until one year after an official notification to terminate the same, as aforesaid.

ARTICLE XLIII.

The present treaty shall be submitted on both sides to the approval and ratification of the respective competent authorities of each of the contracting parties, and the ratifications shall be exchanged, at Washington, within six months from the date hereof, or sooner if possible.

In faith whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the foregoing articles, in the English and French languages, and they have hereunto affixed their seals.

ITALY.

(Ratified September 17, 1868, proclaimed September 30, 1868.)

The United States of America, and His Majesty the King of Italy, having judged it expedient, with a view to the better administration of justice, and to the prevention of crimes within their respective territories and jurisdictions, that persons convicted of or charged with the crimes hereinafter specified, and being fugitives from justice, should, under certain circumstances, be reciprocally delivered up, have resolved to conclude a convention for that purpose, and have appointed as their plenipotentiaries: The President of the United States, William H. Seward, Secretary of State. His Majesty the King of Italy, the Commander Marcello Cerruti, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary who, after reciprocal communication of their full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon the following articles, to-wit:

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States and the Government of Italy mutually agree to deliver up persons who having been convicted of, or charged with, the crimes specified in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties shall seek an asylum, or be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality, as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found would justify his or her apprehension, and commitment for trial, if the crime had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Persons shall be delivered up, who shall have been convicted of, or be charged according to the provisions of this convention, with any of the following crimes:

1. Murder, comprehending the crimes designated in the Italian penal code, by the terms of parricide, assassination, poisoning and infanticide.

2. The attempt to commit murder.

3. The crimes of rape, arson, piracy and mutiny on board a ship, whenever the crew or part thereof by fraud or violence against the commander, have taken posession of the vessel.

4. The crime of burglary, defined to be the action of breaking and entering by night into the house of another with the intent to commit felony, and the crime of robbery, defined to be the action of feloniously and forcibly taking from the person of another, goods or money, by violence or putting him in fear.

5. The crime of forgery, by which is understood the utterance of forged papers, the counterfeiting of public, sovereign or government acts.

6. The fabrication or circulation of counterfeit money, either coin or paper, of public bonds, bank notes and obligations, and in general of any title and instrument of credit whatsoever, the counterfeiting of seals, dies, stamps and marks of state and public administrations and the utterance thereof.

7. The embezzlement of public moneys committed within the jurisdiction of either party, by public officers or depositors.

8. Embezzlement by any person or persons hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers, when these crimes are subject to infamous punishment.

ARTICLE III.

The provisions of this treaty shall not apply to any crime or offense of a political character, and the person or persons delivered up for the crimes enumerated in the preceding article shall in no case be tried for any ordinary crime committed previously to that for which his or their surrender is asked.

ARTICLE IV.

If the person whose surrender may be claimed pursuant to the stipulations of the present treaty, shall have been arrested for the commission of offenses in the country where he has sought an asylum, or shall have been convicted thereof, his extradition may be deferred, until he shall have been acquitted, or have served the term of imprisonment to which he may have been sentenced.

ARTICLE V.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice shall be made by the respective diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or in the event of the absence of these from the country, or its seat of government, they may be made by superior consular officers. If the person whose extradition may be asked for shall have been convicted of a crime, a copy of the sentence of the court in which he may have been convicted, authenticated under its seal, and an attestation of the official character of the judge by the proper executive authority, and of the latter by the minister or consul of the United States or of Italy, respectively, shall accompany the requisition. When, however, the fugitive shall have been merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant for his arrest in the country where the crime may have been committed, or of the depositions upon which such warrant may have been issued, must accompany the requisition as aforesaid. The President of the United States, or the proper executive authority in Italy may then issue a warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive in order that he may be brought before the proper judicial authority for examination. If it should then be decided, that according to law and the evidence the extradition is due pursuant to the treaty, the fugitive may be given up according to the forms prescribed in such cases.

ARTICLE VI

The expenses of the arrest, detention and transportation of the persons, claimed, shall be paid by the government in whose name the requisition shall have been made.

ARTICLE VII.

This convention shall continue in force during five years from the day of exchange of ratifications, but if neither party shall have given to the other six months previous notice of its intention to terminate the same, the convention shall remain in force five years longer, and so on.

The present convention shall be ratified and the ratification exchanged at Washington, within six months, and sooner if possible.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present convention in duplicate, and have hereunto affixed their seals.

Done at Washington the twenty-third day of March, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, and of the Independence of the United States the ninety-second.

ADDITIONAL ARTICLE RELATING TO THE CRIME OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

It is agreed that the concluding paragraph of the second article of the convention aforesaid shall be so amended as to read as follows:

8. Embezzlement by any person or persons hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers when these crimes are subject to infamous punishment according to the laws of the United States, and criminal punishment according to the laws of Italy.

In witness whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present article in duplicate and have affixed thereto the seal of their arms.

(1884.—Convention additional to extradition convention 1868.)

The President of the United States of America and His Majesty the King of Italy, being convinced of the necessity of adding some stipulations to the extradition convention concluded between the United States and Italy on the 23d of March, 1868, with a view to the better administration of justice and the prevention of crime in their respective territories and jurisdictions, have resolved to conclude a supplementary convention for this purpose, and have appointed as their plenipotentiaries, to-wit: The President of the United States, Frederick T. Frelinghuysen, Secretary of State of the United States, and His Majesty the King of Italy, Baron Saverio Fava, his envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary at Washington, who, after reciprocal communication of their full powers, which were found to be in good and due form, have agreed upon the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The following paragraph is added to the list of crimes on account of which extradition may be granted, as provided in article II of the aforesaid convention of March 23, 1868:

9. Kidnapping of minors or adults, that is to say, the detention of one or more persons for the purpose of extorting money from them or their families, or for any other unlawful purpose.

ARTICLE II.

The following clause shall be inserted after article V of the aforesaid convention of March 23, 1868:

Any competent judicial magistrate of either of the two countries shall be authorized after the exhibition of a certificate signed by the minister of foreign affairs [of Italy] or the Secretary of State [of the United States] attesting that a requisition has been made by the government of the other country to secure the preliminary arrest of a person condemned for or charged with having therein committed a crime for which, pursuant to this convention, extradition may be granted, and on complaint duly made under oath by a person cognizant of the fact, or by a diplomatic or consular officer of the demanding government, being duly authorized by the latter, and attesting that the aforesaid crime was thus perpetrated, to issue a warrant for the arrest of the person thus inculpated, to the end that he or she may be brought before the said magistrate, so that the evidence of his or her criminality may be heard and considered; and the person thus accused and imprisoned shall from time to time be remanded to prison until a formal demand for his or her extradition shall be made and supported by evidence as above provided; if, however, the requisition together with the documents above provided for, shall not be made, as required, by the diplomatic representative of the demanding government, or in his absence, by a consular officer thereof, within forty days from the date of the arrest of the accused, the prisoner shall be set at liberty.

ARTICLE III.

These supplementary articles shall be considered as an integral part of the aforesaid original extradition convention of March 23, 1868, and together with the additional article of January 21, 1869, as having the same value and force as the convention itself, and as destined to continue and terminate in the same manner.

The present convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications exchanged at Washington as speedily as possible, and it shall take effect immediately after the said exchange of ratifications.

In testimony whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present convention in duplicate, and have thereunto affixed their seals.

Done at Washington, this eleventh day of the month of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four.

JAPAN.

(Ratified September 27, 1886; proclaimed November 3, 1886.)

The President of the United States of America and his Majesty the Emperor of Japan, having judged it expedient, with a view to the better administration of justice, and to the prevention of crime within the two countries and their jurisdictions, that persons charged with or convicted of the crimes or offenses hereinafter named and being fugitives from justice, should, under certain circumstances, be reciprocally delivered up, they have named as their plenipotentiaries to conclude a treaty for this purpose, that is to say: The President of the United States of America, Richard B. Hubbard, their envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary near His Imperial Majesty, and His Majesty the Emperor of Japan, Count Inouye Kaoru, Jinsammi, His Imperial Majesty's minister of state for foreign affairs, first class of the order of the Rising Sun, etc., who after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The high contracting parties engage to deliver up to each other, under the circumstances and conditions stated in the present treaty, all persons, who being accused or convicted of one of the crimes or offenses named below in article II and committed within the jurisdiction of the one party shall be found within the jurisdiction of the other party.

ARTICLE II.

1. Murder and assault with intent to commit murder.

2. Counterfeiting or altering money, or uttering or bringing into circulation counterfeit or altered money; counterfeiting certificates or coupons of public indebtedness, bank notes, or other instruments of public credit of either of the parties, and the utterance or the circulation of the same.

3. Forgery or altering, and uttering what is forged or altered.

4. Embezzlement or criminal malversation of the public funds committed within the jurisdiction of either party by public officers or depositaries.

5. Robbery.

6. Burglary, defined to be the breaking and entering by night time into the house of another person with the intent to commit a felony therein; and the act of breaking and entering the house of another, whether in the day or night-time, with the intent to commit a felony therein.

7. The act of entering, or of breaking and entering, the offices of the government and public authorities or the offices of banks, banking houses, savings banks, trust companies, insurance or other companies, with the intent to commit a felony therein.

8. Perjury or the subornation of perjury.

9. Rape.

10. Arson.

11. Piracy by the law of nations.

12. Murder, assault with intent to kill, and manslaughter, committed on the high seas, on board a ship bearing the flag of the demanding country.

13. Malicious destruction of, or attempt to destroy railways, trams, vessels, bridges, dwellings, public edifices, or other buildings, when the act endangers human life.

ARTICLE III.

If the person demanded be held for trial in the country on which the demand is made, it shall be optional with the latter to grant extradition or to proceed with the trial; Provided, That, unless the trial shall be for the crime for which the fugitive is claimed the delay shall not prevent ultimate extradition.

ARTICLE IV.

If it be made to appear that extradition is sought with a view to try or punish the person demanded for an offense of a political character, surrender shall not take place, nor shall any person surrendered be tried or punished for any political offense committed previously to his extradition for any offense other than that in respect of which the extradition is granted.

ARTICLE V.

The requisition for extradition shall be made through the diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or, in the event of the absence of these from the country or its seat of government, by superior consular officers.

If the person whose extradition is requested shall have been convicted of a crime, a copy of the sentence of the court in which he was convicted, authenticated under its seal, and an attestation of the official character of the judge by the proper executive authority, and of the latter by the minister or consul of the United States or of Japan, as the case may be, shall accompany the requisition. When the fugitive is merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant of arrest in the country making the demand and of the depositions on which such warrant may have been issued, must accompany the requisition.

The fugitive shall be surrendered only on such evidence of criminality as according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found would justify his apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime had been there committed.

ARTICLE VI.

On being informed by telegraph or other written communication through the diplomatic channel, that a lawful warrant has been issued by competent authority upon probable cause for the arrest of a fugitive criminal charged with any of the crimes enumerated in article II of this treaty, and, on being assured from the same source that a request for the surrender of such criminal is about to be made in accordance with the provisions of this treaty, each government will endeavor to procure so far as it lawfully may the provisional arrest of such criminal, and keep him in safe custody for a reasonable time, not exceeding two months, to await the production of the documents upon which the claim for extradition is founded.

ARTICLE VII.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens or subjects under the stipulations of this convention, but they shall have the power to deliver them up if in their discretion it be deemed proper to do so.

ARTICLE VIII.

The expenses of the arrest, detention, examination and transportation of the accused shall be paid by the government which has requested the extradition.

ARTICLE IX.

The present treaty shall come into force sixty days after the exchange of the ratifications thereof. It may be terminated by either of them, but shall remain in force for six months after notice has been given of its termination.

The treaty shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Washington as soon as possible.

In witness whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present treaty in duplicate and have thereunto affixed their seals.

Done at the city of Tokio, the twenty-ninth day of April, in the eighteen hundred and eighty-sixth year of the Christian Era, corresponding to the twenty-ninth day of the fourth month of the nineteenth year of Meiji.

LUXEMBURG.

(Ratified July 14, 1884; proclaimed August 12, 1884.)

The United States of America and His Majesty the King of the Netherlands, Grand-Duke of Luxemburg having judged it expedient, with a view to the better administration of justice and the prevention of crime within their respective territories and jurisdictions, that persons charged with or convicted of the crimes and offenses hereinafter enumerated, and being fugitives from justice, should, under certain circumstances be reciprocally delivered up, have resolved to conclude a convention for that purpose and have appointed as their plenipotentiaries: The President of the United States of America, Mr. A. A. Sargent, his envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to His majesty the Emperor of Germany at Berlin, and His Majesty the King of the Netherlands, Grand Duke of Luxemburg, Dr. Paul Eyschen, his director general of the department of justice and chargé d'affaires of the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg at Berlin, chevalier of the second class of the Order of the Golden Lion of the House of Nassau, commander of the Order of the crown of Oak and of that of the Lion of the Netherlands, etc., who after having communicated to each other their respective full-powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States and the government of Luxemburg mutually agree to deliver up persons who, having been charged as principals or accessories with or convicted of any of the crimes and offenses specified in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Persons shall be delivered up who shall have been convicted of or be charged, according to the provisions of the convention, with any of the following crimes:

1. Murder, comprehending the crimes designated in the penal code of Luxemburg by the terms of parricide, assassination, poisoning and infanticide.
2. The attempt to commit murder.
3. Rape, or attempt to commit rape, bigamy, abortion.
4. Arson.
5. Piracy or mutiny on shipboard whenever the crew or part thereof shall have taken possession of the vessel by fraud or by violence against the commander.

6. The crime of burglary defined to be the act of breaking and entering by night into the house of another with the intent to commit felony; and the crime of robbery, defined to be the act of feloniously and forcibly taking from the person of another money or goods by violence or putting him in fear; and the corresponding crimes punished by the laws of Luxemburg under the description of thefts committed in an inhabited house by night and by breaking in, by climbing or forcibly; and thefts committed with violence or by means of threats.

7. The crime of forgery by which is understood the utterance of forged papers, and also the counterfeiting of public, sovereign, or governmental acts.

8. The fabrication or circulation of counterfeit money, either coin or paper, or of counterfeit public bonds, coupons of the public debt, bank notes, obligations, or in general, anything being a title or instrument of credit; the counterfeiting of seals and dies, impressions, stamps and marks of state and public administrations and the utterance thereof.

9. The embezzlement of public moneys committed within the jurisdiction of either party by public officers or depositaries.

10. Embezzlement by any person or persons hired or salaried to the detriment of their employers, when the crime is subject to punishment by the laws of the place where it was committed.

11. Willful and unlawful destruction or obstruction of railroads which endangers human life.

12. Reception of articles obtained by means of one of the crimes or offenses provided for by the present convention.

Extradition may also be granted for the attempt to commit any of the crimes above enumerated, when such attempt is punishable by the laws of both contracting parties.

ARTICLE III.

A person surrendered under this convention shall not be tried or punished in the country to which his extradition has been granted, nor given up to the third power for a crime or offense not provided for by the present convention and committed previously to his extradition, until he shall have been allowed one month to leave the country after having been discharged; and, if he shall have been tried and condemned to punishment he shall be allowed one month after having suffered his penalty or having been pardoned.

He may, however, be tried or punished for any crime or offense provided for by this convention, committed previous to his extradition, other than that which gave rise to the extradition, and notice of the purpose to so try him, with specification of the offense charged, shall be given to the government which surrendered him, which may, if it think proper, require the production of one of the documents mentioned in article VII of this convention.

The consent of that government shall be required for the extradition of the accused to a third country; nevertheless such consent shall not be necessary when the accused shall have asked of his own accord to be tried or to undergo his punishment, or when he shall not have left within the space of time above specified the territory of the country to which he has been surrendered.

ARTICLE IV.

The provisions of this convention shall not be applicable to persons guilty of any political crime or offense or of one connected with such a crime or offense. A person who has been surrendered on account of one of the common crimes or offenses mentioned in article II, shall consequently in no case be prosecuted and punished in the state to which his extradition has been granted on account of political crime or offense committed by him previously to his extradition or on account of an act connected with such a political crime or offense, unless he has been at liberty to leave the country for one month after having been tried, and, in case of condemnation for one month after having suffered his punishment or having been pardoned.

An attempt against the life of the head of a foreign government or against that of any member of his family, when such attempt comprises the act either of murder or assassination or of poisoning shall not be considered a political offense or an act connected with such an offense.

ARTICLE V.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens or subjects under the stipulations of this convention.

ARTICLE VI.

If the person whose surrender may be claimed pursuant to the stipulations of the present treaty shall have been arrested for the commission of offenses in the country where he has sought an asylum or shall have been convicted thereof, his extradition may be deferred until he shall have been acquitted, or have served the term of imprisonment to which he may have been sentenced.

ARTICLE VII.

Requisitions of the surrender of fugitives from justice shall always be made through a diplomatic channel.

If the person whose extradition may be asked for shall have been convicted of a crime or offense, a copy of the sentence of the court in which he may have been convicted, authenticated under its seal and attestation of the official character of the judge by the proper executive authority; and of the latter by the minister or consul of the United States or by the minister or consul charged with the interests of Luxemburg, respectively, shall accompany the requisition. When, however, the fugitive shall have been merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant for his arrest in the country where the crime may have been committed, and of the depositions upon which such warrant may have been issued, must accompany the requisition as aforesaid. The President of the United States or the proper authority in Luxemburg may then issue a warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive, in order that he may be brought before the proper judicial authority for examination. If it should then be decided that, according to the law and the evidence, the extradition is due pursuant to the treaty, the fugitive may be given up according to the forms prescribed in such cases.

ARTICLE VIII.

The expenses of the arrest, detention and transportation of the persons claimed shall be paid by the government in whose name the requisition has been made.

ARTICLE IX.

Extradition shall not be granted in pursuance of the provisions of this convention, if legal proceedings or the enforcement of the penalty for the act committed by the person claimed, has become barred by limitation, according to the laws of the country to which the requisition is addressed.

ARTICLE X.

All articles found in the possession of the accused party and obtained through the commission of the act with which he is charged, or that may be used as evidence of the crime for which his extradition is demanded, shall be seized if the competent authority shall so order, and shall be surrendered with his person. The rights of third parties to the articles so found shall, nevertheless, be respected.

ARTICLE XI.

The present convention shall take effect thirty days after the exchange of ratifications. It may be terminated by either of the contracting parties, but shall remain in force for six months after notice has been given for its termination. It shall be ratified and its ratifications shall be exchanged as soon as possible.

In witness whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the above articles, both in the English and French languages, and they have thereunto affixed their seals.

Done, in duplicate, at the city of Berlin, this 29th day of October, A. D. 1883.

MEXICO.

(Ratifications exchange at the City of Mexico, April 22, 1899; proclaimed, April 24, 1899.)

The United States of America and the United States of Mexico, having judged it expedient, with a view to the better administration of justice and the prevention of crime within their respective territories and jurisdictions, that persons charged with or convicted of the crimes and offenses hereinafter enumerated, and being fugitives from justice, should, under certain circumstances, be reciprocally delivered up, have resolved to conclude a new convention for that purpose, and have appointed as their plenipotentiaries: The President of the United States of America, Powell Clayton, ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary, of said United States at Mexico, and the President of the United States of Mexico, Don Ignacio Mariscal, secretary of foreign relations, who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States of America and the Government of the United States of Mexico mutually agree to deliver up persons who, having been charged with or convicted of any of the crimes and offenses specified in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territory of the other.

ARTICLE II.

Persons shall be delivered up, according to the provisions of this convention, who shall have been charged with, or convicted of any of the following crimes or offenses:

1. Murder, comprehending the crimes known as parricide, assassination, poisoning and infanticide.
2. Rape.
3. Bigamy.
4. Arson.
5. Crimes committed at sea:
   (a) Piracy, as commonly known and defined by the laws of nations.
   (b) Destruction or loss of a vessel, caused intentionally: or conspiracy and attempt to bring about such destruction or loss, when committed by any person or persons on board of said vessel on the high seas.
   (c) Mutiny or conspiracy by two or more members of the crew or other persons on board of a vessel on the high seas, for the purpose of rebelling against the authority of the captain or commander of such vessel, or by fraud, or by violence, taking possession of such vessel.

6. Burglary, defined to be the act of breaking and entering into the house of another in the night time, with intent to commit a felony therein.

7. The act of breaking into and entering public offices, or the offices of banks, banking houses, savings banks, trust companies, or insurance companies, with intent to commit theft therein, and also the thefts resulting from such acts.

8. Robbery, defined to be the felonious and forcible taking from the person of another of goods or money, by violence or by putting the person in fear.

9. Forgery or the utterance of forged papers.

10. The forgery, or falsification of the official acts of the government or public authority, including courts of justice, or the utterance or fraudulent use of any of the same.

11. The fabrication of counterfeit money, whether coin or paper, counterfeit titles or coupons of public debt, bank notes, or other instruments of public credit; or counterfeit seals, stamps, dies and marks of state or public administration, and the utterance, circulation, or fraudulent use of any of the above mentioned objects.

12. The introduction of instruments for the fabrication of counterfeit coin or bank notes or other paper current as money.

13. Embezzlement or criminal malversation of public funds committed within the jurrisdiction of either party by public officers or depositaries.

14. Embezzlement of funds of a bank of deposit or savings bank, or trust company chartered under federal or state laws.

15. Embezzlement by any person or persons hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers, when the crime is subject to punishment by the laws of the place where it was committed.

16. Kidnapping of minors or adults, defined to be the abduction or detention of a person or persons in order to exact money from them or from their their families, or for any other unlawful end.

17. Mayhem and any other willful mutilation causing disability or death.

18. The malicious and unlawful destruction or attempted destruction of railways, trains, bridges, vehicles, vessels, and other means of travel or of public edifices and private dwellings, when the act committed shall endanger human life.

19. Obtaining by threats of injury, of by false devices, money, valuables or other personal property, and the purchase of the same with the knowledge that they have been so obtained, when such crimes or offenses are punishable by imprisonment or other corporal punishment by the laws of both countries.

20. Larceny, defined to be the theft of effects, personal property, horses, cattle, or live stock, or money, of the value of twenty-five dollars or more, or receiving stolen property, of that value, knowing it to be stolen.

21. Extradition shall also be granted for the attempt to commit any of the crimes and offenses above enumerated, when such attempt is punishable as a felony by the laws of both contracting parties.

ARTICLE III.

Extradition shall not take place in any of the following cases:

1. When the evidence of criminality presented by the demanding party would not justify, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, his or her apprehension and commitment for trial, if the crime or offense had been there committed.

2. When the crime or offense charged shall be of a purely political character.

3. When the legal proceedings or the enforcement of the penalty for the act committed by the person demanded has become barred by limitation according to the laws of the country to which the requisition is addressed.

4. When the extradition is demanded on account of a crime or offense for which the person demanded is undergoing or has undergone punishment in the country from which the extradition is demanded, or in case he or she shall have been prosecuted therein on the same charge and acquitted thereof; Provided, That with the exception of the offenses included in clause 13, article II, of this convention, each contracting party agrees not to assume jurisdiction in the punishment of crimes committed exclusively within the territory of the other.

ARTICLE IV

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens under the stipulations of this convention, but the executive authority of each shall have the power to deliver them up, if, in its discretion, it be deemed proper to do so.

ARTICLE V.

If the person whose surrender may be claimed pursuant to the stipulations of the present convention shall have been accused or arrested for the commission of any offense in the country where he or she has sought asylum, or shall have been convicted thereof, his or her extradition may be deferred until he or she is entitled to be liberated on account of the offense charged, for any of the following reasons; acquittal; expiration of term of imprisonment, expiration of the period to which the sentence may have been commuted, or pardon.

ARTICLE VI.

If a fugitive criminal claimed by one of the parties hereto shall be also claimed by one or more powers, pursuant to treaty provisions on account of crimes or offenses committed within their jurisdiction, such criminals shall be delivered up in preference in accordance with that demand which is the earliest in date.

ARTICLE VII.

A person who has been surrendered on account of one of the crimes or offenses mentioned in article II shall in no case be prosecuted and punished in the country in which his or her extradition has been granted, on account of a political crime or offense committed by him or her previous to his or her extradition, or on account of an act connected with such a political crime or offense, unless he or she has been at liberty to leave the country for one month after having been tried, and, in case of condemnation, for one month after having suffered his or her punishment, or having been pardoned. An attempt against the life of the head of the government shall not be considered a political offense.

ARTICLE VIII.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice, under the present convention, shall be made by the respective diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or, in the event of the absence of these from the country or from its seat of government, they may be made by superior consular officers.

If a person whose extradition is asked for shall have been convicted of a crime or offense, a copy of the sentence of the court in which he was convicted, authenticated under its seal, with attestation of the official character of the judge by the proper executive authority, and of the latter by the minister or consul of the respective contracting party, shall accompany the requisition. When, however, the fugitive shall have been merely charged with a crime or offense, a similarly authenticated and attested copy of the warrant for his arrest in the country where the crime or offense is charged to have been committed, and of the depositions upon which such warrant may have been issued, must accompany the requisition as aforesaid.

Whenever, in the schedule of crimes and offenses of article II, it is provided that surrender shall depend on the fact of the crime or offense charged being punishable by imprisonment or other corporal punishment according to the laws of both contracting parties, the party making the demand for extradition shall furnish, in addition to the documents above stipulated, an authenticated copy of the law of the demanding country defining the crime or offense, and prescribing a penalty therefor.

The formalities being fulfilled, the proper executive authority of the United States of America, or of the United Mexican States, as the case may be, shall then cause the apprehension of the fugitive, in order that he or she may be brought before the proper judicial authority for examination. If it should then be decided that according to the law and the evidence, the extradition is due pursuant to the terms of this convention, the fugitive may be given up according to the forms of law prescribed in such cases.

ARTICLE IX.

In the case of crimes or offenses committed or charged to have been committed in the frontier states or territories of the two contracting parties, requisitions may be made either, through their respective diplomatic or consular agents as aforesaid, or through the chief civil authority of the respective state or territory, or through such chief civil or judicial authority of the districts or counties bordering on the frontier as may for this purpose be duly authorized by the said chief civil authority of the said frontier states or territories, or when, from any cause, the civil authority of such state or territory shall be suspended, through the chief military officer in command of such state or territory, and such respective competent authority shall thereupon cause the apprehension of the fugitive, in order that it may be brought before the proper judicial authority for examination; and the record of such examination, with the evidence, duly attested, shall be forwarded to the proper executive authority of the United States of America or of the United Mexican States, as the case may be; when it is found by such respective executive authority that, according to the law and the evidence, the extradition is due pursuant to the terms of this convention, the fugitive may be given up according to the forms of law prescribed in such cases.

ARTICLE X.

On being informed by telegraph or otherwise, through the diplomatic channel, that a warrant has been issued by competent authority for the arrest of a fugitive criminal charged with any of the crimes enumerated in the foregoing articles of this treaty, and on being assured from the same source that a requisition for the surrender of such criminal is about to be made accompanied by such warrant and duly authenticated depositions or copies thereof in support of the charge, each government shall endeavor to procure the provisional arrest of such criminal and to keep him in safe custody for such time as may be practicable, not exceeding forty days, to await the production of the documents upon which the claim for extradition is founded.

ARTICLE XI.

In every case of a demand made by either of the two contracting parties for the arrest, detention, or extradition of fugitive criminals, in pursuance of the provisions of this convention, the legal officers or fiscal ministry of the country where the proceedings of extradition are had shall assist the officers of the government demanding the extradition, before the respective judges and magistrates, by every legal means within their or its power; and no claim whatever for compensation for any of the services so rendered shall be made against the government demanding the extradition: Provided, however, That any officer or officers of the surrendering government so giving assistance, who shall in the usual course of their duties be compensated by specific fees for services performed in lieu of salary therefor, shall be entitled to receive from the government demanding the extradition the customary fees for the acts or services performed by them, in the same manner and to the same amount as though such acts or services had been performed in ordinary criminal proceedings under the laws of the country of which they are officers.

ARTICLE XII.

A person surrendered under this convention shall not be tried or punished in the country to which his or her extradition has been granted, nor given up to a third power, for a crime or offense not provided for by this convention and committed previous to his or her extradition, unless the consent of the surrendering government be given for such trial or such surrender to a third power.

But such consent shall not be necessary: (a) When the accused shall have voluntarily requested to be so tried or surrendered to a third power. (b) When he or she shall have been free to leave the country during thirty days after discharge from custody because of the charge on which he or she was surrendered, or if convicted thereof during thirty days after having satisfied his or her penalty or having been pardoned.

ARTICLE XIII.

A person surrendered under this convention may be tried and punished in the country to which his extradition has been granted, or may be given up to a third power, for any crime or offense provided for by article II of this convention, and committed previous to his extradition, besides that which gave rise to the extradition. Notice of the purpose to so try or surrender him, with specification of the crime or offense charged, shall be given to the government which surrendered him, which may, if it thinks proper, require the production of documentary evidence of the charge conformably to the prescription of article VIII hereof.

ARTICLE XIV.

The expense of the arrest, detention, and transportation of the person claimed shall be paid by the government in whose name the requisition has been made.

ARTICLE XV.

All articles found in the possession of the accused party and obtained through the commission of the act with which he is charged, or that may be used as evidence of the crime or offense for which his extradition is demanded, shall be seized if the competent authority shall so order, and shall be surrendered with his person. The rights of third parties to the articles so found shall, nevertheless, be respected.

ARTICLE XVI.

A person surrendered to or delivered up by either of the contracting parties by virtue of a convention of extradition with a third party and not being a citizen of the country of transit, may be conveyed in transit across the territory of the other, if the convenient course of travel from or to the country to which he has been surrendered shall lie in whole or part within such territory.

The contracting party delivering up or receiving such surrendered person shall make application for such purpose to the government of the country through which transit is desired, producing in support of such application a duly attested copy of the warrant or surrender issued by the government granting the extradition; and, thereupon, the proper executive authority of the country whose territory is to be so traversed may issue a warrant permitting the transit of the surrendered person transported. Such transit must be wholly accomplished within thirty days, counting from the date of the entrance of such transported person within the territory of the country of transit, after which time said person may be set at liberty if there found.

This article, shall not, however, take effect until the Congress of the respective countries shall by law authorize such transit, and the issue of a warrant therefor.

ARTICLE XVII.

Each of the contracting parties shall exercise due diligence in procuring the extradition and prosecution of its citizens who may be charged with the commission of any one of the crimes or offenses mentioned in article II, exclusively committed in its territory against the government or any of the citizens of the other contracting party, when the person accused may have taken refuge or be found within the territory of the latter, provided the said crime or offense is one that is punishable, as such, in the territory of the demanding country.

ARTICLE XVIII.

The present convention shall take effect from the date of the exchange of ratifications, but its provisions shall be applied to all cases of crimes or offenses enumerated in article II which may have been committed since the 24th day of January, 1899.

ARTICLE XIX.

The convention shall continue in effect until six months after a desire for its termination shall have been expressed in due form by one of the two governments to the other. It shall be ratified by both contracting parties, and its ratifications shall be exchanged at the City of Mexico as soon as possible.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present convention both in the English and Spanish languages and thereunto affixed their seals.

Done in duplicate at the City of Mexico this 22nd day of February, 1899.

(Supplementary Extradition.—Ratifications exchanged at the City of Mexico March 28, 1903; proclaimed April 3, 1903.)

The United States of America and the United States of Mexico being desirous to add the crime of bribery to the list of crimes or offenses on account of which extradition may be granted under the convention concluded between the two countries on the 22nd day of February, 1899, with a view to the better administration of justice and the prevention of crime in their respective territories and jurisdictions, have resolved to conclude a supplementary convention for this purpose and have appointed as their plenipotentiaries, to-wit: The President of the United of America, Powell Clayton, ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of said United States at Mexico, and The President of the United States of Mexico, Don Ignacio Mariscal, secretary of foreign relations, who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, which were found to be in due and proper form, have agreed to and concluded the following article:

The following crime is added to the list of crimes or offenses numbered 1 to 20 in the second article of the said convention of February 22, 1899, on account of which extradition may be granted, that is to say:

Bribery, defined to be the giving, offering or receiving of a reward to influence one in the discharge of a legal duty.

The present convention shall be ratified and the ratifications shall be exchanged at the City of Mexico as soon as possible.

It shall come into force ten days after its publication in conformity with the laws of the high contracting parties, and it shall continue and terminate in the same manner as the said convention of February 22, 1899.

In testimony whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present convention in duplicate and have hereunto affixed their seals.

Done in duplicate at the City of Mexico, in the English and Spanish languages, this twenty-fifth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and two.

NETHERLANDS.

(Ratified May 31, 1889; proclaimed June 21, 1889.)

The United States of America and His Majesty the King of the Netherlands, having judged it expedient, with a view to the better administration of justice and the prevention of crime within their respective territories and jurisdictions, that persons charged with, or convicted of, the crimes hereinafter enumerated, and being fugitives from justice, should, under certain circumstances, be reciprocally delivered up, have resolved to conclude a new convention for that purpose, and have appointed as their plenipotentiaries: The President of the United States of America; Thomas F. Bayard, secretary of state of the United States, and His Majesty the King of the Netherlands, William Ferdinand Henry von Weckherlin, His Majesty's envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the United States, who after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The United States of America and His Majesty the King of the Netherlands reciprocally engage to deliver up to justice all persons convicted of or charged with any of the crimes or offenses enumerated in the following article, committed within the respective jurisdictions of the United States of America, or of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, exclusive of the colonies thereof, such persons being actually within such jurisdiction when the crime or offense was committed, who shall seek an asylum or shall be found within the jurisdiction of the other, exclusive of the Colonies of the Netherlands: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive so charged shall be found, would justify his apprehension and commitment for trial, if the crime or offense had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Persons shall be delivered up according to the provisions of this convention, who shall have been charged with, or convicted of, any of the following crimes:

1. Murder, including infanticide; manslaughter,
2. Rape; bigamy, abortion.
3. Arson.
4. Mutiny, and rebellion on shipboard by two or more passengers against the authority of the commander of the ship, or by the crew or part of the crew, against the commander or the ship's officers.
5. Burglary; or the corresponding crime in the Netherlands law under the description of thefts committed in an inhabited house by night, and by breaking in, by climbing, or forcibly.

6. The act of breaking into and entering public offices or the offices of banks, banking houses, savings-banks, trust companies or insurance companies, with intent to commit theft therein; and also the thefts resulting from such act.

7. Robbery, or the corresponding crime punished in the Netherlands law under the description of theft committed with violence or by means of threats.

8. Forgery, or the utterance of forged papers including the forgery or falsification of official acts of the government or public authority or courts of justice affecting the title or claim to money or property.

9. The counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of money, whether coin or paper, or of instruments of debt created by national, state, provincial, or municipal governments, or coupons thereof, or bank-notes, or the utterance or circulation of the same, or the counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of the seals of state.

10. Embezzlement by public officers.

11. Embezzlement by any person or persons hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers, when the offense is subject to punishment by imprisonment by the laws of both countries.

12. Destruction or loss of a vessel on the high seas, or within the jurisdiction of the party asking the extradition, caused intentionally.

13. Kidnapping of minors, defined to be the abduction or detention of a minor for any unlawful end.

14. Obtaining by false devices money, valuables or other personal property, and the purchase of the same with the knowledge that they have been so obtained, when the crimes or offenses are punishable by imprisonment or other corporal punishment by the laws of both countries.

15. Larceny, defined to be the theft of effects, personal property, or money.

16. Willful and unlawful destruction or obstruction of railroads, which endangers human life.

Extradition shall also be granted for complicity in any of the crimes or offenses enumerated in this article, provided that the persons charged with or convicted of such complicity may be punished as accessories with imprisonment of a year or more, by the laws of both countries. Extradition may also be granted for the attempt to commit any of the crimes above enumerated, when such attempt is punishable with imprisonment of a year or more, by the laws of both contracting parties.

ARTICLE III.

The provisions of this convention shall not apply to any crime or offense of a political character, nor to acts connected with such crimes or offenses; and no person surrendered under the provisions hereof shall in any case be tried or punished for a crime or offense of a political character, nor for any act connected therewith, committed previously to his extradition.

ARTICLE IV.

No person shall be tried or punished, after surrender, for any crime or offense other than that for which he was surrendered, if committed previous to his surrender, unless such crime or offense be one of those enumerated in article II hereof.

ARTICLE V.

A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered under the provisions hereof when, by lapse of time, he is exempt from prosecution or punishment for the crime or offense for which the surrender is asked, according to the laws of the country from which the extradition is demanded, or when his extradition is asked for the same crime or offense for which he has been tried, convicted or acquitted in that country, or so long as he is under prosecution for the same.

ARTICLE VI.

If the person whose extradition may be claimed pursuant to the stipulations hereof, be actually under prosecution for a crime or offense in the country where he has sought asylum, or shall have been convicted thereof, his extradition may be deferred until such proceedings be terminated, and until such criminal shall be set at liberty in due course of law.

ARTICLE VII.

If the person claimed by one of the parties hereto shall also be claimed by one or more powers, pursuant to treaty provisions on account of crimes committed within their jurisdiction, such criminal shall be delivered in preference, in accordance with that demand which is the earliest in date.

ARTICLE VIII.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up, under the stipulations of this convention, its own citizens or subjects.

ARTICLE IX.

The expenses of the arrest, detention, examination and transportation of the accused shall be paid by the government which has preferred the demand for extradition.

ARTICLE X.

All articles found in the possession of the fugitive criminal at the time of his arrest, which were obtained through the commission of the act of which he is convicted or with which he is charged, or which may be material as evidence in making proof of the crime, shall so far as practicable according to the laws of practice in the respective countries, be delivered up with his person at the time of surrender. Nevertheless, the rights of third parties, with regard to all such articles, shall be duly respected.

ARTICLE XI.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice shall be made by the respective diplomatic agents of the contracting parties. In the event of the absence of such agents from the country, or its seat of government, requisition may be made by consular officers.

When the person whose extradition shall have been asked, shall have been convicted of the crime, a copy of the sentence of the court in which he may have been convicted, authenticated under its seal and accompanied by an attestation of the official character of the judge by the proper authority, shall be furnished. If, however, the fugitive is merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant of arrest in the country where the crime was committed, and of the depositions upon which such warrant may have been issued, shall be produced, authenticated as above provided, with such other evidence or proof as may be deemed competent in the case. If, after an examination, it shall be decided, according to the law and evidence, that extradition is due pursuant to this convention, the fugitive shall be surrendered according to the forms of law prescribed in such cases.

ARTICLE XII.

It shall be lawful for any competent judicial authority of the United States of America, upon production of a certificate issued by the secretary of state that request has been made by the government of the Netherlands for the provisional arrest of a person convicted or accused of the commission therein of a crime extraditable under this convention, and upon legal complaint that such crime has been so committed, to issue his warrant for the apprehension of such person. But if the formal requisition for surrender with the documentary proofs herein before prescribed be not made as aforesaid, by the diplomatic agent of the demanding government, or, in his absence, by a consular officer thereof, within forty days from the date of the commitment of the person convicted or accused, the prisoner shall be discharged from custody. And it shall be lawful for any competent judicial authority of the Netherlands, upon production of a certificate issued by the minister of foreign affairs that request has been made by the government of the United States for the provisional arrest of a person convicted or accused of the commission therein of a crime extraditable under this convention, to issue his warrant for the apprehension of such person. But if the formal requisition for surrender with the documentary proofs hereinbefore prescribed be not made as aforesaid by the diplomatic agent of the demanding government, or, in his absence, by a consular officer thereof, within forty days from the date of the arrest of the person convicted or accused, the prisoner shall be discharged from custody.

ARTICLE XIII.

The present convention shall take effect on the twentieth day after its promulgation in the manner prescribed by the laws of the respective countries. On the same day the convention entered into by the two contracting parties on the 22nd day of May, 1880, shall be abrogated and annulled. But the present convention shall be held to apply to crimes enumerated in the former convention and committed prior to its abrogation and annulment. And as to other crimes the present convention shall not be held to operate retroactively. After the present convention shall have gone into operation, it shall continue until one of the two parties shall give to the other six months' notice of its desire to terminate it.

This convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Washington or The Hague as soon as possible.

In testimony whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present convention, in duplicate, and have hereunto affixed their seals.

Done at the City of Washington the second day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

NICARAUGUA.

(Ratified June 24, 1871; proclaimed September 19, 1871.)

The United States of America and the Republic of Nicaraugua, having judged it expedient, with a view to the better administration of justice, and to prevention of crimes within their respective territories and jurisdictions that persons convicted of, or charged with the crimes hereinafter mentioned and being fugitives from justice, should, under certain circumstances, be reciprocally delivered up, have resolved to conclude a convention for that purpose, and have appointed as their plenipotentiaries: The President of the United States, Charles N. Riotte, a citizen and minister resident of the United States in Nicaraugua, the President of the Republic of Nicaraugua, Mister Tomas Ayon, minister of foreign relations, who after reciprocal communication of their full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon the following articles, viz:

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States and the Government of Nicaraugua mutually agree to deliver up persons, who, having been convicted of or charged with the crimes specified in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality, as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial, if the crime had there been committed.

ARTICLE II.

Persons shall be delivered up, who shall have been convicted of, or be charged, according to the provisions of this convention, with any of the following crimes:

1. Murder, comprehending assassination, parricide, infanticide and poisoning.

2. The crimes of rape, arson, piracy and mutiny on board a ship whenever the crew or a part thereof, by fraud or violence against the commander, have taken possession of the vessel.

3. The crime of burglary, defined to be the action of breaking and entering by night into the house of another with the intent to commit felony; and the crime of robbery defined to be the action of feloniously and forcibly taking from the person of another, goods or money by violence or putting him in fear.

4. The crime of forgery, by which is understood, the utterance of forged papers, the counterfeiting of public, sovereign or government acts.

5. The fabrication or circulation of counterfeit money, either coin or paper, of public bonds, bank-notes, and obligations and in general of all titles or instruments of credit, the counterfeiting of seals, dies, stamps, and marks of state and public administrations and the utterance thereof.

6. The embezzlement of public moneys committed within the jurisdiction of either party, by public officers or depositors.

7. Embezzlement by any person or persons hired or salaried to the detriment of their employers, when these crimes are subjected to infamous punishment.

ARTICLE III.

The provisions of this treaty shall not apply to any crime or offenses of a political character, and the person or persons delivered up for the crimes enumerated in the preceding article, shall in no case be tried for any ordinary crime, committed previously to that for which his or their surrender is asked.

ARTICLE IV.

If the person whose surrender may be claimed, pursuant to the stipulations of the present treaty, shall have been arrested for the commission of offenses in the country where he has sought an asylum or shall have been convicted thereof, his extradition may be deferred until he shall have been acquitted, or have served the term of imprisonment to which he may have been sentenced.

ARTICLE V.

Requisition for the surrender of fugitives from justice. shall be made by the respective diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or, in the event of the absence of these from the country or its seat of government, they may be made by superior consular officers. If the person whose extradition may be asked for shall have been convicted of a crime, a copy of the sentence of the court in which he may have been convicted, authenticated under its seal, and an attestation of the official character of the judge or by the proper executive authority, and of the latter by the minister or consul of the United States or of Nicaraugua, respectively, shall accompany the requisition. When however, the fugitive shall have been merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant for his arrest in the country where the crime may have been committed and of the depositions upon which such warrant may have been issued, must accompany the requisition as aforesaid. The President of the United States, or the proper executive authority in Nicaraugua may then issue a warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive, in order that he may be brought before the proper judicial authority for examining the question of extradition. If it should then be decided that, according to law and evidence, the extradition is due pursuant to this treaty, the fugitive may be given up according to the forms prescribed in such cases.

ARTICLE VI.

The expenses of the arrest, detention, and transportation of the persons claimed, shall be paid by the government in whose name the requisition shall have been made.

ARTICLE VII.

This convention shall continue in force during five (5) years from the day of exchange of ratifications, but if neither party shall have given to the other six (6) months' previous notice of its intention to terminate the same, the convention shall remain in force five (5) years longer, and so on.

The present convention shall be ratified and the ratifications exchanged at the Capital of Nicaraugua, or any other place temporarily occupied by the Nicarauguan Government, within twelve (12) months, or sooner if possible.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present convention in duplicate, and have thereunto affixed their seals.

Done at the City of Managua, Capital of the Republic of Nicaraugua, the twenty-fifth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and seventy, of the Independence of the United States the ninety-fourth, and of the Independence of Nicaraugua the fifty-ninth.

NORWAY.

(Ratified November 8, 1893; proclaimed November 9, 1893.)

The United States of America and His Majesty the King of Sweden and Norway, being desirous to confirm their friendly relations and to promote the cause of justice, have resolved to conclude a new treaty for the extradition of fugitives from justice between the United States of America and the Kingdom of Norway, and have appointed for that purpose the following plenipotentiaries: The President of the United States of America, W. Q. Gresham, secretary of state of the United States, and His Majesty the King of Sweden and Norway, J. A. W. Grip, His Majesty's envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the United States, who after having communicated to each other their respective full powers found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States and the Government of Norway mutually agree to deliver up persons who, having been charged with or convicted of any of the crimes and offenses specified in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime or offense had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Extradition shall be granted for the following crimes and offenses:

1. Murder, comprehending assassination, parricide, infanticide and poisoning; attempt to commit murder; manslaughter when voluntary.

2. Arson.

3. Robbery, defined to be the act of feloniously and forcibly taking from the person of another money or goods, by violence or putting him in fear; burglary.

4. Forgery, or the utterance of forged papers; the forgery or falsification of official acts of government, of public authorities, or of courts of justice, or the utterance of the thing forged or falsified.

5. The counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of money, whether coin or paper, or of instruments of debt created by national, state, provincial, or municipal governments, or of coupons thereof, or of bank notes, or the utterance or circulation of the same; or the counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of seals of state.

6. Embezzlement by public officers; embezzlement by persons hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers; larceny.

7. Fraud or breach of trust by a bailee, banker, agent, factor, trustee, or other person acting in a fiduciary capacity, or director or member or officer of any company, when such act is made criminal by the laws of both countries and the amount of money or the value of the property misappropriated is not less than $200 or kroner 740.

8. Perjury; subornation of perjury.

9. Rape; abduction; kidnapping.

10. Willful and unlawful destruction or obstruction of railroads which endangers human life.

11. Crimes committed at sea:

(a) Piracy, by statute or by the law of nations.

(b) Revolt, or conspiracy to revolt, by two or more persons on board a ship on the high seas against the authority of the master.

(c) Wrongfully sinking or destroying a vessel at sea, or attempting to do so.

(d) Assaults on board a ship on the high seas with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

12. Crimes and offenses against the laws of both countries for the suppression of slavery and slave trading.

Extradition is also to take place for participation in any of the crimes or offenses mentioned in this treaty, provided such participation may be punished in the United States as a felony, and in Norway by imprisonment at hard labor.

ARTICLE III.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice shall be made by the diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or in the absence of these from the country or its seat of government, may be made by the superior consular officers. If the person whose extradition is requested shall have been convicted of a crime or offense, a duly authenticated copy of the sentence of the court in which he was convicted, or if the fugitive is merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant of arrest in the country where the crime has been committed, and of the depositions or other evidence upon which such warrant was issued, shall be produced.

The extradition of fugitives under the provisions of this treaty shall be carried out in the United States and in Norway, respectively, in conformity with the laws regulating extradition for the time being in force in the state on which the demand for surrender is made.

ARTICLE IV.

Where the arrest and detention of a fugitive are desired on telegraphic or other information in advance of the presentation of formal proofs, the proper course in the United States shall be to apply to a judge or other magistrate authorized to issue warrants of arrest in extradition cases and present a complaint on oath, as provided by the statutes of the United States.

When, under the provisions of this article, the arrest and detention of a fugitive are desired in the Kingdom of Norway, the proper course shall be to apply to the foreign office, which will immediately cause the necessary steps to be taken in order to secure the provisional arrest or detention of the fugitive. The provisional detention of a fugitive shall cease and the prisoner be released if a formal requisition for his surrender, accompanied by the necessary evidence of his criminality, has not been produced under the stipulations of this treaty, within two months from the date of his provisional arrest or detention.

ARTICLE V.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens or subjects under the stipulations of this treaty.

ARTICLE VI.

A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered if the offense in respect of which his surrender is demanded, be of a political character, or if he proves that the requisition for his surrender has, in fact, been made with a view to try or punish him for an offense of a political character. No person surrendered by either of the high contracting parties to the other shall be triable or tried, or be punished, for any political crime or offense, or for any act connected therewith, committed previously to his extradition. If any question shall arise as to whether a case comes within the provisions of this article, the decision of the authorities of the government on which the demand for surrender is made or which may have granted the extradition, shall be final.

ARTICLE VII.

Extradition shall not be granted, in pursuance of the provisions of this treaty, if legal proceedings or the enforcement of the penalty for the act committed by the person claimed has become barred by limitation, according to the laws of the country, to which the requisition is addressed.

ARTICLE VIII.

No person surrendered by either of the high contracting parties to the other shall, without his consent, freely granted and publicly declared by him, be triable or tried or be punished for any crime or offense committed prior to his extradition, other than that for which he was delivered up, until he shall have had an opportunity of returning to the country from which he was surrendered.

ARTICLE IX.

All articles seized which are in the possession of the person to be surrendered at the time of his apprehension, whether being the proceeds of the crime or offense charged, or being material as evidence in making proof of the crime or offense, shall, so far as practicable and in conformity with the laws of the respective countries, be given up when the extradition takes place. Nevertheless, the rights of third parties with regard to such articles shall be duly respected.

ARTICLE X.

If the individual claimed by one of the high contracting parties in pursuance of the present treaty, shall also be claimed by one or several other powers on account of crimes or offenses committed within their respective jurisdictions, his extradition shall be granted to the state whose demand is first received; Provided, That the government from which extradition is sought is not bound by treaty to give preference otherwise.

ARTICLE XI.

The expenses incurred in the arrest, detention, examination, and delivery of fugitives under this treaty shall be borne by the state in whose name the extradition is sought: Provided, That the demanding government shall not be compelled to bear any expense for the services of such public officers of the government from which extradition is sought as receive a fixed salary; And, provided, That the charge for the services of such public officers as receive only fees or perquisites shall not exceed their customary fees for the acts or services performed by them had such acts or services been performed in ordinary criminal proceedings under the laws of the country of which they are officers.

ARTICLE XII.

The present treaty shall take effect on the thirtieth day after the date of the exchange of ratifications, and shall not operate retroactively. On the day on which it takes effect the convention of March 21, 1860, shall, as between the governments of the United States and of Norway, cease to be in force except as to crimes therein enumerated and committed prior to that day.

The ratifications of the present treaty shall be exchanged at Washington as soon as possible, and it shall remain in force for a period of six months after either of the contracting governments shall have given notice of a purpose to terminate it.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the above articles, both in the English and the Norwegian languages, and have hereunto affixed their seals.

Done in duplicate, at the City of Washington this seventh day of June, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three.

OTTOMAN EMPIRE.

ARTICLE I

The Government of the United States and the Ottoman Government mutually agree to deliver up persons who having been convicted of or charged with the crimes specified in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Persons shall be delivered up who shall have been convicted of, or be charged according to the provisions of this convention, with any of the following crimes:

1. Murder, comprehending the crimes designated by the terms of parricide, assassination, poisoning, and infanticide.

2. The attempt to commit murder.

3. The crimes of rape, arson, piracy and mutiny on board a ship, whenever the crew, or part thereof, by fraud or violence against the commander, have taken possession of the vessel.

4. The crime of burglary, defined to be the action of breaking and entering by night into the house of another with intent to commit felony; and the crime of robbery, defined to be the action of feloniously and forcibly taking from the person of another goods or money, by violence or putting him in fear.

5. The crime of forgery, by which is understood the utterance of forged papers, the counterfeiting of public, sovereign, or government acts.

6. The fabrication or circulation of counterfeit money, either coin or paper of public bonds, bank-notes, and obligations and in general of all things, being titles and instruments of credit, the counterfeiting of seals, dies, stamps, and marks of state and public administrations and the utterance thereof.

7. The embezzlement of public moneys committed within the jurisdiction of either party, by public officers or depositors.

8. Embezzlement by any person or persons hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers, when these crimes are subject to infamous punishment.

ARTICLE III.

The provisions of this treaty shall not apply to any crime or offense of a political character, and the person or persons delivered up for the crimes enumerated in the preceding article shall in no case be tried for any ordinary crime, committed previously to that for which his or their surrender is asked.

ARTICLE IV.

If the person whose surrender may be claimed, pursuant to the stipulations of the present treaty, shall have been arrested for the commission of offenses in the country where he has sought an asylum, or shall have been convicted thereof his extradition may be deferred until he shall have been acquitted, or have served the term of imprisonment to which he may have been sentenced.

ARTICLE V.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice shall be made by the respective diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or in the event of the absence of these from the country, or its seat of government, they may be made by superior consular officers. If the person whose extradition may be asked for shall have been convicted of a crime, a copy of the sentence of the court in which he may have been convicted, authenticated under its seal, and an attestation of the official character of the judge by the proper executive authority and of the latter by the minister or consul of the United States or of the Sublime Porte, respectively, shall accompany the requisition. When, however, the fugitive shall have been merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant for his arrest in the country where the crime may have been committed, or of the depositions upon which such warrant may have been issued, must accompany the requisition as aforesaid. The President of the United States or the proper executive authority in Turkey may then issue a warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive, in order that he may be brought before the proper judicial authority for examination. If it should then be decided that, according to law and the evidence, the extradition is due pursuant to the treaty, the fugitive may be given up according to the forms prescribed in such cases.

ARTICLE VI.

The expenses of the arrest, detention, and transportation of the persons claimed shall be paid by the government in whose name the requisition has been made.

ARTICLE VII.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens under the stipulations of this treaty.

ARTICLE VIII.

This convention shall continue in force during five (5) years from the date of exchange of ratifications, but if neither party shall have given to the other six (6) months' previous notice of its intention to terminate the same, the convention shall remain in force five years longer, and so on.

The present convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications exchanged at Constantinople, within twelve (12) months, and sooner, if possible.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present convention in duplicate, and have thereunto affixed their seals.

Done at Constantinople the eleventh day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

PERU.

(Ratifications exchanged at Lima, January 23, 1901; proclaimed January 29, 1901.)

The United States of America and the Republic of Peru, being desirous to confirm their friendly relations and to promote the cause of justice, have resolved to conclude a treaty for the extradition of fugitives from justice between the United States of America and the republic of Peru, and have appointed for that purpose the following plenipotentiaries: The President of the United States of America, Irving B. Dudley, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Peru, and The President of Peru, His excellency Doctor Manuel María Gálvez, minister for foreign relations of Peru, who, after having communicated to each other their respective full power, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States and the Republic of Peru mutually agree to deliver up persons who, having been charged with or convicted of any of the crimes and offenses specified in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territories of the other; Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime or offense had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Extradition shall be granted for the following crimes and offenses:

1. Murder, comprehending assassination, parricide, infanticide, and poisoning; attempt to commit murder; manslaughter, when voluntary.

2. Arson.

3. Robbery, defined to be the act of feloniously and forcibly taking from the person of another, money or goods, by violence or putting him in fear; burglary.

4. Forgery, or the utterance of forged papers; the forgery or falsification of official acts of government, of public authorities, or of courts of justice, or the utterance of the thing forged or falsified.

5. The counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of money, whether coin or paper, or of instruments of debt created by national, state, provincial, or municipal governments, or of coupons thereof, or of bank notes, or the utterance or circulation of the same; or the counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of seals of state.

6. Embezzlement by public officers; embezzlement by persons hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers; larceny, provided that the value of the property or the amount of money so embezzled or stolen is not less than $200 or 420 soles.

7. Fraud or breach of trust by a bailee, banker, agent, factor, trustee, or other person acting in a fiduciary capacity, or director or member or officer of any company, when such act is made criminal by the laws of both countries and the amount of money or the property misappropriated is not less than $200 or 420 soles in value.

8. Perjury; subornation of perjury.

9. Rape; abduction; kidnapping; bigamy.

10. Willful and unlawful destruction or obstruction of railroads which endangers human life.

11. Crimes committed at sea:

(a) Piracy, by statute or by the law of nations,

(b) Revolt, or conspiracy to revolt, by two or more persons on board a ship on the high seas against the authority of the master.

(c) Wrongfully sinking or destroying a vessel at sea, or attempting to do so.

(d) Assaults on board a ship on the high seas with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

12. Crimes and offenses against the laws of both countries for the suppression of slavery and slave trading.

Extradition is also to take place for participation, as accessories, accomplices or otherwise, in any of the crimes and offenses mentioned in this treaty: Provided, however, That extradition shall not be granted for any crime or offense, hereinbefore enumerated or for participation therein unless such crime or offense, or such participation may be punished, in the United States as a felony, and in Peru by imprisonment for one year.

ARTICLE III.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice shall be made by the diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or in the absence of these from the country or its seat of government, may be made by the superior consular officers; or, in the absence of both diplomatic and consular representatives from the country or its seat of government, may be made directly by the government thus unrepresented upon the other. If the person whose extradition is requested shall have been convicted of a crime or offense, a duly authenticated copy of the sentence of the court in which he was convicted, or if the fugtive is merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant of arrest in the country where the crime has been committed, and of the depositions or other evidence upon which such warrant was issued, shall be produced.

The extradition of fugitives under the provisions of this treaty shall be carried out in the United States and in Peru, respectively, in conformity with the laws regulating extradition for the time being in force in the state on which the demand for surrender is made.

ARTICLE IV.

In cases not admitting of delay, and especially in those where there is danger of escape, each of the two governments may, by the most expeditious means, ask and obtain the arrest and provisional detention of the fugitive on condition of presenting a formal requisition, accompanied by the necessary evidence of his criminality under the stipulations of this treaty within two months from the date of his provisional arrest and detention.

ARTICLE V.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens or subjects under the stipulations of this treaty.

ARTICLE VI.

A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered if the offense in respect of which his surrender is demanded be of a political character, or if he proves that the requisition for his surrender has, in fact, been made with a view to try or punish him for an offense of a political character. No person surrendered by either of the high contracting parties to the other shall be triable or tried, or be punished, for any political crime or offense, or for any act connected therewith, committed previously to his extradition. If any question shall arise as to whether a case comes within the provisions of this article, the decision of the authorities of the government on which the demand for surrender is made, or which may have granted the extradition, shall be final.

ARTICLE VII.

Extradition shall not be granted in pursuance of the provisions of this treaty, if legal proceedings or the enforcement of the penalty for the act committed by the person claimed has become barred by limitation, according to the laws of the country to which the requisition is addressed.

ARTICLE VIII.

If the person claimed is accused or sentenced in the country where he may have taken refuge for a crime or misdemeanor committed in that country, his delivery may be delayed until the definite sentence releasing him be pronounced, or until such time as he may have complied with the punishment inflicted on him in the country wherein he took refuge.

ARTICLE IX

No person surrendered by either of the high contracting parties to the other shall, without the consent of the government which surrendered him be triable or tried or be punished for any crime or offense committed prior to his extradition other than that for which he was delivered up, until he shall have had an opportunity of returning to the country from which he was surrendered.

ARTICLE X.

All articles seized which are in possession of the person to be surrendered at the time of his apprehension, whether being the proceeds of the crime or offense charged, or being material as evidence in making proof of the crime or offense, shall, so far as practicable and in conformity with the laws of the respective countries, be given up when the extradition takes place. Nevertheless, the rights of third parties with regard to such articles shall be duly respected.

ARTICLE XI.

If the individual claimed by one of the high contracting parties, in pursuance of the present treaty, shall also be claimed by one or several other powers on account of crimes or offenses committed within their respective jurisdictions, his extradition shall be granted to the state whose demand is first received: Provided, That the government from which extradition is sought is not bound by treaty to give preference otherwise.

ARRICLE XII.

The expenses incurred in the arrest, detention, examination, and delivery of fugitives under this treaty shall be borne by the state in whose name the extradition is sought: Provided, That the demanding government shall not be compelled to bear any expense for the services of such public officers of the government from which extradition is sought as receive a fixed salary: And, provided, That the charge for the services of such public officers as receive only fees or perquisites shall not exceed their customary fees for the acts or services performed by them had such acts or services been performed in ordinary criminal proceedings under the laws of the country of which they are officers.

ARTICLE XIII.

The present treaty shall take effect on the thirtieth day after the date of the exchange of ratifications, and shall not operate retroactively.

The ratifications of the present treaty shall be exchanged at Lima as soon as possible, and it shall remain in force for a period of six months after either of the contracting governments shall have given notice of a purpose to terminate it.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the above articles, both in the English and the Spanish languages, and have hereunto affixed their seals.

Done in duplicate, at the City of Lima this twenty-eighth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine.

PRUSSIA.

(Ratified May 30, 1853; proclaimed June 1, 1853.)

Whereas it is found expedient for the better administration of justice and the prevention of crime, within the territories and jurisdiction of the parties, respectively, that persons committing certain heinous crimes, being fugitives from justice, should under certain circumstances, be reciprocally delivered up; and also to enumerate such crimes explicitly; and whereas the laws and constitution of Prussia and of the other German states, parties to this convention, forbid them to surrender their own citizens to a foreign jurisdiction, the government of the United States, with a view of making the convention strictly reciprocal, shall be held equally free from any obligation to surrender citizens of the United States; therefore, on the one part, the United States of America, and on the other part, His Majesty the King of Prussia, in his own name as well as in the name of His Majesty the King of Saxony, His Royal Highness the Elector of Hesse, His Royal Highness the Grand Duke of Hesse and on Rhine, His Royal Highness the Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar-Eisenach, His Highness the Duke of Saxe-Meiningen, His Highness the Duke of Saxe Altenburg, His Highness the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, His Highness the Duke of Brunswick, His Highness the Duke of Anhalt-Dessau, His Highness the Duke of Anhalt-Bernburg, His Highness the Duke of Nassau, His Serene Highness the Prince Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt, His Serene Highness the Prince of Schwarzburg Sondershausen, Her Serene Highness the Princess and Regent of Waldeck, His Serene Highness the Prince of Reuss, elder branch, His Serene Highness the Prince of Reuss, junior branch, His Serene Highness the Prince of Lippe, His Serene Highness the Landgrave of Hesse Homburg, as well as the free city of Francfort, having resolved to treat on this subject, have for that purpose appointed their respective plenipotentiaries to negotiate and conclude a convention—that is to say: The President of the United States of America, Daniel Webster, Secretary of State, and His Majesty the King of Prussia in his own name as well as in the name of the other German sovereigns above enumerated, and the free city of Francfort, Frederic Charles Joseph von Gerolt, His said Majesty's minister resident near the Government of the United States who, after reciprocal communication of their respective powers, have agreed to and signed the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

It is agreed that the United States and Prussia, and the other states of the Germanic Confederation included in, or which may hereafter accede to this convention, shall, upon mutual requisitions by them or their ministers, officers or authorities, respectively made, deliver up to justice all persons, who, being charged with the crime of murder, or assault with intent to commit murder, or piracy, or arson, or robbery, or forgery, or the utterance of forged papers, or the fabrication or circulation of counterfeit money, whether coin or paper money or the embezzlement of public moneys committed within the jurisdiction of either party, shall seek an asylum, or shall be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his apprehension and commitment for trial, if the crime or offense had there been committed; and the respective judges and other magistrates of the two governments shall have power, jurisdiction, and authority, upon complaint made under oath, to issue a warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive or person so charged, that he may be brought before such judges or other magistrates respectively to the end that the evidence of criminality may be heard and considered; and if, on such hearing, the evidence be deemed sufficient to sustain the charge, it shall be the duty of the examining judge or magistrate to certify the same to the proper executive authority, that a warrant may issue for the surrender of such fugitive. The expense of such apprehension and delivery shall be borne and defrayed by the party who makes the requisition and receives the fugitive.

ARTICLE II.

The stipulations of this convention shall be applied to any other state of the Germanic Confederation, which may hereafter declare its accession thereto.

ARTICLE III.

None of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens or subjects, under the stipulations of this convention.

ARTICLE IV.

Whenever any person accused of any of the crimes enumerated in this convention shall have committed a new crime in the territories of the state where he has sought an asylum, or shall be found, such person shall not be delivered up under the stipulations of this convention, until he shall have been tried, and shall have received the punishment due to such new crime, or shall have been acquitted thereof.

ARTICLE V.

The present convention shall continue in force until the first of January, 1858, and if neither party shall have given to the other six months' previous notice of its intention then to terminate the same, it shall further remain in force until the end of twelve months after either of the high contracting parties shall have given notice to the other of such intention; each of the high contracting parties reserving to itself the right of giving such notice to the other at any time after the expiration of the said first day of January, 1858.

ARTICLE VI.

The present convention shall be ratified by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate of the United States and by the Government of Prussia, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Washington within six months from the date hereof, or sooner if possible.

In faith whereof, we, the respective plenipotentiaries, have signed this convention and have hereunto affixed our seals.

Done in triplicate at Washington, the sixteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two, and the seventy-sixth year of the Independence of the United States.

RUSSIA.

ARTICLE I.

The high contracting parties reciprocally agree to surrender to each other upon mutual requisitions and according to their respective regulations and procedure, persons who, being charged with, or convicted of the commission in the territory of one of the contracting parties, of any of the crimes or offenses specified in the following article, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territory of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime or offense had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Persons convicted of, or charged with, any of the following crimes, as well as attempts to commit, or participation in the same, as an accessory before the fact, provided such attempt or participation is punishable by the laws of both countries, shall be delivered up in virtue of the provisions of this convention:

1. Murder and manslaughter, when voluntary.
2. Rape, abortion.
3. Arson.
4. Burglarly, defined to be the act of breaking and entering by night, into the dwelling house of another, with intent to commit felony; robbery, defined to be the act of feloniously and forcibly taking from the person of another money or goods, by violence or putting him in fear; larceny, when the value of the property stolen shall exceed two hundred dollars, or three hundred roubles.
5. Forgery; and the utterance of forged papers, including public, sovereign or governmental acts.
6. The fabrication or circulation of counterfeit money, either coin or paper, or of counterfeit public bonds, coupons of the public debt, bank notes, obligations, or, in general, of any counterfeit title or instrument of credit; the counterfeiting of seals and dies, impressions, stamps, and marks of state and public administrations, and the utterance thereof.
7. The embezzlement of public moneys by public officers or depositaries.
8. Embezzlement by any person or persons, hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers, when the value of the property so taken shall exceed two hundred dollars, or three hundred roubles.
9. Piracy or mutiny on shipboard, whenever the crew or part thereof shall have taken possession of the vessel by fraud or by violence against the commander.
10. Willful or unlawful destruction or obstruction of railroads which endangers human life.

ARTICLE III.

If it be made to appear that extradition is sought with a view to try or punish the person demanded for an offense of a political character, surrender shall not take place; nor shall any person surrendered be tried or punished for any political offense committed previously to his extradition, nor for any offense other than that for which the extradition was granted; nor shall the surrender of any person be demanded for any offense committed prior to the date at which this convention shall take effect. An attempt against the life of the head of either government or against that of any member of his family, when such attempt comprises the act either of murder or assassination or of poisoning or of accessoriship thereto, shall not be considered a political offense or an act connected with such an offense.

ARTICLE IV.

The contracting parties shall not be required to deliver up their own citizens or subjects, in virtue of the stipulations of the present convention.

ARTICLE V

If the person demanded be held for trial in the country on which the demand is made, it shall be optional with the latter to grant extradition or to proceed with the trial. Provided, That, unless the trial shall be for the crime for which the fugitive is claimed the delay shall not prevent ultimate extradition.

ARTICLE VI.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice accused or convicted of any of the crimes or offenses hereinbefore mentioned, shall be made by the diplomatic agent of the demanding government. In case of the absence of such agents either from the country or from the seat of government, such requisitions may be made by the superior consular officer. When the person whose surrender is requested shall already have been convicted of the crime or offense for which his extradition is demanded, the demand therefor shall be accompanied by a copy of the judgment of the court that pronounced the sentence, bearing the seal of said court. The signature of the judge thereof shall be authenticated by the proper executive officer of the demanding government, whose official character, shall in turn be attested by the diplomatic agent or superior consular officer of the government on which the demand is made. When the person whose surrender is asked shall be merely charged with the commission of an extraditable crime or offense, the application for extradition shall be accompanied by an authenticated copy of the warrant of arrest or of some other equivalent judicial document issued by a judge or a magistrate duly authorized to do so; and likewise by authenticated copies of the depositions or declarations made before such judge or magistrate and setting forth the acts with which the fugitive is charged.

ARTICLE VII.

It shall be lawful for any competent judicial authority of the United States upon production of a certificate issued by the Secretary of State, stating that request had been made by the Imperial Government of Russia for the provisional arrest of a person convicted or accused of the commission therein of a crime or offense extraditable under this convention, and upon complaint, duly made, that such crime or offense has been so committed, to issue his warrant for the apprehension of such person. But if the formal requisition for surrender, with the formal proofs hereinbefore mentioned, be not made as aforesaid by the diplomatic agent of the demanding government, or, in his absence, by the competent consular officer, within forty days from the date of the commitment of the fugitive, the prisoner shall be discharged from custody. And the Imperial Russian Government will, upon request of the Government of the United States, transmitted through the diplomatic agent of the United States, or in his absence, through the competent consular officer, secure the provisional arrest of persons convicted or accused of the commission therein of crimes or offenses extraditable under this convention. But if the formal requisition for surrender, with the formal proofs hereinbefore mentioned, be not made as aforesaid by the diplomatic agent of the demanding government, or, in his absence, by the competent consular officer within forty days from the date of the arrest of the fugitive, the prisoner shall be discharged from custody.

ARTICLE VIII.

Articles in the possession of the fugitive that have aided the commission of the crime or offense, and any article or property which was obtained through the commission of the crime or offense charged, and, also, any other article that may serve to convict, shall, if the demand for extradition be granted, be delivered to the authorities of the demanding government, even where, owing to the death or escape of the fugitive, extradition can not take place. Such delivery shall also include articles of the character above mentioned which the fugitive may have concealed or deposited in the country of refuge, and which may subsequently be found there. The rights of third parties to the above mentioned articles shall, nevertheless, be duly respected, and they shall be returned to the owners free of expense after the conclusion of the case. The right of the government on which the demand for extradition is made to temporarily retain such articles, when they may be necessary for the institution of criminal proceedings occasioned by the same act that has given rise to the demand for extraditon, or by any other act, is admitted.

ARTICLE IX.

In case the person whose extradition is demanded under the present convention is also claimed by another government, preference shall be given to the government whose demand shall be earliest in point of time: Provided, The government from which extradition is sought is not bound by treaty to give preference otherwise.

ARTICLE X.

The expense occasioned by the arrest, detention, and transportation of persons whose extradition is requested shall be borne by the government making the application.

ARTICLE XI.

The present convention shall be ratified and ratifications shall be exchanged at St. Petersburg as soon as possible. It shall take effect on the twentieth day after its promulgation in the manner prescribed by the laws in force in the territories of the contracting parties. It shall remain in force for six months after notice of its termination shall have been given by either of the contracting parties.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present convention and have thereunto affixed the seals of their arms.

Done in duplicate, at the city of Washington, on the twenty-eighth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

SALVADOR.

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States and the Government of Salvador, mutually agree to deliver up persons who, having been convicted of or charged with the crimes specified in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall ouly be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Persons shall be delivered up who shall have been convicted of, or be charged according to the provisions of this convention, with any of the following crimes:

1. Murder, comprehending the crimes designated in the penal codes of the contracting parties by the terms homicide, parricide, assassination, poisoning, and infanticide.

2. The attempt to commit murder.

3. The crimes of rape, arson, piracy, and mutiny on board a ship, whenever the crew, or part thereof, by fraud or violence against the commander, have taken possession of the vessel.

4. The crime of burglary, defined to be the action of breaking and entering by night into the house of another with the intent to commit felony, and the crime of robbery, defined to be the action of feloniously and forcibly taking from the person of another goods or money, by violence, or putting him in fear.

5. The crime of forgery, by which is understood the utterance of forged papers, the counterfeiting of public, sovereign, or government acts.

6. The fabrication or circulation of counterfeit money, either coin or paper, of public bonds, bank-notes, and obligations, and in general of all things being titles or instruments of credit, the counterfeiting of seals, dies, stamps, and marks of state and public administration, and the utterance thereof.

7. The embezzlement of public moneys committed within the jurisdiction of either party, by public officers or depositors.

8. Embezzlement by any person or persons hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers, when these crimes are subject to infamous punishment.

ARTICLE III.

The provisions of this treaty shall not apply to any crime or offense of a political character, and the person or persons delivered up for the crimes enumerated in the preceding article shall in no case be tried for any ordinary crime, committed previously to that for which his or their surrender is asked.

ARTICLE IV.

If the person whose surrender may be claimed, pursuant to the stipulations of the present treaty, shall have been arrested for the commission of offenses in the country where he has sought an asylum, shall have been convicted thereof his extradition may be deferred until he shall have been acquitted, or have served the term of imprisonment to which he may have been sentenced.

ARTICLE V.

In no case and for no motive shall the high contracting parties be obliged to deliver up their own subjects. If in conformity with the laws in force in the state to which the accused belongs, he ought to be submitted to criminal procedure for crimes committed in the other state, the latter must communicate the information and documents, send the implements or tools which were employed to perpetrate the crime, and procure every other explanation or evidence necessary to prosecute the case.

ARTICLE VI.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice shall be made by the respective diplomatic agents of the contracting parties, or in the event of the absence of these from the country or its seat of government, they may be made by superior consular officers. If the person whose extradition may be asked for shall have been convicted of a crime, a copy of the sentence of the court in which he may have been convicted, authenticated under its seal, and an attestation of the official character of the judge by the proper executive authority, and of the latter by the minister or consul of the United States or of Salvador, respectively, shall accompany the requisition. When, however the fugitive shall have been merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant for his arrest in the country where the crime may have been committed, or the depositions upon which such warrant may have been issued, must accompany the requisition aforesaid. The President of the United States or the President of Salvador, may then issue a warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive, in order that he may be brought before the proper judicial authority for examination. If it should then be decided that, according to law and the evidence, the extradition is due pursuant to the treaty, the fugitive may be given up according to the forms prescribed in such cases.

ARTICLE VII.

The expenses of the arrest, detention, and transportation of the persons claimed, shall be paid by the government in whose name the requisition shall have been made.

ARTICLE VIII.

This convention shall continue in force during (10) ten years from the day of exchange of ratifications, but if neither party shall have given to the other (6) six months previous notice of its intention to terminate the same, the convention shall remain in force ten years longer and so on,

The present convention shall be ratified and the ratifications exchanged at the City of Washington within twelve months, and sooner if possible.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present convention in duplicate, and have thereunto affixed their seals.

Done at the City of San Salvador, the twenty-third day of May, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and seventy, and of the Independence of the United States the ninety-fourth.

SERVIA.

(Ratifications exchanged at Belgrade, May 13, 1902; proclaimed May 17, 1902.)

Whereas, a treaty between the United States of America and Servia providing for the extradition of fugitives from justice was concluded and signed by their respective plenipotentiaries at Belgrade on the twenty-fifth (twelfth) day of October, one thousand nine hundred and one, the original of which treaty, being in the English and Servian languages, is word for word as follows:

The United Statea of America and His Majesty the King of Servia, being desirous to confirm their friendly relations and to promote the cause of justice, have resolved to conclude a treaty for the extradition of fugitives from justice between the United States of America and the Kingdom of Servia, and have appointed for that purpose the following plenipotentiaries: The President of the United States of America, Charles S. Francis, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to His Majesty the King of Servia; His Majesty the King of Servia, M. Michel V. Vouïtch, president of his council of ministers, minister for foreign affairs, senator, Grand Officer of the Order of Milosh the Great, Grand Cross of the Order of Takovo, Officer of the Order of the White Eagle, etc., etc., who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The government of the United States and the Government of Servia mutually agree to deliver up persons who, having been charged with or convicted of any of the crimes and offenses specified in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the high contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territories of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime or offense had been committed there.

ARTICLE II

Extradition shall be granted for the following crimes and offenses:

1. Murder, comprehending assassination, parricide, infanticide, and poisoning; attempt to commit murder; manslaughter, when voluntary.

2. Arson.

3. Robbery, defined to be the act of feloniously and forcibly taking from person of another money or goods, by violence or putting him in fear; burglary, defined to be the act of breaking, and entering by night, into the dwelling house of another, with intent to commit felony; housebreaking or shopbreaking.

4. Forgery or the utterance of forged papers; the forgery or falsification of official acts of government, of public authorities, or of courts of justice, or the utterance of things forged or falsified.

5. The counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of money, whether coin or paper, or of instruments of debt created by national, state, provincial, or municipal governments, or of coupons thereof, or of banknotes, or the utterance or circulation of the same; or the counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of seals, dies or stamps of state; of postage and revenue stamps.

6. Embezzlement by public officers; embezzlement by persons hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers; larceny; obtaining money, valuable securities or other property by false pretenses, or receiving money, valuable securities or other property, knowing the same to have been embezzled, stolen or fraudulently obtained, when such act is made criminal by the laws of both countries and the amount of money or the value of the property fraudulently obtained or received, is not less than two hundred dollars or one thousand francs in gold.

7. Fraud or breach of trust by a bailee, banker, agent, factor, trustee, or other person acting in a fiduciary capacity, or director or member or officer of any company, when such act is made criminal by the laws of both countries and the amount of money or the value of the property misappropriated is not less than two hundred dollars or one thousand francs in gold.

8. Perjury, subornation of perjury.

9. Rape; abduction; kidnapping.

10. Willful and unlawful destruction or obstruction of railroads which endangers human life.

11. Crimes committed at sea:

(a) Piracy, by statute or by the law of nations.

(b) Revolt, or conspiracy to revolt, by two or more persons on board a ship on the high seas against the authority of the master.

(c) Wrongfully sinking or destroying a vessel at sea, or attempting to do so.

(d) Assaults on board a ship on the high seas with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

12. Crimes and offenses against the laws of the United States of America for the suppression of slavery and slave trading.

Extradition is also to take place for participation in any of the crimes and offenses mentioned in this treaty, provided such participation may be punished in the United States as felony and in Servia as crime or offense as before specified.

ARTICLE III.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice shall be made by the government of the high contracting parties through their diplomatic agents, or in the absence of such through their respective superior consular officers. If the person whose extradition is requested shall have been convicted of a crime or offense, a duly authenticated copy of the sentence of the court in which he has been convicted, or if the fugitive is merely charged with crime, a duly authenticated copy of the warrant of arrest in the country where the crime has been committed and of the depositions or other evidence upon which such warrant was issued, shall be produced.

The extradition of fugitives under the provisions of this treaty shall be carried out in the United States and in Servia, respectively, in conformity with the laws regulating extradition for the time being in force in the state on which the demand for surrender is made.

ARTICLE IV.

Where the arrest and detention of a fugitive in the United States are desired on telegraphic or other information in advance of the presentation of formal proofs, complaint on oath, as provided by the statutes of the United States, shall be made by an agent of the Government of Servia before a judge or other magistrate authorized to issue warrants of arrest in extradition cases.

In the Kingdom of Servia the diplomatic or consular officer of the United States shall apply to the foreign office, which will immediately cause the necessary steps to be taken in order to secure the provisional arrest and detention of the fugitive.

The provisional detention of a fugitive shall cease and the prisoner be released if a formal requisition for his surrender, accompanied by the necessary evidence of criminality, has not been produced under the stipulations of this treaty, within two months from the date of his provisional arrest and detention.

ARTICLE V.

Neither of the high contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens or subjects under the stipulations of this treaty.

ARTICLE VI.

A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered if the offense in respect of which his surrender is demanded be of a political character, or if he proves that the requisition for his surrender has, in fact, been made with a view to try or punish him for an offense of a political character. No person surrendered by either of the high contracting parties to the other shall be triable or tried, or be punished, for any political crime or offense, or for any act connected therewith, committed previously to his extradition. If any question shall arise as to whether a case comes within the provisions of this article, the decision of the authorities of the government on which the demand for surrender is made, or which may have granted the extradition, shall be final.

ARTICLE VII.

Extradition shall not be granted, in pursuance of the provisions of this treaty, if legal proceedings or the enforcement of the penalty for the act committed by the person claimed has become barred by limitation, according to the laws of the country to which the requisition is addressed.

ARTICLE VIII.

No person surrendered by either of the high contracting parties to the other shall, without his consent, freely granted and publicly declared by him, be triable or tried or be punished for any crime or offense committed prior to his extradition, other than that for which he was delivered up, until he shall have had an opportunity of returning to the country from which he was surrendered.

ARTICLE IX.

All articles seized which are in the possession of the person to be surrendered at the time of his apprehension, whether being the proceeds of the crime or offense charged, or being material as evidence in making proof of the crime or offense, shall, so far as practicable and in conformity with the laws of the respective countries, be given up to the country making the demand, when the extradition takes place. Nevertheless, the rights of third parties with regard to such articles shall be duly respected.

ARTICLE X.

If the individual claimed by one of the high contracting parties, in pursuance of the present treaty, shall also be claimed by one or several other powers on account of crimes or offenses committed within their respective jurisdictions, his extradition shall be granted to the state whose demand is first received: Provided, That the government from which extradition is sought is not bound by treaty to give preference otherwise.

ARTICLE XI.

The expense incurred in the arrest, detention, examination, and delivery of fugitives under this treaty shall be borne by the state in whose name the extradition is sought: Provided, That the demanding government shall not be compelled to bear any expense for the services of such public officers of the government from which extradition is sought as receive a fixed salary; and, provided that the charge for the services of such public officers as receive only fees or perquisites shall not exceed their customary fees for the acts or services performed by them had such acts or services been performed in ordinary criminal proceedings under the laws of the country of which they are officers.

The present treaty shall take effect on the thirtieth day after the date of the exchange of ratifications, and shall not act retroactively.

The ratifications of the present treaty shall be exchanged at Belgrade as soon as possible, and it shall remain in force for a period of six months after either of the contracting governments shall have given notice of a purpose to terminate it.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed this treaty in duplicate and have hereunto affixed their seals.

Done at Belgrade this twenty-fifth (twelfth) day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and one.

DR. MICHEL VOUITCH. [SEAL]

SWEDEN.

ARTICLE I.

The Government of the United States and the Government of Sweden mutually agree to deliver up persons who, having been charged with or convicted of any of the crimes and offenses specified in the following article, committed within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties, shall seek an asylum or be found within the territory of the other: Provided, That this shall only be done upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person so charged shall be found, would justify his or her apprehension and commitment for trial, if the crime or offense had been there committed.

ARTICLE II.

Extradition shall be grauted for the following crimes and offenses:

1. Murder, comprehending assassination, parricide, infanticide and poisoning; attempt to commit murder; the killing of a human being, when such act is punishable in the United States as voluntary manslaugnter and in Sweden as manslaughter.

2. Arson.

4. Forgery, or the utterance of forged papers; the forgery or falsification of official acts of government, of public authorities, or of courts of justice, or the utterance of the thing forged or falsified.

5. The counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of money, whether coin or paper, or of instruments of debt created by national, state, provincial, or municipal governments, or of coupons thereof, or of bank-notes, or the utterance or circulation of the same; or the counterfeiting, falsifying or altering of seals of state.

6. Embezzlement by public officers; embezzlement by persons hired or salaried, to the detriment of their employers, larceny; obtaining money, valuable securities or other property by false pretenses, or receiving money, valuable securities or other property knowing the same to have been embezzled, stolen or fraudulently obtained, when such act is made criminal by the laws of both countries and the amount of money or the value of the property fraudulently obtained or received is not less than $200 or kroner 740.

7. Fraud or breach of trust by a bailee, banker, agent, factor, trustee or other person acting in a fiduciary capacity, or director or member or officer of any company, when such act is made criminal by the laws of both countries and the amount of money or the value of the property misappropriated is not less than $200 or kroner 740.

8. Perjury, subornation of perjury.

9. Rape; abduction; kidnapping.

10. Willful and unlawful destruction or obstruction of railroads which endangers human life.

11. Crimes committed at sea:

(a) Piracy, by statute or by the law of nations.

(b) Revolt, or conspiracy to revolt, by two or more persons on board a ship on the high seas, against the authority of the master.

(c) Wrongfully sinking or destroying a vessel at sea, or attempting to do so.

(d) Assaults on board a ship on the high seas with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

12. Crimes and offenses against the laws of both countries for the suppression of slavery and slave trading.

Extradition is also to take place for participation in any of the crimes and offenses mentioned in this treaty, provided such participation may be punished, in the United States as a felony, and in Sweden by imprisonment at hard labor.

ARTICLE III.

Requisitions for the surrender of fugitives from justice shall be made by the diplomatic agents of the contracting government, or in the absence of these from the country or its seat of government, may be made by the superior consular officer If the person whose extradition is requested shall have been convicted of a crime or offense, a duly authenticated copy of the sentence of the court in which he was convicted or if the fugitive is merely charged with crime a duly authenticated copy of the warrant of arrest in the country where the crime has been committed, and of the depositions or other evidence upon which such warrant was issued shall be produced.

The extradition of fugitives under the provisions of this treaty shall be carried out in the United States and Sweden, respectively, in conformity with the laws regulating extradition for the time being in force in the state on which the demand for surrender is made.

ARTICLE IV.

Where the arrest and detention of a fugitive are desired on telegraphic or other information in advance of the presentation of formal proofs, the proper course in the United States shall be to apply to the judge or other magistrate authorized to issue warrants of arrest in extradition cases and present a complaint on oath, as provided by the statutes of the United States.

In the Kingdom of Sweden the proper course shall be to apply to the Foreign office, which will immediately cause the necessary steps to be taken in order to secure the provisional arrest and detention of the fugitive.

The provisional detention of a fugitive shall cease and the prisoner be released, if a formal requisition for his surrender, accompanied by the necessary evidence of his criminality has not been produced under the stipulations of this treaty, within two months from the date of his provisional arrest or detention.

ARTICLE V.

Neither of the contracting parties shall be bound to deliver up its own citizens or subjects under the stipulations of this treaty.

ARTICLE VI.

A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered if the offense in respect of which his surrender is demanded be of a political character, or if he proves that the requisition for his surrender has, in fact, been made with a view to try or punish him for an offense of a political character. No person surrendered by either of the high contracting parties to the other shall be triable or tried or be punished for any political crime or offense, or for any act connected therewith, committed previously to his extradition. If any question shall arise as to whether a case comes within the provisions of this article, the decision of the authorities of the government on which the demand for surrender is made, or which may have granted the extradition shall be final.

ARTICLE VII.

Extradition shall not be granted, in pursuance of the provisions of this treaty, if legal proceedings or the enforcement of the penalty for the act committed by the person claimed has become barred by limitation, according to the laws of the country to which the requisition is addressed.

ARTICLE VIII.

No person surrendered by either of the high contracting parties to the other shall, without his consent, freely granted and publicly declared by him, be triable or tried or be punished for any crime or offense committed prior to his extradition, other than that for which he was delivered up, until he shall have had an opportunity of returning to the country from which he was surrendered.

ARTICLE IX.

All articles seized which are in possession of the person to be surrendered at the time of his apprehension, whether being the proceeds of the crime or offense charged, or being material as evidence in making proof of the crime or offense, shall, so far as practicable and in conformity with the laws of the respective countries, be given up when the extradition takes place. Nevertheless, the rights of third parties with regard to such articles shall be duly respected.

ARTICLE X.

If the individual claimed by one of the high contracting parties, in pursuance of the present treaty, shall also be claimed by one or several other powers on account of crimes or offenses committed within their respective jurisdictions, his extradition shall be granted to the state whose demand is first received: Provided, That the government from which extradition is sought is not bound by treaty to give preference otherwise.

ARTICLE XI.

The expenses incurred in the arrest, detention, examination and delivery of fugitives under this treaty shall be borne by the state in whose name the extradition is sought: Provided, That the demanding government shall not be compelled to bear any expense for the services of such public officers of the government from which extradition is sought as receive a fixed salary: And, provided, That the charge for the services of such public officers as receive only fees or perquisites shall not exceed their customary fees for the acts or services performed by them had such acts or services been performed in ordinary criminal proceedings under the laws of the country of which they are officers.

ARTICLE XII.

The present treaty shall take effect on the thirtieth day after the date of the exchange of ratifications, and shall not operate retroactively. On the day on which it takes effect the convention of March 21st, 1860, shall, as between the Governments of the United States and of Sweden cease to be in force except as to crimes therein enumerated and committed prior to that day.

The ratifications of the present treaty shall be exchanged at Washington as soon as possible, and it shall remain in force for a period of six months after either of the contracting governments shall have given notice of a purpose to terminate it.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the above articles and have hereunto affixed their seals.

Done in duplicate at the City of Washington, this fourteenth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three.

SWITZERLAND.

(Ratifications exchanged at Washington February 27, 1901; proclaimed February 28, 1901.)

The Government of the United States of America and the Federal Council of the Swiss Confederation, with a view to the better administration of justice, have resolved to conclude a new convention for the extradition of fugitive criminals, and, for that purpose, have appointed as their plenipotentiaries, to-wit: The President of the United States of America: John Hay, Secretary of State of the United States; the federal Council of the Swiss Confederation: J. B. Pioda, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of Switzerland to the United States, who after communicating to each other their full powers, which were found in good and due form, have agreed upon the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The government of the United States of America and the Swiss Federal Council bind themselves mutually to surrender such persons as, being charged with or convicted of any crimes or offenses enumerated hereinafter in article II, committed in the territory of one of the contracting states, shall be found in the territory of the other state: Provided, That this shall be done by the United States only upon such evidence of criminality as according to the laws of the place where the fugitive or person shall be found, would justify his apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime or offense had been there committed. In Switzerland, the surrender shall be made in accordance with the laws in force in that country at the time of the demand.

Neither of the two governments, however, shall be required to surrender its own citizens.

ARTICLE II.

Extradition shall be granted for the following crimes and offenses, provided they are punishable both under the laws of the place of refuge and under those of the state making the requisition, to-wit:

1. Murder, including assassination, parricide, infanticide and poisoning; voluntary manslaughter.

2. Arson.

3. Robbery; burglary; house-breaking or shop-breaking.

4. The counterfeiting or forgery of public or private instruments; the fraudulent use of counterfeited or forged instruments.

5. The forgery, counterfeiting or alteration of coin, paper-money, public bonds and coupons thereof, bank notes, obligations, or other certificates or instruments of credit, the emission or circulation of such instruments of credit with fraudulent intent; the counterfeiting or forgery of public seals, stamps or marks, or the fraudulent use of such counterfeited or forged articles.

6. Embezzlement by public officials, or by other persons, to the prejudice of their employers; larceny; obtaining money or other property by false pretences; receiving money, valuable securities or other property, knowing the same to have been embezzled, stolen or fraudulently obtained. The amount of money or the value of the property obtained or received by means of such criminal acts, must exceed 1000 francs.

7. Fraud or breach of trust, committed by a fiduciary, attorney, banker, administrator of the estate of a third party, or by the president, a member or an officer of a corporation or association, when the loss involved exceeds 1000 francs.

8. Perjury; subornation of perjury.

9. Abduction; rape; kidnapping of minors: bigamy; abortion.

10. Willful and unlawful destruction or obstruction of railroads, endangering human life.

11. Piracy; willful acts causing the loss or destruction of a vessel.

ARTICLE III.

Extradition shall likewise be granted for an attempt to commit, or participation in, any of the crimes and offenses enumerated in article II: Provided, such attempt or participation is punishable in the United States as a felony, and in Switzerland with death, or confinement in a penitentiary or work-house.

ARTICLE IV.

No extradited person shall be tried by a special court.

ARTICLE V.

Demands for the extradition of fugitive criminals shall be made by the diplomatic representative, or, in his absence, by one of the consular agents of the state making the requisition. When the person whose extradition is asked has been sentenced for the offense which occasioned the demand for extradition, such demand shall be accompanied by a certified copy of the sentence pronounced; if the person demanded is merely charged with an offense, the demand shall be accompanied by a duly certified copy of a warrant of arrest issued by the competent magistrate of the country in which the offense was committed, and by certified copies of the depositions or other evidence upon the basis of which the warrant was issued. These documents shall contain an accurate statement of the offense charged, of the place where and the time when it was committed. They shall be accompanied by a certified copy of the provisions of law applicable to the offenses charged, as shown by statute or judicial decision, and by the evidence necessary to establish the identity of the person demanded.

The extradition procedure shall be governed by the regulations in force at the time of the demand, in the state upon which the demand is made.

ARTICLE VI.

When it is desired to procure the arrest of a fugitive, by telegraph or otherwise, before the regular papers have been presented, the procedure in the United States shall be to apply to a judge or magistrate authorized to issue warrants of arrest in extradition cases, and to present a complaint on oath, as provided by the laws of the United States.

To procure the provisional arrest of a fugitive in Switzerland, the diplomatic representative or a consular agent of the United States shall apply to the President of the confederation, who will order the necessary steps to be taken. The provisional detention of a fugitive shall cease, and the person arrested shall be released, if a formal demand for extradition, accompanied by the necessary papers, is not presented, in the manner provided in the present treaty, within two months after the day of arrest.

ARTICLE VII.

Extradition shall not be granted for political crimes or offenses. No person surrendered under the present treaty, for a common crime, shall be prosecuted or punished for a political offense committed before his extradition. If the question arises in a particular case, whether the offense committed is or is not of a political character, the authorities of the state upon which the demand is made shall decide.

ARTICLE VIII.

Extradition shall not be granted when, under the laws of the state upon which the requisition is made, or under those of the state making the requisition, the criminal prosecution or penalty imposed is barred by limitation.

ARTICLE IX.

No person surrendered by either of the contracting states to the other shall be prosecuted or punished for any offense committed before the demand for extradition, other than that for which the extradition is granted, unless he expressly consents to it in open court, which consent shall be entered upon the record, or unless, having been at liberty during one month after his final release to leave the territory of the state making the demand, he has failed to make use of such liberty. The state to which a person has been surrendered shall not surrender him to a third state, unless the provisions contained in the first paragraph of the present article have been fulfilled.

ARTICLE X.

When the person whose extradition is demanded is prosecuted, or has been convicted, in the state of refuge, for another offense, the extradition may be postponed until the close of the criminal prosecution or the expiration of the penalty.

ARTICLE XI.

If the extradition of the person demanded by either of the two contracting states is likewise demanded by one or more other states, for offenses committed by the said person in the territory, preference shall be given to the state whose requisition is based upon the most serious offense, unless the state upon which the requisition is made is bound by treaty to give preference to another. If the offenses are of equal gravity, the demand first presented shall have preference, unless the state upon which the requisition is made is bound by treaty to give preference to another state.

ARTICLE XII.

All articles seized which are in the possession of the person demanded, at the time of his arrest, shall, at the time of the extradition be delivered up with his person, and such delivery shall extend, not only to articles acquired by means of the offense with which the accused is charged, but to all other articles that may serve to prove the offense. The rights of third parties to the articles in question shall, however, be duly respected.

ARTICLE XIII.

The expenses incurred in the arrest, detention, examination and surrender of the fugitive shall be borne by the state making the demand. The state making the demand shall not, however, be charged for the services of such officials of the government upon which the demand is made, as receive a fixed salary; for the services of officials receiving only fees, no higher fees shall be charged than those to which such officials are entitled under the laws of the country for services rendered in ordinary criminal cases.

ARTICLE XIV.

The present treaty shall go into effect thirty days after the exchange of ratifications. This treaty repeals articles XIII, XIV, XV, XVI and XVII of the treaty of November 25, 1850, between the Swiss Confederation and the United States of America; and the provisions in those articles shall henceforward apply only to demands for extradition pending at the time when the present treaty goes into effect.

The ratifications shall be exchanged at Washington as soon as possible. After the denunciation of this treaty by either of the contracting governments the treaty shall still remain in force for six months after the day of the denunciation.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the foregoing articles, and have affixed their seals.

Done in duplicate at Washington, in the English and French languages, the 14th day of May, 1900.

DECISIONS.

OPINION OF ATTORNEY-GENERAL CUNNEEN ON THE APPLICATION FOR THE EXTRADITION OF WILLIAM ZIEGLER.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
Attorney-General's Office,
Albany, January 26, 1904.

To the Honorable the Governor:

SIR.—I have carefully examined the papers in the matter of the demand of Governor Dockery of Missouri, for the apprehension and delivery to an agent of that state, of William Ziegler, charged by an indictment found by the grand jury of Cole county in that state with the crime of bribery, and have the honor to submit the following:

The Constitution of the United States (Art. IV, § 2, Subd. 2) provides as follows:

"A person charged in any state with treason, felony or other crime, who shall flee from justice, and be found in another state, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the state from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the state having jurisdiction of the crime."

It will be observed that there are three essential elements required to bring a case within the constitutional provision. To warrant the apprehension and delivery of a person under the constitutional mandate, the person whose delivery is demanded must be: (1) "A person charged in any state with treason, felony or other crime;" (2) "Who shall flee from justice;" and (3) Who shall "be found in another state."

The Congress of the United States has designated, in section 5278 of the Revised Statutes, the kind of proof by which the first of these constitutional requirements shall be established. The section reads as follows:

"Whenever the executive authority of any state or territory demands any person as a fugitive from justice, of the executive authority of any state or territory to which such person has fled, and produces a copy of an indictment found or an affidavit * * * charging the person demanded with having committed treason, felony or other crime, certified as authentic by the governor or chief magistrate of the state or territory from whence the person so charged has fled, it shall be the duty of the executive authority of the state or territory to which such person has fled to cause him to be arrested * * * and to cause the fugitive to be delivered * * * ."

The papers accompanying the requisition of Governor Dockery include a copy of an indictment found against Mr. Ziegler for bribery, certified as authentic by the governor, and the accused is "found" in the State of New York. Two of the constitutional requirements are thus met. The third remains. Is the accused a fugitive from justice?

It is evident that mere absence from a state is not sufficient to warrant a holding that a person has fled from that state. Before one can be said to flee from a state, he must first have been in the state from which he is said to have fled.

In Matter of Voorhees (32 N. J. L., 141), a fugitive is designated as one "who commits a crime within a state and withdraws himself from such jurisdiction." In Wilcox vs. Nolze (34 Ohio State, 520) it is said, referring to the constitutional provisions:

"These words, taken as they must be in their natural and obvious sense, do not include a case of constructive presence in the demanding state and constructive flight therefrom, but relate only to a case where the accused is actually present in the demanding state at the time he commits the act of which complaint is made."

In Matter of Mitchell (4 N. Y. Criminal Report, 596) is found an opinion by Governor Hill, upon whom demand had been made for the extradition of the defendant, charged with the crime of manslaughter in New Jersey. The governor says:

"The actual presence of the accused party in the demanding state at the time of the commission of the alleged offense is a jurisdictional fact. It must be proved, like any other fact. It may be rebutted the same as any other fact. If such actual presence cannot be established, the accused party cannot be said to be a fugitive from justice."

In the case of In re White (55 Fed. Rep., 54-58), in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, it was said by Lacombe, circuit judge, that it was proper to inquire upon habeas corpus whether the prisoner was in fact within the demanding state when the alleged crime was committed, for if he were not it could not be properly held that he had fled from it.

In Matter of Reggel (114 U. S., 642) the Supreme Court of the United States, speaking through Mr. Justice Harlan, says:

"Undoubtedly the Act of Congress did not impose upon the executive authority of the territory the duty of surrendering the appellant, unless it was made to appear, in some proper way, that he was a fugitive from justice. In other words, the appellant was entitled, under the Act of Congress, to insist upon proof that he was within the demanding state at the time he is alleged to have committed the crime charged, and subsequently withdrew from her jurisdiction, so that he could not be reached by her criminal process. * * * Upon the executive of the state in which the accused is found rests the responsibility of determining, in some legal mode, whether he is a fugitive from the justice of the demanding state. He does not fail in duty if he makes it a condition precedent to the surrender of the accused that it be shown to him, by competent proof, that the accused is, in fact, a fugitive from the justice of the demanding state."

The most recent case involving this question is the Corkran case (People ex rel. Corkran vs. Hyatt, 172 N. Y., 176). In that case, at page 197, Judge O'Brien says:

"The authorities are unanimous in holding that a person cannot be a fugitive from the justice of the demanding state who was not in that state when the crime charged is alleged to have been committed. Constructive presence furnishes no basis for executive action."

This case was later taken to the Supreme Court of the United States, where the judgment of the Court of Appeals was unanimously affirmed. (Hyatt vs. Corkran, 188 U. S., 691.) In the course of the opinion of the Supreme Court, Mr. Justice Peckham says, at page 713:

"The statute has been in existence since 1793, and we have found no case decided by this court wherein it has been held that the statute covered a case where the party was not in the state at the time when the act is alleged to have been committed. We think the plain meaning of the Act requires such presence, and that it was not intended to include, as a fugitive from the justice of a state, one who had not been in the state at the time when, if ever, the offense was committed, and who had not, therefore, in fact fled therefrom."

The brief of the learned attorney-general of Missouri says, at page 12:

"We must admit that, under the decision in People ex rel. vs. Hyatt (172 N. Y., 176), and under decisions of other courts, construing section 2 of the Federal Constitution quoted supra and sections 5278 and 5279 supra, the expression 'fugitive from justice' implies and demands that the person sought to be extradited must before then have been actually and corporeally in the demanding state, and not merely constructively there."

The attorney-general is not willing to admit, however, that the accused person must have been in the demanding state at the very time the offense charged against him was committed, but contends that "the demands of the law are satisfied if he was there either (1) at the time the crime was committed; (2) or, at a time before the commission of the crime, and when any act was done toward or preparation made for the commission thereof; (3) or, at any time after the commission of the crime."

I will consider the last contention first. It is admitted that Mr. Ziegler went to the City of St. Louis, in the State of Missouri, on the 3rd day of April, 1901, and remained there for two or three days. (Mr. Ziegler's answer, page 98, stenographer's minutes.) He had been for several months endeavoring to secure control of the capital stock of the Provident Chemical Works, a corporation doing business in the City of St. Louis. Mr. Ziegler says, at page 98:

"The entire purpose of such visit was in connection with said Provident Chemical Works, and with the hope of inducing the officers thereof to permit me to acquire control of the company on my furnishing them with certain improved manufacturing methods."

Mr. Ziegler shows telegraphic correspondence extending over a period of several days in the latter part of March, 1901, between himself and Mr. Udell, who was at that time in control of said Provident Chemical Works, with reference to a meeting between the two men in Chicago or St. Louis early in April on subject of improved methods and saving of expenses. Mr. Ziegler's explanation of his visit to St. Louis in April is corroborated by an affidavit of Sim T. Price, a member of the board of directors in said Provident Chemical Works, showing Mr. Ziegler's desire to obtain control of the capital stock of said company, and his interview with Mr. Price upon that subject on April 3, 1901. (Stenographer's minutes, pp. 119 to 122.)

The indictment fixes the date of the crime charged as the blank day of March, 1901. The evidence tends to show that the crime, if any, was consummated on the 19th of March, 1901; upon the hearing the prosecution fixes upon March 19, 1901, as the date of the payment of the money (stenographer's minutes, p. 68); in the brief of the learned attorney-general, at page 12, occur the words, "on or about the 19th day of March, 1901, when the bribe money was actually paid and the offense consummated."

It is conceded, then, on the part of the demanding state that the crime was complete on or about the 19th day of March, 1901, and the question is squarely presented, whether the admitted presence of the accused, for the purpose and under the circumstances above indicated, in the State of Missouri on April 3, 1901, fifteen days subsequent to the completion of the offense, is sufficient to warrant the claim that he may be regarded, by reason of such presence and his subsequent departure from the state, as a fugitive from justice.

In the Corkran case (172 N. Y., 176), the relator was arrested under a warrant of the governor of this state, issued on the requisition of the governor of the State of Tennessee. It appeared that the alleged crimes charged in the indictments were committed on May 1, 1901, May 8, 1901, and June 24, 1901, respectively. It appeared by the testimony of the relator that he went to Nashville, in Tennessee, on the 2d day of July, 1901, to accept the resignation of one Albright, the president and treasurer of the American Hardwood Company, in which the relator was interested, and was then elected president of the company in said Albright's stead; that that evening he left Nashville, and never again was in the State of Tennessee, except passing through there on the 16th or 17th of July.

Upon the claim that the relator became a fugitive from justice by his presence in the State of Tennessee at a date subsequent to the commission of the crime, the Court of Appeals, speaking through Judge Cullen, said, at page 186:

"If the relator was not otherwise subject to extradition to the State of Tennessee, because he was not personally present in that state at the commission of the alleged offenses, his subsequent presence in the state for a single day, nearly a year before the institution of any prosecution against him, could give that state no right to require his surrender."

In the same case, reported as Hyatt vs. Corkran (188 U. S., 691), the Supreme Court of the United States, speaking through Mr. Justice Peckham, said, at page 719:

"The subsequent presence for one day (under the circumstances stated above) of the relator in the State of Tennessee, eight days after the alleged commission of the act, did not, when he left the state, render him a fugitive from justice within the meaning of the statute. There is no evidence or claim that he then committed any act which brought him within the criminal law of the State of Tennessee, or that he was indicted for any act then committed. The proof is uncontradicted that he went there on business, transacted it and came away. The complaint was not made nor the indictments found until months after that time. His departure from the state after the conclusion of his business cannot be regarded as a fleeing from justice within the meaning of the statute. He must have been there when the crime was committed, as alleged, and if not, a subsequent going there and coming away is not a flight."

It is apparent from the foregoing citations that Mr. Ziegler may not lawfully be delivered to the State of Missouri as a fugitive from justine on account of his presence in that state upon the 3d and 4th days of April, 1901.

But it is also contended that the demands of the law are satisfied if the accused was in the State of Missouri "at a time before the commission of the crime, and when any act was done toward, or preparation made for, the commission thereof."

I find no authority for the proposition as stated. "The authorities are unanimous," in the language of Judge O'Brien in People vs. Hyatt, supra, quoted above, "in holding that a person cannot be a fugitive from the justice of the demanding state who was not in that state when the crime charged is alleged to have been committed."

In determining when the crime charged is alleged to have been committed, recourse must necessarily be had to the indictment by which the charge is made. The indictment contains two counts, one charging bribery by reason of a promise to pay money to influence the judgment, decision and vote of certain members of the Missouri Senate, constituting the committee on criminal jurisprudence, upon a certain bill then pending before said committee, and the other charging bribery by promise and payment of the money.

The circumstances leading up to the charges of bribery as set out in the indictment are as follows: Senate bill No. 110 was introduced in the Senate on the —— day of January, 1901; House bill No. 88, containing substantially the same provisions, was introduced in the House of Representatives on the —— day of January, 1901; said Senate bill No. 110 was referred to the committee on criminal jurisprudence (date of reference not given); said House bill No. 88 was duly passed by said House of Representatives (date of passage not given), and was immediately referred to the Senate, where it was referred to the said committee on criminal jurisprudence.

The indictment then goes on to declare that one William Ziegler, "well knowing the premises aforesaid," willfully, feloniously and corruptly conspired with one D. J. Kelley to bribe the members of said committee, and that the said William Ziegler thereafter did on or about the —— day of March, 1901, promise to pay, etc.

It will be seen that it is quite impossible to gather from the indictment any information as to the times when the various proceedings in reference to either of said bills were had. From certified copies of the records of both houses of the General Assembly, submitted by counsel for Mr. Ziegler, the following information is gathered:

Senate bill No. 110 was introduced January 24, 1901, read the first time January 24, 1901, read the second time January 28, 1901, and referred to the committee on criminal jurisprudence. House bill No. 88 was introduced into the House of Representatives January 10, 1901, put on its third reading and finally passed February 21, 1901. In the Senate, House bill No. 88 was reported from the House February 22, 1901, read the first time February 25, 1901, read the second time February 26, 1901; and referred to the committee on criminal jurisprudence.

Upon the foregoing it is evident that the crime charged in the indictment could not have been committed prior to the reference of House bill No. 88 to the Senate committee on criminal jurisprudence on February 26, 1901.

It is claimed that although the indictment charges that the offense was committed on the —— day of March, 1901, yet that the commission of the offense may be shown to have occurred at any time before the finding of the indictment and within the statute of limitations. It is probably true that under the Missouri statutes that claim is well founded. Section 2535 of the Revised Statutes of that state provides as follows:

"No indictment shall be deemed invalid for omitting to state the time at which the offense was committed in any case where time is not of the essence of the offense, nor for stating the time imperfectly, nor for stating the offense to have been committed on a day subsequent to the finding of the indictment, or an impossible day, or on a day that never happened."

While the foregoing statute may be controlling upon the courts of Missouri upon the trial of a criminal action, the statute furnishes no warrant for the contention that the presence within the demanding state of a person accused of crime, at any time within the period prescribed for the limitation of actions is enough to constitute him a fugitive from justice.

It is true that there are cases in the books relating to that class of crimes, in the commission of which several facts, which may occur at different times and places, are essential to the crime, where the defendant was in the demanding state at the time when the crime charged against him was begun, but had departed therefrom before the occurrence of the other act by which the crime was completed. Such are the cases where a bank officer knowing the bank to be insolvent directs his agent to receive deposits but is not personally in the demanding state at the time when the deposit is actually received (in re Cook, 49 Federal Reporter, 843); and where a person is indicted for obtaining property under false pretences, the false representations being made at one time in one state and the goods being delivered at a later date in another state (in re Sultan 44 Am. State Reports, 433).

While the statutes of Missouri declare either the promise or the giving of any money or other valuable consideration to any member of the Legislature with intent to influence his vote to be bribery, and while it is quite possible that upon a trial for bribery evidence of the promise at one date and of the payment of money at a subsequent date would be admissible, yet within the constitutional provision it is the plain duty of the demanding state to fix, at least within reasonable limits, the time within which it is charged that the crime was committed and to establish the presence of the accused in the demanding state within the period so fixed.

In the Cook case, supra, it was established by affidavit that the bank had been insolvent for at least six months prior to its failure, that its insolvency was well known to the accused and that it was under his express directions that the bank was kept open and continued to receive deposits.

In the Sulton case, supra, the indictment was accompanied by affidavits showing both the time and place of the false representation and the time and place of the subsequent delivery of the goods.

It is true that in the case at bar the counsel for Missouri stated upon the hearing (p. 68, stenographer's minutes) that they "fixed the date of the payment of the money, the doing of one part of the crime, the agreement, as the 7th or 8th of January, 1901, and the doing of the other as the 19th of March, 1901."

The difficulties with the contention of the Missouri authorities that the fixing of the date of the agreement as the 7th or 8th of January, 1901, brings Mr. Ziegler's case within the law are, first, that the date is not within the time fixed by the indictment as the time of the commission of the crime; second, there is no claim of a mistaken date in the indictment, and third, there is absolutely no evidence tending to show any promise made by Mr. Ziegler on January 7th or 8th, 1901.

In Hyatt vs. Corkran (188 U. S., 691), the Supreme Court of the United States says upon this question at page 711:

"That the prosecution on the trial of such an indictment need not prove with exactness the commission of the crime at the very time alleged in the indictment is immaterial. The indictments in this case named certain dates as the times when the crimes were committed, and where in a proceeding like this there is no proof or offer of proof to show that the crimes were in truth committed on some other day than those named in the indictments, and that the dates named therein were erroneously stated, it is sufficient for the party charged to show that he was not in the state at the times named in the indictments."

Under the authorities I am constrained to advise that Mr. Ziegler's presence in St. Louis in the early days of January, 1901, is not sufficient to warrant the holding that he is a fugitive from the justice of that state.

There remains for consideration only the question of the presence of Mr. Ziegler in the state of Missouri between February 25th, 1901, and March 20th, 1901. There is no serious contention that Mr. Ziegler was present in that state at any other time than on or about the 19th day of March, 1901, the date when it is claimed the bribe money was actually paid. The evidence as to his presence in the State of Missouri on March 19th, 1901 is conflicting. I do not regard it as within my province to determine upon this disputed question of fact where the truth lies. I deem it proper, however, to call to your attention certain considerations which may be helpful to you in examining the evidence and reaching a conclusion upon the disputed question of fact.

The affidavit of F. M. Brown, prosecuting attorney of Cole county, Missouri wherein he swears "that at the time of committing said crime said William Ziegler was personally present in said county and state," and "that on or about the — day of March, 1901, the said William Ziegler fled from the state of Missouri," which affidavit forms the basis for the issuance of the requisition by Governor Dockery, is deprived of all force as proof of said facts by the admission made by counsel with the attorney general of Missouri upon the hearing (p. 76, stenographer's minutes) that Mr. Brown knows nothing about the facts.

It is shown that the name "W. Ziegler" appears upon the register of the Southern Hotel of St. Louis under date of March 19, 1901; that the person so registered occupied room 232 and paid his bill upon his departure upon the following day. Both sides agree, however, in declaring that the signature upon the register is not the signature of the W. Ziegler here accused.

No person swears to seeing Mr. Ziegler in Missouri on or about the 19th day of March, 1901. The evidence of his presence in that state at or about that time consists entirely of alleged admissions and declarations of Mr. Ziegler. Byron R. Newton deposes that on November 15, 1903, he had a talk with Mr

Ziegler in his home in Fifth avenue, New York, in the course of which he asked Mr. Ziegler if it was true that he was in St. Louis March 19, 1901, as stated in the newspaper despatches of the previous night, and that Mr. Ziegler laughingly replied: "Certainly I was there and if the Missouri authorities had written me it would have been quite unnecessary for them to have taken the hotel records into the grand jury room. I would have told them that I was there and what for. It was a matter of private business." Mr. Ziegler does not deny the conversation with Mr. Newton, but offers the explanation that he supposed that Mr. Newton's question referred to his visits to St. Louis in January or April, when he went out upon business connected with the aforesaid Provident Chemical Works.

The affidavit of Evelyn B. Baldwin (taken in St Louis), states that in March 1901, he was in New York City, and was in almost daily association with Mr. Ziegler. The affidavit continues:

"That in March. 1901, Ziegler told affiant that he had to come to Missouri before the Legislature of Missouri adjourned; that Ziegler said to affiant that he was going out to Missouri to crush out the alum baking-powder people; that about the middle of March. 1901, affiant went to the Forty-second street railway station in New York City with Ziegler, who told affiant that he was going that night to Missouri; that at the station Ziegler introduced affiant to D. J. Kelley, who was coming out to Missouri with Ziegler. That Ziegler and Kelley came away on the train; that afterwards when Ziegler had returned to New York, affiant was present when Ziegler and Kelley talked about the trip of Ziegler and Kelley to Missouri and about the defeat of legislation in Missouri which Ziegler was interested in defeating. That affiant waited on Ziegler to return from Missouri to New York, so that affiant might transact some business with Ziegler. That affiant waited for the return of Ziegler to New York City until the 21st or 22d of March, 1901, and that up to that time affiant did not know of his return although affiant was looking and waiting for him. That the next time affiant saw Ziegler after Ziegler went to Missouri, about the middle of March, was on March 28, 1901. That when Ziegler returned to New York from Missouri he said to affiant that he, Ziegler, had accomplished what he came out to Missouri for and that he, Ziegler, would make a great deal of money out of the transaction."

Mr. Ziegler in his answer (p. 100, stenographer's minutes), says: "I was not in the City of St. Louis or the State of Missouri between the 9th day of January, 1901, and the 3d day of April, 1901."

Replying partly to Mr. Baldwin's affidavit, he says at page 86 of the stenographer's minutes: "Baldwin is a personal enemy of mine. I employed him to take charge of an expedition to the North Pole, and on his failure to faithfully represent the interests confided to him I discharged him from such employment in the month of October, 1902, and he then and there threatened he would get even with me, and, as I am informed and believe, has since then been actively engaged in finding an opportunity for so doing."

At page 91 of the stenographer's minutes Mr. Ziegler says: "I further submit that the indictment is a mere act of oppression and that such act of the Missouri authorities has been set in motion by the vindictiveness and hatred of my aforesaid enemies, some or all of them; * * * Baldwin by reason of his discharge from my employment."

The affidavit of William S. Champ (page 102 of the stenographer's minutes) corroborates Mr. Ziegler in the statement that Baldwin, upon his discharge by Ziegler, in the month of October, 1902, threatened to get even with him.

On the other hand, seven witnesses are produced whose evidence is claimed to establish the presence of Mr. Ziegler in the City of New York on the 18th, 19th, 20th and 21st days of March, 1901. Mrs. Gano of Flushing, N. Y., swears to an interview with Mr. Ziegler on March 18, 1901, had by appointment made by letter from Mr. Ziegler's secretary, mailed March 16, 1901. The letter and the envelope post-marked "New York, March 16, 1901, 2 p. m." and back post-marked "Flushing, N. Y., received March 16, 4 p. m." are both produced.

Mrs. Gano promised to have her son call upon Mr. Ziegler on the following day. Young Gano swears that pursuant to the appointment made by his mother, he called at Mr. Ziegler's office on the following day, March 19, 1901, had an interview with Mr. Zeigler, and on the following Monday, March 25, 1901, entered into the employment of the Royal Baking Powder Company.

James W. Gerard, one of Mr. Ziegler's attorneys, testifies that he saw Mr. Ziegler several times between March 7, 1901, and March 22, 1901, with reference to a proceeding in which Mr. Ziegler had been summoned before a referee to give evidence on an examination in supplementary proceedings of one Coons; that he saw Mr. Ziegler in his office on the 19th of March, 1901; that on that day Mr. Ziegler decided to bring an action against Mr. Coons, and expressed a desire to bring an action immediately; Gerard said it would take some time to draw the complaint, to which Ziegler replied not to draw a complaint but to serve him with a summons right away; Mr. Gerard made out the summons himself, dated March 19, 1901, and produces it with an affidavit of service upon the defendant on March 21, 1901; on March 22, 1901, Mr. Gerard accompanied Mr. Ziegler to the office of the referee in supplementary proceedings, where Mr. Ziegler was then examined.

Rev. James M. Byrne, a clergyman living at Tottenville, Staten Island, swears that he saw Mr. Ziegler at his office on Monday, March 18, 1901, and also on Friday March 22, 1901, concerning a gift for the construction of a parsonage in connection with the witness' church. The witness is able to fix the date of these interviews by a letter written to Mr. Ziegler by the late Archbishop Corrigan, dated March 26, 1901, which letter is also produced.

Timothy Delaney, William C. Demorest and William S. Champ all give evidence of daily personal interviews upon business matters with Mr. Ziegler in the City of New York from March 15 to March 25, 1901, and produce checks given for the purchase of horses on March 20 and March 21, 1901, said checks being signed on the days that they respectively bear date in the presence of at least two of the witnesses; other checks were produced, including one for $50, signed by Mr. Ziegler on the 19th day of March, 1901, and one on the 21st day of March, 1901, in favor of Evelyn B. Baldwin for $100.

Mr. Ziegler's letter-press copy book for March was also produced, and includes a number of letters written on March 19, 1901, which Mr. Champ swears were written under Mr. Ziegler's direction. One letter, written on March 18, 1901, appears to have been copied after the letters of March 19, 1901. Mr. Champ swears that he remembers the letter in question distinctly; that it was written late in the afternoon of the 18th; that when it was submitted to Mr. Ziegler for approval he was just getting ready to go home and the letter was left until the following day.

Upon all the evidence submitted the duty rests upon the executive of determining the disputed fact. If the actual presence of Mr. Ziegler in the State of Missouri at the time when the offense is alleged to have been committed is not established to your satisfaction, a warrant for his arrest and delivery to the agent of that state should not issue. If the fact be determined against him, he is a fugitive from justice and the duty of the executive to surrendered him to the demanding state is imperative.

Very respectfully yours,

JOHN CUNNEEN, Attorney-General.

CASE OF FRANK C. LORY.

It often happens that the authorities of a state seek to pass upon the constitutionality of a law or the form of an indictment of the demanding state. The author, as messenger of the State of Illinois, appeared before Governor A. M. Dockery, of Missouri, on April 27, 1904, with the following requisition papers:

STATE OF ILLINOIS, }
Executive Department. }

The Governor of the State of Illinois, to the Governor of Missouri:

WHEREAS, It appears by the papers required by the statutes of the United States which are hereunto annexed, and which I certify to be authentic and duly authenticated in accordance with the laws of this state, that Frank C. Lory stands charged with the crime of confidence game, which I certify to be a crime under the laws of this state, committed in the county of Vermilion in this state, and it having been represented to me that he has fled from the justice of this state and has taken refuge in the State of Missouri;

Now, therefore, Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution and the laws of the United States in such case made and provided, I do hereby require that the said Frank C. Lory be apprehended and delivered to Hardy H. Whitlock, who is hereby authorized to receive and convey him to the State of Illinois, there to be dealt with according to law.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of State, at the Capitol in the City of Springfield, this 26th day of April, A. D. 1904.

[SEAL] RICH'D YATES.

By the Governor:

JAMES A. ROSE, Secretary of State.

STATE OF ILLINOIS, }
Vermilion County, } ss. Of the May term of the Vermilion County Circuit Court, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and three.

The Grand Jurors, chosen, selected and sworn, in and for the County of Vermilion, in the name and by the authority of the People of the State of Illinois, upon their oaths present: That Frank C. Lory, William Lory, Max Beaver and Clyde V. Nafe, late of the County of Vermilion and State of Illinois, on the first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and three, at and in the county aforesaid, did unlawfully and feloniously obtain from one Henry Lloyd four hundred dollars of good and lawful money of the United States, of the value of four hundred dollars of the personal goods and chattels of the said Henry Lloyd, by means of the confidence game, contrary to the form of the statute in such case made and provided, and against the peace and dignity of the said People of the State of Illinois.

2. And the Grand Jurors aforesaid, chosen, selected and sworn, in and for the County of Vermilion aforesaid, in the name and by the authority of the People of the State aforesaid, upon their oaths aforesaid do further present that the said Frank C. Lory, William Lory, Max Beaver and Clyde V. Nafe, late of the County of Vermilion and state aforesaid, on the tenth day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and three, at and in the county aforesaid, did unlawfully and feloniously obtain from Henry Lloyd four hundred dollars of good and lawful money of the United States, of the value of four hundred dollars, the personal property then and there of the said Henry Lloyd, by means and by use of the confidence game, contrary to the form of the statute in such case made and provided, and against the peace and dignity of the said People of the State of Illinois.

J. W. KEESLAR,
State's Attorney in and for said County of Vermilion.

STATE OF ILLINOIS, }
Vermilion County, } ss.

I, J. W. Barger, Circuit Clerk of said county and state, do hereby certify that this is a true, perfect and complete copy of an indictment filed in my office on the 27th day of May, 1903.

[SEAL] J. W. BARGER, Circuit Clerk.

Danville, Ill., April 26, 1904.

To His Excellency, Richard Yates, Governor of Illinois:

Your petitioner, Henry Lloyd, of the Town of Catlin, County of Vermilion, State of Illinois, would represent to your Excellency that Frank C. Lory stands charged by the accompanying certified copy of indictment with the crime of confidence game, committed in the County of Vermilion and State of Illinois, on or about the tenth day of January, 1903. That on or about the tenth day of January, 1903, the said Frank C. Lory fled from the State of Illinois, and is now, as your petitioner verily believes, in the County of St. Louis and State of Missouri, fugitive from the justice of this state, and the grounds of such belief are as follows: A telegram from Matthew Kiely, Chief of Police, St. Louis, Missouri, to H. H. Whitlock, in words and figures, to-wit:

"ST. LOUIS, MO., April 25th, 1904.

"H. H. Whitlock, Sheriff, Danville, Ills.:

"Frank C. Lory under arrest. Will not return without papers. Wire prosecuting witness' name and amount involved. Come at once, as he will apply for writ of habeas corpsus. MATHEW KIELY,

"10:54 p. m. Chief Police."

Wherefore, your petitioner prays that a requisition may issue upon the governor of the said State of Missouri, and that Hardy H. Whitlock, of the City of Danville, County of Vermilion and State of Illinois, may be appointed messenger of the State of Illinois, to go after, receive and return the said fugitive to the County of Vermilion, State of Illinois, for trial. HENRY LLOYD.

I, Henry Lloyd, being first duly sworn, do solemnly declare that the facts set forth in the foregoing petition are true, and that a requisition for the above named fugitive is not sought for the purpose of collecting a debt, to allow any person to travel at the expense of the state, or to answer any private end whatever. HENRY LLOYD.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 26th day of April, 1904.

[SEAL] WALTER T. GUNN, Notary Public.

I, S. Murray Clark, County Judge of Vermilion County, State of Illinois, do hereby certify that the ends of justice require the return of Frank C. Lory.

[SEAL] S. MURRAY CLARK, County Judge.

I, J. W. Keeslar, State's Attorney for Vermilion County, Illinois, do hereby certify that I have examined the case in which the within application is made, that the said Frank C. Lory is a fugitive from justice, and has, as I believe, taken refuge in the State of Missouri, and that he fled from the State of Illinois before an arrest could be made. I further certify that I have within my reach and can produce on the trial evidence necessary to secure his conviction.

J. W. KEESLAR, State's Attorney.

STATE OF ILLINOIS, }
Executive Department. }

The Governor of the State of Illinois, to all to whom these Presents shall come—Greeting:

Know ye, That I have authorized and empowered, and by these Presents do authorize and empower, Hardy H. Whitlock as messenger and agent on the part of this state to take and receive from the proper authorities of Missouri, Frank C. Lory, who is a fugitive from justice, and convey him to the State of Illinois, there to be dealt with according to law.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of state, at the Capitol in the City of Springfield, this 26th day of April, A. D. 1904.

[SEAL] RICH'D YATES.

By the Governor:

JAMES A. ROSE, Secretary of State.

The indictment in this case is good under the statutes of Illinois and decisions of the Supreme Court of Illinois. The governor referred the papers in the case to Samuel B. Jeffries, assistant attorney general, who held that the indictment was not sufficient. Calling his attention to section ninety-nine, chapter thirty-eight of the Illinois statutes, which provides that "in every indictment for obtaining money by means of the confidence game it shall be deemed and held a sufficient description of the offense to charge that the accused did, on, etc., unlawfully and feloniously obtain, or attempt to obtain, from A. B. his money by means and by use of the confidence game," and also calling his attention to the cases of Maxwell vs. People, 158 Ill., 248, and Graham vs. People, 181 Ill., 477, the governor of Missouri and his assistant attorney general still refused to "be shown," and the requisition was not honored.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS.

Be sure your man is a fugitive from your state. If he has never been in your state, don't go after him, however heinous the crime may be. If you have any doubt as to whether he is a fugitive from justice, consult the opinion of Attorney-General Cunneen, of New York on page 213 of this volume.

Each state requires a petition for the requisition of the governor and the application for the requisition must be made by the prosecuting attorney of the county or district where the offense was committed. The certificate of the prosecuting attorney should state the full name of the person for whom extradition is asked and also the name of the proposed messenger; that the person named as messenger is a proper person and has no private interest in the arrest of the fugitive; that public justice requires that the alleged criminal be brought to this state for trial at public expense; that he believes he has sufficient evidence to convict the fugitive; that the application is not made for the purpose of collecting a debt or for any private purpose whatever and that if the requisition applied for be granted, the proceedings will not be used for any purpose other than the prosecution for the crime charged; that the authorities have used all diligence to apprehend the alleged criminal but have been unable to do so by reason of the fact that he could not be found; if there has been a former request for a requisition growing out of the same transaction, it must be so stated and an explanation given of the reasons for a second request, together with the date of such application; if the offense charged is not of recent occurrence, a satisfactory reason must be given for the delay in making the application. The nature of the crime should be stated and reference made to the particular statute defining and punishing the same.

If the fugitive has been indicted by the grand jury, be sure your copy or copies of the indictment are properly certified. If a warrant has been issued by a magistrate, don't forget the certificate of magistracy and see that your affidavits of the witnesses corroborating the charge as set up in the warrant are sufficient to warrant a conviction, if true. An affidavit made before a notary public is not sufficient for the reason that notaries public are not magistrates under the law. In most states the application for a requisition based upon an affidavit or information alone is not sufficient unless supported by additional affidavits.

It is always advisable that the application papers for a requisition should be made in triplicate so that one set of papers may be filed with the authorities of the demanding state and duplicates sent to the state upon which the request is made. All affidavits in support of a warrant or information should be originals. Many states require that duplicate papers must be filed before the prisoner is surrendered. Requisitions will not be granted on petitions alone.

DIVORCE LAWS

OF THE

UNITED STATES

ALABAMA.

(Civil Code 1896, in force January 1, 1904.)

1485. Absolute divorce may be granted:

(1) In favor of either party, where the other was, at the time of the marriage, physically and incurably incapacitated from entering into the marriage state.

(2) Adultery.

(3) Voluntary abandonment from bed and board for two years next preceding the filing of the bill.

(4) Imprisonment in the penitentiary of this or any other state for two years, the sentence being for seven years or longer.

(5) The commission of the crime against nature, whether with mankind or beast, either before or after marriage.

(6) Becoming addicted after marriage to habitual drunkenness.

(7) In favor of the husband when the wife was pregnant at the time of marriage without his knowledge or agency.

(8) In favor of the wife when the husband has committed actual violence on her person, attended with danger to life or health; or when from his conduct there is reasonable apprehension of such violence.

Limited divorce may be granted in case of cruelty in either of the parties, or any cause which would justify a decree from the bonds of matrimony, if the party applying therefor desires only a divorce from bed and board. Parties may marry again at the discretion of the court.

1492. No bill can be filed for a divorce on the ground of voluntary abandonment, unless the party applying therefor, whether husband or wife, has been a bona fide resident of the state for three years next before the filing of the bill, which must be alleged in the bill and proved.

1493. Bills for divorce may be filed in the chancery district in which the defendant resides, or in the district in which the parties resided when the separation occurred; if the defendant is a non-resident, then in the district in which the other party to the marriage resides.

1494. When the defendant is a non-resident, the other party to the marriage must have been a bona fide resident of this state for one year next before the filing of the bill, which must be alleged in the bill and proved.

ARIZONA.

(Act of March 18, 1903.)

A divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be granted by the district court of the county where the parties, or one of them, reside, on the application of the aggrieved party, by complaint in any of the following cases:

(1) When adultery has been committed by either husband or wife.

(2) When one of the parties was physically incompetent at the time of marriage and the same has been continued to the time of the commencement of the suit.

(3) When one of the parties has been convicted of a felony and sentenced to imprisonment therefor in any prison: Provided, That no suit shall be sustained because of the conviction of either party for a felony until one year after final judgment of conviction; and provided further, that the husband has not been convicted on the testimony of the wife, nor the wife on the testimony of the husband. And no pardon granted to either party shall take from the other the right to sue for and procure a decree of divorce for the causes mentioned in this subdivision.

(4) When either party has willfully deserted the other for the term of one year next preceding the commencement of the suit or for habitual intemperance of either party.

(5) Where the husband or wife is guilty of excesses, cruel treatment or outrages toward the other, whether by the use of personal violence or any other means.

(6) When the husband has neglected for the period of one year to provide his wife with the common necessaries of life, having the ability to provide the same, or failing to do so by reason of his idleness, profligacy or dissipation.

(7) When prior to the marriage either party shall have been convicted of a felony or infamous crime in any state, territory or country, without the knowledge on the part of the other party of such fact at the time of such marriage.

(8) In favor of the husband when the wife at the time of the marriage shall have been pregnant by a man other than the husband and without his knowledge at the time of such marriage.

No suit for divorce from the bonds of matrimony shall be maintained in the courts unless the complainant for such divorce shall at the time of exhibiting his or her complaint have been an actual bona fide resident of the territory for one year, and shall have resided in the county where the suit is filed six months next preceding the filing of the suit.

ARKANSAS.

(Sandel's and Hill's statutes 1894, in force January 1, 1904.)

An absolute or limited divorce may be decreed:

(1) Where either party, at the time of the contract, was, and still is impotent.

(2) Where either party willfully deserts and absents himself or herself from the other for the space of one year without reasonable cause.

(3) Where he or she had a former wife or husband, living at the time of the marriage sought to be set aside.

(4) Where either party shall be convicted of felony or other infamous crime.

(5) Where either party shall be addicted to habitual drunkenness for the space of one year; or shall be guilty of such cruel and barbarous treatment as to endanger the life of the other; or shall offer such indignities to the person of the other as shall render his or her life intolerable.

(6) Where either party shall have committed adultery subsequent to the marriage.

The plaintiff to obtain a divorce must allege and prove in addition to a legal cause for divorce: First, A residence in the state for one year before the commencement of the action. Second, That the cause for divorce occurred or existed in this state, or if out of the state, either that it was a cause for divorce in the state where it occurred or existed, or that the plaintiff's residence was then in this state. Third, That the cause of divorce occurred or existed within five years next before the commencement of the suit.

CALIFORNIA.

(Civil code as amended and in force January 1, 1904.)

55. Marriage is a personal relation arising out of a civil contract, to which the consent of parties capable of making it is necessary. Consent alone will not constitute marriage; it must be followed by a solemnization authorized by this code.

56. Any unmarried male of the age of eighteen years or upwards and any unmarried female of the age of fifteen years or upwards and not otherwise disqualified are capable of consenting to and consummating marriage.

57. Consent to and subsequent consummation of marriage may be manifested in any form, and may be proved under the same general rules of evidence as facts in other cases.

58. If either party to a marriage be incapable from physical causes of entering into the marriage state, or if the consent of either be obtained by fraud or force, the marriage is voidable. (This section has been repealed).

59. Marriages between parents and children, ancestors and descendants of every degree, and between the brothers and sisters of the half as well as the whole blood, and between uncles and nieces or aunts and nephews, are incestuous and void from the beginning, whether the relationship is legitimate or illegitimate.

60. All marriages of white persons with negroes, mongolians or mulattoes are illegal and void.

61. A subsequent marriage contracted by any person during the life of a former husband or wife of such person with any person other than such former husband or wife is illegal and void from the beginning unless:

(1) The former marriage has been annulled or dissolved by a decree entered at least one year prior to such subsequent marriage.

(2) Unless such former husband or wife was absent, and not known to such person to be living, for the space of five successive years immediately preceding such subsequent marriage, or was generally reputed and was believed by such person to be dead at the time such subsequent marriage was contracted, in either of which cases the subsequent marriage is valid until its nullity is adjudged by a competent tribunal.

62. Neither party to a contract to marry is bound by a promise made in ignorance of the other's want of personal chastity, and either is released therefrom by unchaste conduct on the part of the other unless both parties participate therein.

63. All marriages contracted without this state, which would be valid by the laws of the country in which the same were contracted, are valid in this state.

68. Marriage must be licensed, solemnized, authenticated and recorded as provided in this article; but non-compliance with its provisions by others than a party to a marriage does not invalidate it.

69. All persons about to be joined in marriage must first obtain a license therefor from the county clerk of the county in which the marriage is to be celebrated, showing:

(1) The identity of the parties.

(2) Their real and full names and places of residence.

(3) Their ages, if minors, or that they are over the ages of eighteen and twenty-one respectively, if adults.

(4) If the male be under the age of twenty-one or the female under the age of eighteen years, the consent of the father, mother or guardian or of the one having the charge of such person, if any, must be given; or that such non-aged person has been previously but is not at the time, married.

For the purpose of ascertaining these facts, the clerk is required to receive affidavits, or to examine parties and witnesses on oath and reduce such examination to writing to be by them subscribed. If the male be under the age of twenty-one years or the female under the age of eighteen, and such person has not been previously married, no license shall be issued by the clerk, unless the consent in writing, of the parents of the person under age, or of one of such parents, or of his or her guardian, or of one having charge of such person, be presented to him, and such consent shall be filed by the clerk: Provided, That the said clerk shall not issue a license authorizing the marriage of a white person with a negro, mullato or mongolian.

70. Marriage may be solemnized by either a justice of the supreme court, judge of the superior court, justice of the peace, police judge, priest or minister of the gospel of any denomination.

71. No particular form for the ceremony of marriage is required but the parties must declare, in the presence of the person solemnizing the marriage, that they take each other as husband and wife.

72. The person solemnizing a marriage must first require the presentation of the marriage license; and if he has any reason to doubt the correctness of its statement of facts, he must first satisfy himself of its correctness, and for that purpose he may administer oaths and examine the parties and witnesses in like manner as the county clerk does before issuing the license.

73. The person solemnizing a marriage must make, sign, and indorse upon, or attach to, the license, a certificate showing:

(1) The fact, time and place of solemnizing; and

(2) The names and places of residence of one or more witnesses to the ceremony.

74. He must at the request of and for either party, make a certified copy of the license and certificate, and file the originals with the county recorder within thirty days after the marriage.

He must within thirty days after the marriage, file such license and certificate with the county recorder and at any time, while they remain in his posession, he must, at the request of either party make and deliver to him or her, a certified copy thereof.

75. Repealed.

76. If no record of the solemnization of a marriage heretofore contracted be known to exist, the parties may join in a written declaration of such marriage, substantially showing:

(1) The names, ages and residences of the parties.

(2) The fact of the marriage.

(3) That no record of such marriage is known to exist. Such declaration must be subscribed by the parties and attested by at least three witnesses.

77. Declarations of marriage must be acknowledged and recorded in like manner as grants of real property.

78. If either party to any marriage denies the same, or refuses to join in a declaration thereof, the other may proceed, by action in the superior court, to have the validity of the marriage determined and declared.

79. When unmarried persons, not minors, have been living together as man and wife, they may without a license be married by any clergyman. A certificate of such marriage must, by the clergyman be made and delivered to the parties, and recorded upon the records of the church of which the clergyman is a representative. No other record need be made.

79. (a) The provisions of this chapter, so far as they relate to the solemnizing of marriages, are not applicable to members of any particular religious denomination having, as such, any peculiar mode of entering the marriage relation; but such marriages must be declared and recorded, as provided, in section 77. Where a marriage is declared as provided in said section 76, the husband must file said declaration with the county recorder within thirty days after such marriage, and upon receiving the same, the county recorder must record the same; and if the husband fails to make such declaration and file the same for record, as herein provided, he is liable to the same penalties as any person authorized to solemnize marriages who fails to make the return of such solemnization as provided by law.

80. Either party to an incestuous or void marriage may proceed, by action in the superior court, to have the same so declared.

82. A marriage may be annulled for any of the following causes existing at the time of the marriage:

(1) That the party in whose behalf it is sought to have the marriage annulled was under the age of legal consent, and such marriage was contracted without the consent of his or her parents, or guardian, or person having charge of him or her; unless, after attaining the age of consent, such party for any time freely cohabited with the other as husband or wife.

(2) That the former husband or wife of either party was living, and the marriage with such former husband or wife was then in force.

(3) That either party was of unsound mind, unless such party, after coming to reason, freely cohabited with the other as husband or wife.

(4) That the consent of either party was obtained by fraud, unless such party afterward, with full knowledge of the facts constituting the fraud freely cohabited with the other as husband or wife.

(5) That the consent of either party was obtained by force, unless such party afterward freely cohabited with the other as husband or wife.

(6) That either party was, at the time of marriage, physically incapable of entering into the married state, and such incapacity continues, and appears to be incurable.

83. An action to obtain a decree of nullity of marriage for causes mentioned in the preceding section must be commenced within the periods and by the parties as follows:

(1) For causes mentioned in subdivision 1: By the party to the marriage who was married under the age of legal consent within four years after arriving at the age of consent; or by a parent, guardian or other person having charge of such non-aged male or female, at any time before such married minor has arrived at the age of legal consent.

(2) For causes mentioned in subdivision 2: By the party injured or relative of the other, or any such former husband or wife.

(3) For causes mentioned in subdivision 3: By the party injured or relative or guardian of the party of unsound mind, at any time before the death of either party.

(4) For causes mentioned in subdivision 4: By the party injured within four years after the discovery of the facts constituting the fraud.

(5) For cause mentioned in subdivision 5: By the injured party within four years after the marriage.

(6) For causes mentioned in subdivision 6: By the injured party within four years after the marriage.

84. When a marriage is annulled on the ground that a former husband or wife was living, or on the ground of insanity, children begotten before the judgment are legitimate and succeed to the estate of both parents. A judgment of nullity of marriage does not affect the legitimacy of children begotten before such judgment.

85. The court must award the custody of the children of a marriage annulled on the ground of fraud or force to the innocent party and may also provide for their education and maintenance out of the property of the guilty party.

86. A judgment of nullity of marriage rendered is conclusive only as against the parties to the action and those claiming under them.

90. Marriage is dissolved only:

(1) By the death of one of the parties; or

(2) By the judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction decreeing a divorce of the parties.

91. The effect of a judgment decreeing a divorce is to restore the parties to the state of unmarried persons.

92. Divorces may be granted for any of the following causes:

(1) Adultery.

(2) Extreme cruelty.

(3) Willful desertion for one year.

(4) Willful neglect.

(5) Habitual intemperance.

(6) Conviction of felony.

93. Adultery is the sexual intercourse of a married person with a person other than the offender's husband or wife.

94. Extreme cruelty is the wrongful infliction of grievous bodily injury or grievous mental suffering upon the other by one party to the marriage.

95. Persistant refusal to have reasonable matrimonial intercourse as husband and wife, when health or physical condition does not make such refusal reasonably necessary; or the refusal of either party to dwell in the same house with the other party, when there is no just cause for such refusal, is desertion.

97. When one party is induced, by the stratagem or fraud of the other party, to leave the family dwelling place, or to be absent and during such absence the offending party departs with intent to desert the other, it is desertion by the party committing the stratagem or fraud, and not by the other.

98. Departure or absence of one party from the family dwelling place caused by cruelty or by threats of bodily harm from which danger would be reasonably apprehended from the other, is not desertion by the absent party, but is desertion by the other party.

99. Separation by consent, with or without the understanding that one of the parties will apply for a divorce, is not desertion.

100. Absence or separation, proper in itself, becomes desertion whenever the intent to desert is fixed during such absence or separation.

101. Consent to a separation is a revocable act, and if one of the parties afterwards, in good faith, seeks a reconciliation and restoration, but the other refuses it, such refusal is desertion.

102. If one party deserts the other, and, before the expiration of the statutory period required to make the desertion a cause of divorce, returns and offers in good faith to fulfill the marriage contract, and solicits condonation, the desertion is cured. If the other party refuse such offer and condonation, the refusal shall be deemed and treated as desertion by such party from the time of refusal.

103. The husband may choose any reasonable place or mode of living, and if the wife does not conform thereto, it is desertion.

104. If the place or mode of living selected by the husband is unreasonably and grossly unfit, and the wife does not conform thereto, it is desertion on the part of the husband from the time her reasonable objections are made known to him.

105. Willful neglect is the neglect of the husband to provide for his wife the common necessaries of life, he having the ability to do so or it is the failure to do so by reason of idleness, profligacy or dissipation.

106. Habitual intemperance is that degree of intemperance from the use of intoxicating drinks which disqualifies the person a greater portion of the time from properly attending to business, or which would reasonably inflict a course of great mental anguish upon an innocent party.

107. Willful desertion, willful neglect or habitual intemperance must continue for one year before either is ground for divorce.

111. Divorces must be denied upon showing:

(1) Connivance; or

(2) Collusion; or

(3) Condonation; or

(4) Recrimination; or

(5) Limitation and lapse of time.

112. Connivance is the corrupt consent of one party to the commission of the acts of the other, constituting the cause for divorce.

113. Corrupt consent is manifested by passive permission, with intent to connive at or actively procure the commission of the acts complained of.

114. Collusion is an agreement between husband and wife that one of them shall commit, or appear to have committed or to be represented in court as having committed acts constituting a cause of divorce, for the purpose of enabling the other to obtain a divorce.

115. Condonation is the conditional forgiveness of a matrimonial offense constituting a cause for divorce.

116. The following requirements are necessary to condonations:

(1) A knowledge on the part of the condoner of the facts constituting the cause for divorce.

(2) Reconciliation and remission of the offense by the injured party.

(3) Restoration of the offending party to all marital rights.

117. Condonation implies a condition subsequent that the forgiving party must be treated with conjugal kindness.

118. Where the cause of divorce consists of a course of offensive conduct, or arises in case of cruelty from successive acts of ill treatment which may, aggregately, constitute the offense, cohabitation, or passive endurance, or conjugal kindness, shall not be evidenced by condonation of any of the acts constituting such cause unless accompanied by an express agreement to condone.

119. In cases mentioned in the last section, condonation can be made only after the cause of divorce has become complete as to the acts complained of.

120. A fraudulent concealment by the condonee of facts constituting a different cause of divorce from the one condoned, and existing at the time of condonation, avoids such condonation.

121. Condonation is revoked and the original cause of divorce revived:

(1) When the condonee commits acts constituting a like or other cause of divorce; or

(2) When the condonee is guilty of great conjugal unkindness, not amounting to a cause of divorce, but sufficiently habitual and gross to show that the conditions of condonation had not been accepted in good faith, or not fulfilled.

122. Recrimination is a showing by the defendant of any cause of divorce against the plaintiff, in bar of the plaintiff's cause of divorce.

123. Condonation of a cause of divorce shown in the answer as a recriminating defense, is a bar to such defense unless the condonation is revoked as provided in section 121.

124. A divorce must be denied:

(1) When the cause is adultery, and the action is not commenced within two years after the commission of the act of adultery or after its discovery by the injured party; or,

(2) When the cause is conviction of felony, and the action is not commenced before the expiration of two years after a pardon, or the termination of the period of sentence.

(3) In all other cases when there is an unreasonable lapse of time before the commencement of the action.

125. Unreasonable lapse of time is such a delay in commencing the action as establishes the presumption that there has been connivance, collusion or condonation of the offense, or full acquiescence in the same, with intent to continue the marriage relation notwithstanding the commission of such offense.

126. The presumptions arising from lapse of time may be rebutted by showing reasonable grounds for the delay in commencing the action.

127. There are no limitations of the time for commencing actions for divorce, except such as are contained in section 124.

128. A divorce must not be granted unless the plaintiff has been a resident of the state for one year and of the county in which the action is brought three months next preceding the commencement of the action.

129. In actions for divorce the presumption of law that the domicile of the husband is the domicile of the wife does not apply. After separation each may have a separate domicile, depending for proof upon actual residence, and not upon legal presumptions.

130. No divorce can be granted upon the default of the defendant or upon the uncorroborated statement, admission or testimony of the parties or upon any statement or finding of fact made by a referee; but the court must, in addition to any statement or finding of the referee, require proof of the facts alleged, and such proof if not taken before the court, must be upon written questions and answers.

131. In actions for divorce the court must file its decision and conclusions of law as in other cases, and if it determines that no divorce shall be granted, final judgment must thereupon be entered, accordingly. If it determines that the divorce ought to be granted, an interlocutory judgment must be entered, declaring that the party in whose favor the court decides, is entitled to a divorce, and from such interlocutory judgment an appeal may be taken within six months after its entry, in the same manner and with like effect, as if the judgment were final.

132. When one year has expired after the entry of such interlocutory judgment, the court on motion of either party, or upon its own motion may enter the final judgment granting the divorce, and such final judgment shall restore them to the status of single persons and permit either to marry after the entry thereof; and such other and further relief as may be neccssary to a complete disposition of the action, but if any appeal is taken from the interlocutory judgment or motion for a new trial made, final judgment shall not be entered until such motion or appeal has been finally disposed of nor then, if the motion has been granted or judgment reversed. The death of either party after the entry of the interlocutory judgment does not impair the power of the court to enter final judgment as hereinbefore provided; but such entry shall not validate any marriage contracted by either party before the entry of such final judgment, nor constitute any defense of any criminal prosecution made against either.

136. Though judgment of divorce is denied, the court may in an action for divorce, provide for the maintenance of the wife and her children of the marriage or any of them, by the husband.

137. When an action for divorce is pending, the court may, in its discretion, require the husband to pay, as alimony, any money necessary to enable the wife to support herself or her children or to prosecute or defend the action. When the husband willfully deserts the wife, she may, without applying for a divorce, maintain in the superior court an action against him for permanent support and maintenance of herself or of herself and children. During the pendency of such action the court may, in its discretion, require the husband to pay, as alimony any money necessary for the prosecution of the action, and for support and maintenance, and executions may issue therefor, in the discretion of the court. The final judgment in such action may be enforced by the court by such order or orders, as in its discretion, it may from time to time deem necessary, and such order or orders may be varied, altered or revoked at the discretion of the court.

If the existence of the marriage is denied, no alimony pendente lite must be allowed, until upon a hearing for that purpose, had after due notice, the court finds from the evidence the fact of the existence of the marriage. Such hearing and finding, however, must not affect the trial of the action upon the merits, or the judgment rendered thereon.

138. In an action for divorce the court may, before or after judgment, give such direction for the custody, care and education of the children of the marriage as may seem necessary or proper, and may at any time vacate or modify the same.

139. Where a divorce is granted for an offense of the husband the court may compel him to provide for the maintenance of the children of the marriage and to make such suitable allowance to the wife for her support during her life, or for a shorter period, as the court may deem just, having regard to the circumstances of the parties respectively, and the court may, from time to time modify its orders in these respects.

140. The court may require the husband to give reasonable security for providing maintenance or making any payments required under the provisions of this chapter and may enforce the same by the appointment of a receiver or by any other remedy applicable to the case.

141. In executing the five preceding sections, the court must resort:

(1) To the community property; then,

(2) To the separate property of the husband.

142. When the wife has either a separate estate or there is community property sufficient to give her alimony or a proper support, the court, in its discretion, may withhold any allowance to her out of the separate property of the husband.

143. The community property and the separate property may be subjected to the support and education of the children in such proportions as the court deems just.

144. Repealed, 1901.

145. When a divorce is granted for the adultery of the wife the legitimacy of children begotten of her before the commission of adultery is not affected; but the legitimacy of other children of the wife may be determined by the court upon the evidence in the case.

146. In case of the dissolution of the marriage by the decree of the court of competent jurisdiction, the community property and the homestead must be assigned as follows:

(1) If the decree is rendered on the ground of adultery or extreme cruelty, the community property must be assigned to the respective parties in such proportions as the court, from all the facts of the case and the condition of the parties may deem just; but in no event must less than one-half be awarded to the innocent party.

(2) If the decree be rendered on any other ground than that of adultery or extreme cruelty, the community property shall be equally divided between the parties.

(3) If a homestead has been selected from the community property, it may be assigned to the innocent party, either absolutely or for a limited period, subject in the latter case to the future disposition of the court, or it may, in the discretion of the court, be divided or be sold and the proceeds divided.

(4) If a homestead has been selected from the separate property of either, it shall be assigned to the former owner of such property, subject to the power of the court to assign it for a limited period to the innocent party.

147. The court, in rendering a decree of divorce, must make such order for the disposition of the community property and of the homestead as in this chapter provided, and, whenever necessary for that purpose, may order a partition or sale of the property and a division or other disposition of the proceeds.

148. The disposition of the community property, and of the homestead, as above provided, is subject to revision on appeal in all particulars, including those which are stated to be in the discretion of the court.

COLORADO.

(Act of 1893, in force January 1, 1904.)

An absolute divorce may be decreed:

(1) When either party, at the time of the marriage, was, and continues to be, impotent, or in consequence of immoral or criminal conduct, subsequent to the marriage, became impotent.

(2) When he or she had a wife or husband living at the time of such marriage.

(3) When either party has committed adultery subsequent to the marriage; or has willfully deserted or absented herself or himself from the husband or wife, without reasonable cause, for the space of one year.

(4) Where either has been guilty of extreme or repeated acts of cruelty, inflicting mental suffering or bodily violence.

(5) When the husband, being in good bodily health, shall fail to make reasonable provisions for the support of his family for the space of one year.

(6) When either party has been guilty of habitual drunkenness for the space of one year.

(7) When either party has been convicted of felony.

No person shall be entitled to a divorce in this state unless such person shall have been a bona fide resident and citizen of the state for one year prior to the commencement of the action, which fact shall be proven by the evidence of at least one credible witness other than the plaintiff: Provided, That this section shall not affect applications for divorce upon the grounds of adultery or extreme cruelty, where the offense was committed within the state: Provided, further, That such suit shall only be brought in the county in which such plaintiff or defendant resides, or where such defendant last resided.

CONNECTICUT.

(General Statutes, Revision 1902.)

An absolute divorce may be granted for:

(1) Adultery.

(2) Fraudulent contract.

(3) Willful desertion for three years, with total neglect of duty.

(4) Seven years' absence, during all which period the absent party has not been heard from.

(5) Habitual intemperance.

(6) Intolerable cruelty.

(7) Sentence to imprisonment for life.

(8) An infamous crime involving a violation of conjugal duty and punishable by imprisonment in the state prison.

If the plaintiff shall not have continuously resided in this state three years next before the date of the complaint, it shall be dismissed, unless the cause for divorce shall have arisen subsequently to the removal into this state, or unless the defendant shall have continuously resided in this state three years next before the date of the complaint, and actual service shall have been made upon him, or unless the alleged cause is habitual intemperance or intolerable cruelty, and the plaintiff was domiciled in this state at the time of the marriage, and before bringing the complaint, has returned to this state with the intention of permanently remaining.

DELAWARE.

(Code of 1893, in force January 1, 1904.)

An absolute divorce may be granted for adultery, desertion for three years, habitual drunkenness, impotency of either party at the time of marriage, extreme cruelty, or conviction, either in or out of the state after marriage, of a crime by the laws of this state deemed felony, whether such crime shall be perpetrated before or after such marriage.

Either an absolute or limited divorce may be granted, at the discretion of the court, for the procurement of marriage by fraud, for want of age, the husband being under the age of eighteen years, or the wife being under the age of sixteen years at the time of the marriage and such marriage not being after those ages, voluntarily ratified, or for willful neglect on the part of the husband for three years to provide for his wife the necessaries of life suitable to her condition.

No divorce from the bonds of matrimony shall be decreed by the court when the cause assigned therefor in the petition occurred out of this state and the petitioner was a non-resident thereof at the time of its occurrence, unless for the same or like cause such divorce would be allowed by the laws of the state or country in which it is alleged to have occurred.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

(District Code, January 1, 1902.)

A divorce from the bonds of marriage may be granted only where one of the parties has committed adultery during the marriage: Provided, That in such case the innocent party only may remarry, but nothing herein contained shall prevent the remarriage of the divorced parties to each other: And Provided, That legal separation from bed and board may be granted for drunkenness, cruelty or desertion: And Provided, That marriage contracts may be declared void in the following cases:

(1) Where such marriage was contracted while either of the parties thereto had a former wife or husband living, unless the former marriage had been lawfully dissolved.

(2) Where such marriage was contracted during the lunacy of either party (unless there had been voluntary cohabitation after the lunacy) or was procured by fraud or coercion.

(3) Where either party was matrimonially incapacited at the time of marriage and has continued so.

(4) Where either of the parties had not arrived at the age of legal consent to the contract of marriage (unless there has been voluntary cohabitation after coming to legal age) but in such cases only at the suit of the party not capable of consenting.

No decree of nullity of marriage or divorce shall be rendered in favor of any one not a resident of the District of Columbia, and no divorce shall be decreed in favor of any person who has not been a bona fide resident of said District for at least three years next before the application therefor for any cause which shall have occurred out of said District and prior to residence therein.

FLORIDA.

(Revised Statutes of 1891 as amended May, 19, 1899, and April 25, 1901, in force January 1, 1904.)

An absolute divorce may be granted where the parties are within the degrees of relationship prohibited by law, where either party is naturally impotent, for adultery in either of the parties, or extreme cruelty, habitual indulgence in violent and ungovernable temper, habitual intemperance, willful, obstinate desertion for the term of one year, when either party has obtained a divorce in any other state or country, when either party had a husband or wife living at the time of the marriage sought to be annulled, or for incurable insanity of either party if condition exists for four years prior to filing of the bill and the defendant has been declared insane and confined in an insane asylum or similar retreat, either in or out of the state, for four years.

In order to obtain a divorce the complainant must have resided two years in the state of Florida before filing a bill, except where the defendant has been guilty of the act of adultery in this state, then any citizen of this state may claim a divorce at any time, and the two years' residence will not be required of such complainant.

GEORGIA.

(Code of 1895, in force January 1, 1904.)

Causes for an absolute divorce are:

(1) Intermarriage by persons within the prohibited degrees of consanguinity and affinity.

(2) Mental incapacity at the time of marriage.

(3) Impotence at the time of marriage.

(4) Where force, menaces, duress or fraud were used in obtaining marriage.

(5) Pregnancy of the wife at the time of the marriage unknown to her husband.

(6) Adultery in either of the parties after marriage.

(7) Willful and continued desertion by either of the parties for the term of three years.

(8) The conviction of either party of an offense involving moral turpitude, and under which he or she is sentenced to imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term of two years, or longer.

No court in this state shall grant divorce of any character to any person or persons who has not been a bona fide resident of the state twelve months before the filing of said application for divorce.

IDAHO.

(Civil Code 1901, in force January 1, 1904.)

Absolute divorce may be granted for:

(1) Adultery.

(2) Extreme cruelty.

(3) Willful desertion.

(4) Willful neglect (to furnish necessities).

(5) Habitual intemperance.

(6) Conviction of felony.

(7) Permanent insanity.

A divorce cannot be granted unless the plaintiff has been a resident of the state for six months next preceeding the commencement of the action.

ILLINOIS.

(Hurd's Statutes, Chapter 40, 1903.)

In every case in which a marriage has been, or hereafter may be contracted and solemnized between two persons, and it shall be adjudged, in the manner hereinafter provided, that either party at the time of such marriage was, and continues to be, naturally impotent; or that he or she had a wife or husband living at the time of such marriage; or that either party has committed adultery subsequently to the marriage; or has willfully deserted or absented himself or herself from the husband or wife, without any reasonable cause, for the space of two years; or has been guilty of habitual drunkenness for the space of two years; or has attempted the life of the other by poison or other means showing malice; or has been guilty of extreme and repeated cruelty; or has been convicted of felony or other infamous crime, it shall be lawful for the injured party to obtain a divorce and dissolution of such marriage contract.

No person shall be entitled to a divorce in pursuance of the provisions of this act, who has not resided in the state one whole year next before filing his or her bill of petition, unless the offense or injury complained of was committed within this state, or whilst one or both of the parties resided in this state.

INDIANA.

(Code of 1901, in force January 1, 1904.)

Absolute divorce may be granted for adultery, impotency existing at the time of the marriage, abandonment for two years, cruel or inhuman treatment to either party by the other, habitual drunkenness, the failure of the husband to make reasonable provision for his family for a period of two years, or the conviction subsequent to the marriage in any country, of an infamous crime.

Divorce may be decreed by the superior and circuit courts of this state on petition filed by any person who, at the time of the filing of such petition, is and shall have been a bona fide resident of the state for the last two years previous to the filing of the same, and a bona fide resident of the county at the time of and for at least six months immediately preceding the filing of such petition; which bona fide residence shall be duly proven by such petitioner to the satisfaction of the court trying the same, by at least two witnesses who are resident freeholders and householders of the state. And the plaintiff shall, with his petition file with the clerk of the court an affidavit subscribed and sworn to by himself, in which he shall state the length of time he has been a resident of the state, and stating particularly the place, town, city or township in which he has resided for the last two years past, and stating his occupation, which shall be sworn to before the clerk of the court in which said complaint is filed.

INDIAN TERRITORY.

(Statutes 1899, in force January 1, 1904.)

1844. The Circuit Court shall have power to dissolve and set aside a marriage contract not only from bed and board, but from the bonds of matrimony for the following causes:

(1) Either party impotent at time of marriage.

(2) Willful desertion without reasonable cause for space of one year.

(3) Either party having former wife or husband living at the time of the marriage sought to be set aside.

(4) Either party convicted of felony or other infamous crime.

(5) Habitual drunkenness for the space of one year, cruel treatment endangering life of the other, or shall offer such indignities to the person of the other as shall render his or her condition intolerable.

(6) Adultery subsequent to marriage.

(7) Permanent or incurable insanity subsequent to marriage.

1850. Plaintiff to obtain a divorce must allege and prove in addition to legal cause of divorce:

(1) Residence in the territory for one year next before the commencement of the action.

(2) That the cause of divorce occurred or existed in this territory, or, if out of the territory, either that it was a legal cause of divorce in the state or territory where it occurred or existed, or that the plaintiff's residence was then in this territory.

(3) That the cause of divorce occurred or existed within five years next before the commencement of the suit.

IOWA.

(Annotated Code 1897, in force January 1, 1904.)

Absolute divorce may be granted:

(1) Against the husband when he has committed adultery subsequent to the marriage.

(2) When he willfully deserts his wife and absents himself without a reasonable cause for the space of two years.

(3) When he is convicted of felony after the marriage.

(4) When, after marriage, he becomes addicted to habitual drunkenness.

(5) When he is guilty of such inhuman treatment as to endanger the life of his wife.

(6) Against the wife for the causes above specified, and also when the wife, at the time of the marriage, was pregnant by another than her husband, unless the husband have an illegitimate child or children then living, which was unknown to the wife at the time of their marriage.

Except where the defendant is a resident of this state, served by personal service, the petition for divorce, in addition to the facts on account of which the plaintiff claims the relief sought, must state that the plaintiff has been for the last year a resident of the state, specifying the town and county in which he has so resided, and the entire length of his residence therein, after deducting all absences from the state; that he is now a resident thereof; that such residence has been in good faith and not for the purpose of obtaining divorce only.

KANSAS.

(General Statutes 1901, in force January 1, 1904.)

Absolute divorce may be granted for the following causes:

(1) When either of the parties had a former husband or wife living at the time of the subsequent marriage.

(2) Abandonment for one year.

(3) Adultery.

(4) Impotency.

(5) When the wife, at the time of the marriage, was pregnant by another than her husband.

(6) Extreme cruelty.

(7) Fraudulent contract.

(8) Habitual drunkenness.

(9) Gross neglect of duty.

(10) The conviction of felony and imprisonment in the penitentiary therefor subsequent to the marriage.

The plaintiff in an action for divorce must have been an actual resident, in good faith, of the state, for one year next preceding the filing of the petition, and a resident of the county in which the action is brought at the time the petition is filed.

KENTUCKY.

(General Statutes 1899, in force January 1, 1904.)

Absolute divorce may be granted to both husband and wife for the following causes:

(1) Such impotency or malformation as prevents sexual intercourse.

(2) Living apart without any cohabitation for five consecutive years next before the application.

Also the party not in fault for the following causes:

(1) Abandonment of one party by the other for one year.

(2) Living in adultery with another man or woman.

(3) Conviction of felony, in or out of this state.

(4) Concealment from the other party of any loathsome disease existing at the time of marriage or contracting such disease afterwards.

(5) Force, duress, or fraud in obtaining the marriage.

(6) Uniting with any religious society whose creed and rules require a renunciation of the marriage covenants, or forbid husband and wife from cohabiting.

Also to the wife, when not in like fault, for the following causes:

(1) Confirmed habit of drunkenness on the part of the husband of not less than one year's duration, accompanied with a wasting of his estate, and without any suitable provisions for the maintenance of his wife or children.

(2) Habitually behaving towards her by the husband, for not less than six months, in such cruel and inhuman manner as to indicate a settled aversion to her, or to destroy permanently her peace or happiness.

(3) Such cruel beating or injury or attempt at injury, of the wife by the husband as indicates an outrageous temper in him, or probable danger to her life, or great bodily injury from her remaining with him.

Also to the husband for the following causes:

(1) Where the wife is pregnant by another man without the husband's knowledge at the time of marriage.

(2) When not in like fault, for habitual drunkenness on the part of the wife of not less than one year's duration.

(3) Adultery by the wife, or such lewd, lascivious behavior on her part as proves her to be unchaste, without actual proof of an act of adultery.

Judgment for separation, or divorce from bed and board may also be rendered for any of the causes which allow divorce, or for such other cause as the court in its discretion may deem sufficient.

Action for divorce must be brought in the county where the wife usually resides, if she has an actual residence in the state; if not, then in the county of the husband's residence; and no such action shall be brought by one who has not been a continuous resident of this state for a year next before its institution; nor unless the party complaining had an actual residence here at the time of the doing of the act complained of, shall a divorce be granted for anything done out of the state unless it was also a cause for divorce by the law of the country where the act was done.

LOUISIANA.

(Laws of 1897, in force January 1, 1904.)

1190. No divorce shall be granted unless for the following causes: The husband and wife may reciprocally claim a divorce in case of adultery on the part of the other. Married persons may reciprocally claim a separation and divorce, on account of habitual intemperance, excess, cruel treatment or outrages of one of them toward the other, if such habitual intemperance or such ill treatment is of such a nature as to render their living together insupportable.

The condemnation of one of the married persons to an ignominious punishment shall be for the other sufficient cause of divorce. A divorce may be equally claimed on the part of the husband and wife, when either shall abandon the other for the space of five years, and when he or she shall have been summoned to return to the common dwelling, as is now provided for in cases of separation from bed and board, within one year prior to the application for such divorce.

Whenever the husband or wife has been charged with an infamous offense, and shall actually have fled from justice, the husband or wife of such fugitive may claim a divorce, on the producing proofs to the judge before whom the action for divorce is brought, that his or her husband or wife, has actually been guilty of such infamous offense and has fled from justice, and in such case it shall not be necessary to obtain a separation from bed and board.

When the defendant is absent, or incapable of acting, from any cause, an attorney shall be appointed to represent him, against whom contradictorily the suit shall be prosecuted.

MAINE.

(Act of 1893, in force January 1, 1904.)

A divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed by the supreme judicial court in the county where either party resides at the commencement of proceedings, for causes of adultery, impotence, extreme cruelty, utter desertion, continued three consecutive years next prior to the filing of the libel, gross and confirmed habits of intoxication, cruel and abusive treatment, or on the libel of the wife, where the husband, being of sufficient ability, or being able to labor and provide for her, grossly or wantonly and cruelly refuses or neglects to provide suitable maintenance for her, provided, that the parties were married in this state, or cohabited here after marriage; or if the libellant resided here when the cause of divorce accrued, or had resided here in good faith for one year prior to the commencement of proceedings. But when both parties have been guilty of adultery, or there is collusion between them to procure a divorce, it shall not be granted. Either party may be a witness.

MARYLAND.

(General Statutes 1903.)

Absolute divorce may be granted for:

(1) The impotence of either party at the time of the marriage.

(2) Any cause which by the laws of this state renders a marriage null and void ab initio.

(3) Adultery.

(4) When the court shall be satisfied by competent testimony that the party complained against has abandoned the party complaining and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least three years, and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation.

(5) When a woman before marriage has been guilty of illicit carnal intercourse with another man, the same being unknown to the husband at the time of the marriage, and when such carnal connection shall be proved to the satisfaction of the court.

Limited divorce may be granted for:

(1) Cruelty of treatment.

(2) Excessively vicious conduct.

(3) Abandonment and desertion.

Limited divorce may be decreed in a case where absolute divorce is prayed, if the causes proved be sufficient to entitle the party to the same.

The courts of equity of this state shall have jurisdiction of all applications for divorce; and any person desiring a divorce shall file his or her bill in the court, either where the party plaintiff or defendant resides, or if the party against whom the bill is filed be a non-resident, then such bill may be filed in the court where the plaintiff resides.

No person shall be entitled to make application for a divorce where the causes for divorce occurred out of this state, unless the party plaintiff or defendant shall have resided within this state for two years next preceding such application.

MASSACHUSETTS.

(Laws of 1902, in force January 1, 1904.)

A divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed for adultery, impotency, utter desertion continued for three consecutive years next prior to the filing of the libel, gross and confirmed habits of intoxication caused by the voluntary and excessive use of intoxicating liquor, opium or other drugs, cruel and abusive treatment or, on the libel of the wife, if the husband being of sufficient ability, grossly or wantonly and cruelly refuses or neglects to provide suitable maintenance for her.

The law also provides for divorce where either party has been confined at hard labor for period of five years, and after divorce for such cause no pardon granted shall restore such party to his or her conjugal rights.

Except as provided in the following section, no divorce shall be decreed if the parties have never lived together as husband and wife in the commonwealth; nor shall a divorce be decreed for a cause occurring in another state or country, unless before such cause occurred the parties had lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth, and one of them lived in the commonwealth at the time when the cause occurred.

If the libelant has resided in the commonwealth for five years next preceding the filing of the libel, or, if the parties were inhabitants of the commonwealth at the time of the marriage, when the libelant has been such an inhabitant for three years, next preceding such filing, a divorce may be decreed for any cause allowed by law, whether it occurred in the commonwealth or elsewhere, unless it appears that the libelant has removed into the commonwealth for the purpose of obtaining a divorce.

MICHIGAN.

(Laws of 1897, in force January 1, 1904.)

Absolute divorce may be granted for the following causes:

(1) Adultery.

(2) Physical incompetence at marriage.

(3) Imprisonment in prison, jail, or house of correction for three years or more; and no pardon granted to the party so sentenced after a divorce for such cause, shall restore such party to his or her conjugal rights.

(4) Desertion for two years.

(5) Habitual drunkenness.

(6) Circuit Courts may, in their discretion, divorce from the bonds of matrimony any party who is a resident of this state and whose husband or wife shall have obtained a divorce in any other state.

Divorce from bed and board forever, or for a limited time, may be granted for:

(1) Extreme cruelty.

(2) Utter desertion for two years.

(3) Failure on part of husband to support wife.

Same may be cause for absolute divorce in the discretion of the court.

PENNSYLVANIA.

(Brightley's Purdon's Statutes 1894 and amendments, in force January 1, 1904.)

(1) When a marriage hath been heretofore or shall hereafter be contracted and celebrated between any two persons and it shall be judged in the manner hereinafter mentioned, that either party, at the time of the contract, was and still is naturally impotent or incapable of procreation; or that he or she hath knowingly entered into a second marriage in violation of the previous vow he or she made to the former wife or husband, whose marriage is still subsisting: or that either party shall have committed adultery, or willful desertion and absence from the habitation of the other, without a reasonable cause, for and during the term and space of two years, or when any husband shall by cruel and barbarous treatment have endangered his wife's life, or offered such indignities to her person as to render her condition intolerable, and life burdensome, and thereby force her to withdraw from his house and family, in every such case, it shall and may be lawful for the innocent and injured person to obtain a divorce from the bonds of matrimony.

(3) No person shall be entitled to a divorce from the bonds of matrimony, by virtue of this act, who is not a citizen of this state, and who shall not have resided therein at least one whole year previous to the filing of his or her petition or libel.

(7) In addition to the cases now provided for by law, it shall be lawful for the courts of common pleas of this commonwealth to grant divorces in the following cases:

I. Where the alleged marriage was procured by fraud, force or coercion, and has not been subsequently confirmed by the acts of the injured party.

II. (As amended March 9, 1903.) When either of the parties shall hereafter, either within or without this state, be convicted as principal, or as accessory either before or after the fact, of the crime of arson, burglary, embezzlement, forgery, kidnapping, larceny, murder, either in the first or second degrees, voluntary manslaughter, perjury, rape, robbery, sodomy, buggery, treason, or misprison of treason, and be sentenced by a competent court, having jurisdiction, to imprisonment for any term exceeding two years: Provided, That such application for a divorce be made by the husband or wife of the party so convicted and sentenced.

III. (As amended June 25, 1895.) Where a wife shall have, by cruel and barbarous treatment or indignities to his person, rendered the condition of her husband intolerable, or life burdensome: Provided, That in case of divorce under this act if the application shall be made on the part of the husband, the court granting such divorce may allow such support or alimony to the wife, as her husband's circumstances may admit of and as said court may deem just and proper.

(31) If any husband shall maliciously either abandon his family or turn his wife out of doors, or by cruel and barbarous treatment endanger her life, or offer such indignities to her person as to render her condition intolerable, or life burdensome and thereby force her to withdraw from his house and family, it shall be lawful to grant the wife a divorce from bed and board.

(34) Adultery may also be a ground of limited divorce.

RHODE ISLAND.

(Public Statutes 1896, in force January 1, 1904.)

Absolute divorce may be granted:

(1) In case of any marriage originally void or voidable by law.

(2) Where either party is for crime deemed to be, or treated as if civilly dead.

(3) Where either party, from absence or other circumstances, may be presumed to be naturally dead.

(4) Impotency.

(5) Adultery.

(6) Extreme cruelty.

(7) Willful desertion for five years of either of the parties or for such desertion for a shorter period of time, in the discretion of the court.

(8) Continued drunkenness.

(9) Habitual, excessive, and intemperate use of opium, morphine or chloral.

(10) Neglect or refusal on the part of the husband, being of sufficient ability, to provide necessaries for the subsistence of his wife.

(11) Any other gross misbehavior and wickedness in either of the parties repugnant to and in violation of the marriage covenant.

(12) Whenever in the trial of any petition for divorce from the bond of marriage, or from bed and board and future cohabitation, it shall appear that the parties have lived separate and apart from each other for the space of at least ten years, the court, on motion of either party, may enter a decree divorcing both parties from the bond of marriage, and may make provision for alimony.

No petition for divorce shall be granted unless the petitioner shall, at the time of preferring such petition, be a domiciled inhabitant of this state and have resided therein for the period of one year next before the preferring of such petition.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

(Laws of 1901, in force January 1, 1904.)

3470. Divorce may be granted for any of the following causes:

(1) Adultery.

(2) Extreme cruelty.

(3) Willful desertion.

(4) Willful neglect.

(5) Habitual intemperance.

(6) Conviction of felony.

3489. A divorce must not be granted unless the plaintiff in good faith has been a bona fide resident of the state of South Dakota for at least six months next preceding the commencement of the action and in no case shall a divorce be granted without personal service of the summons within this state, or personal service of the summons and order of publication in case of a non-resident defendant until the plaintiff shall have been a bona fide resident of this state for one year next preceding the granting of such divorce.

TENNESSEE.

(Code of 1896, in force January 1, 1904.)

Absolute divorce may be granted for the following causes:

(1) That either party, at the time of the contract, was, and still is, naturally impotent and incapable of procreation.

(2) That either party has knowingly entered into a second marriage, in violation of the previous marriage still subsisting.

(3) That either party has committed adultery.

(4) Willful or malicious desertion, or absence of either party without a reasonable cause for two whole years.

(5) Being convicted of any crime which, by the laws of the state, renders the party infamous.

(6) Being convicted of a crime which by the laws of this state is declared to be a felony and sentenced to confinement in the penitentiary.

(7) When either party has attempted the life of the other, by poison or any other means showing malice.

(8) Refusal on the part of the wife to remove with her husband to this state without a reasonable cause, and willfully absenting herself from him for two years.

(9) When a woman was pregnant at the time of her marriage by another person, without the knowledge of the husband.

(10) Habitual drunkenness of either party, when the husband or wife has contracted the habit of drunkenness after marriage.

Limited divorce may be granted.

To the wife only:

(1) When the husband is guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment or such conduct towards his wife as renders it unsafe and improper for her to cohabit with him and be under his dominion and control.

(2) When he has offered such indignities to her person as to render her condition intolerable and thereby forced her to withdraw.

(3) When he has abandoned her or turned her out of doors and refused or neglected to provide for her.

A divorce may be granted for any of the aforesaid causes, though the acts complained of were committed out of the state, or the petitioner resided out of the state at the time, no matter where the other party resides, if the petitioner has resided in this state two years next preceding the filing of the petition.

TEXAS.

(Batt's Civil Statutes 1895, in force January 1, 1904.)

Absolute divorce may be granted:

(1) When either the husband or wife is guilty of excesses, cruel treatment or outrages toward the other, if such ill treatment is of such a nature as to render their living together insupportable.

(2) In favor of the husband where his wife shall have been taken in adultery, or, where she shall have voluntary left his bed and board for the space of three years with the intent of abandonment.

(3) In favor of the wife where the husband shall have left her for three years with the intention of abandonment, or, where he shall have abandoned her, and lived in adultery with another woman.

(4) In favor of either husband or wife, when the other shall have been convicted after marriage of a felony and imprisoned in the state prison provided that no suit for divorce shall be sustained because of the conviction of either party for felony until twelve months after final judgment of conviction nor then if the governor shall have pardoned the convict: Provided, That the husband has not been convicted on the testimony of the wife, nor the wife on the testimony of the husband.

There is no limited divorce in Texas.

No suit for divorce from the bonds of matrimony shall be maintained in the courts, unless the petitioner for such divorce shall, at the time of exhibiting his or her petition, be an actual bona fide inhabitant of the state, and shall have resided in the county where the suit is filed six months next preceding the filing of the suit.

UTAH.

(Act of March 9, 1903.)

Absolute divorce may be granted for:

(1) Impotency of the defendant at the time of marriage.

(2) Adultery committed by the defendant subsequent to marriage.

(3) Willful desertion of the plaintiff by the defendant for more than one year.

(4) Willful neglect of the defendant to provide for his wife the common necessaries of life.

(5) Habitual drunkenness of the defendant.

(6) Conviction of the defendant for felony.

(7) Cruel treatment of the plaintiff by the defendant to the extent of causing great bodily injury or great mental distress to the plaintiff.

(8) Permanent insanity of defendant.

There is no limited divorce in Utah.

Proceedings in divorce shall be commenced and conducted in the manner provided by law for proceedings in civil cases, except as hereinafter provided, and the court may decree a dissolution of the marriage contract between the plaintiff and defendant in all cases wherein the plaintiff, for one year next prior to the commencement of the proceedings, shall have been an actual and bona fide resident of the county within the jurisdiction of the court for any of the above causes.

VERMONT.

(Revised Laws in force January 1, 1904.)

Absolute and limited divorce may be granted at the discretion of the court:

(1) For adultery in either party.

(2) When either party is sentenced to confinement to hard labor in the state prison for life, or for three or more years, and is actually confined at the time. And no pardon granted to the party so sentenced shall restore such party to his or her conjugal rights.

(3) For intolerable severity in either party.

(4) For willful desertion for three consecutive years, when either party has been absent for seven years, and not heard of during that time.

(5) On petition of the wife when a husband, being of a sufficient pecuniary ability to provide suitable maintenance for her, without cause, grossly or wantonly and cruelly refuses or neglects so to do.

No divorce shall be decreed for any cause, unless the libelant has resided in the state one year next preceding the filing of the libel in court.

VIRGINIA.

(Laws in force January 1, 1904.)

Absolute divorce may be granted for:

(1) Adultery.

(2) Natural and incurable impotency of body existing at the time of entering into the matrimonial contract.

(3) Where either of the parties is sentenced to confinement in the penitentiary. And no pardon granted to the party so sentenced shall restore such party to his or her conjugal rights.

(4) Where prior to the marriage either party, without the knowledge of the other, has been convicted of an infamous offense.

(5) Where either party charged with an offense punishable with death or confinement in the penitentiary has been indicted, is a fugitive from justice, and has been absent for two years.

(6) Where either party willfully deserts or abandons the other for three years.

(7) To the husband where, at the marriage, the wife, without the knowledge of the husband, was with child by some person other than the husband; or, prior to such marriage, had been, without the knowledge of the husband, a prostitute.

Limited divorce may be granted for:

(1) Cruelty.

(2) Reasonable apprehension of bodily hurt.

(3) Abandonment or desertion. When a divorce from bed and board has been decreed for this cause and five years have elapsed since abandonment or desertion without reconciliation, the court may, on application of the injured party, decree a divorce from the bonds of matrimony.

The circuit and corporation courts, on the chancery side thereof, shall have jurisdiction of suits for annulling or affirming marriages and for divorces. No suit for annulling a marriage or for divorce shall be maintainable unless one of the parties has been domiciled in this state for at least one year preceding the commencement of the suit; nor shall any suit for affirming a marriage be maintainable unless one of the parties be domiciled in this state at the time of bringing such suit. The suit, in either case, shall be brought in the county or corporation in which the parties last cohabited, or (at the option of the plaintiff) in the county or corporation in which the defendant resides, if a resident of this state, and if not a resident, in the county or corporation in which the plaintiff resides.

WASHINGTON.

(Pierce's Code 1902, in force January 1, 1904.)

Absolute divorce may be granted:

(1) When the consent to the marriage of the party applying for the divorce was obtained by force or fraud, and there has been no subsequent voluntary cohabitation.

(2) For adultery on the part of the wife or of the husband when unforgiven, and application is made within one year after it shall come to his or her knowledge.

(3) Impotency.

(4) Abandonment.

(5) Cruel treatment of either party by the other or, personal iniquities rendering life burdensome.

(6) Habitual drunkenness of either party, neglect or refusal of the husband to make suitable provisions for his family.

(7) The imprisonment of either party in the penitentiary, if complaint is filed during the term of such imprisonment. Any other cause deemed by the court sufficient and when the court shall be satisfied that the parties can no longer live together.

(8) In case of incurable chronic mania or dementia of either party, having existed for ten years or more, the court may, in its discretion grant a divorce.

There is no limited divorce in Washington.

Parties can not marry again within the time for appeal.

Any person who has been a resident of the state for one year may file his or her complaint for a divorce or decree of nullity of marriage under oath in the superior court of the county where he or she may reside, and like proceedings shall be had thereon as in civil cases.

WEST VIRGINIA.

(Code of 1899, in force January 1, 1904.)

Absolute divorce may be granted for:

(1) Adultery.

(2) Natural or incurable impotency of body, existing at the time of entering into the matrimonial contract.

(3) Where either of the parties is sentenced to confinement in the penitentiary; and no pardon granted to the person so sentenced shall restore such party to his or her conjugal rights.

(4) Where prior to marriage, either party, without the knowledge of the other, had been convicted of an infamous offense.

(5) Where either party willfully abandons or deserts the other for three years.

(6) Where at the time of the marriage the wife, without the knowledge of the husband was enceinte by some person other than the husband; or,

(7) Where the wife, prior to the marriage, had been, without the knowledge of the husband, notoriously a prostitute; or,

(8) Where the husband, prior to such marriage had been, without the knowledge of the wife, a notoriously licentious person.

Limited divorce may be granted for:

(1) Cruel or inhuman treatment.

(2) Reasonable apprehension of bodily hurt.

(3) Abandonment.

(4) Desertion.

(5) Where either party after marriage becomes an habitual drunkard.

The circuit court, on the chancery side thereof, shall have jurisdiction of suits for annulling or affirming marriages, or for divorce. No such suit shall be maintainable unless the parties, or one of them, shall have resided in the state one year next preceding the time of bringing such suit. The suit shall be brought in the county in which the parties last cohabited, or at the option of the plaintiff, in the county in which the defendant resides, if a resident of this state; but if not, then in the county in which the plaintiff resides.

WISCONSIN.

(Revised Statutes of 1898, in force January 1, 1904.)

Absolute divorce may be granted:

(1) When either party shall be sentenced to imprisonment for life, the marriage shall be thereby absolutely dissolved, without any judgment of divorce or other legal process; and no pardon granted to the party so sentenced shall restore such party to his or her conjugal rights.

A divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be adjudged for either of the following causes:

(1) Adultery.

(2) Impotency.

(3) When either party subsequent to the marriage has been sentenced to imprisonment for three years or more; and no pardon granted after divorce for this cause shall restore the party sentenced to his or her conjugal rights.

(4) The willful desertion of one party by the other for the term of one year next preceding the commencement of the action.

(5) When the treatment of either party by the other has been cruel and inhuman, whether practiced by using personal violence or by any other means; or, when the wife shall be guilty of like cruelty to her husband or be given to intoxication.

(6) Where the husband or wife shall have been an habitual drunkard for the space of one year immediately preceding the commencement of the action.

(7) Whenever the husband and wife shall have voluntarily lived entirely separate for the space of five years next preceding the commencement of the action, a divorce may be granted at the suit of either party.

A divorce from bed and board forever, or for a limited time, may be adjudged:

(1) For the fourth, fifth and sixth causes above specified.

(2) For extreme cruelty of either party.

(3) On the complaint of the wife, when the husband being of sufficient ability, shall refuse or neglect to provide for her, or when his conduct toward her is such as may render it unsafe and improper for her to live with him.

No divorce shall be granted unless the plaintiff shall have resided in this state one year immediately preceding the time of the commencement of the action, except for adultery alleged to have been committed while the plaintiff was a resident of this state, or unless the marriage was solemnized in this state and the plaintiff shall have resided therein from the time of such marriage to the time of the commencement of the action; or unless the action be brought by the wife and the husband shall have resided in this state for one year next preceding the commencement thereof.

WYOMING.

(Revised Statutes 1899, in force January 1, 1904.)

Absolute divorce may be granted:

(1) When adultery has been committed by any husband or wife.

(2) When one of the parties was physically incompetent at the time of the marriage, and the same has continued to the time of the divorce.

(3) When one of the parties has been convicted of a felony and sentenced to imprisonment therefor in any prison, and no pardon granted after divorce for this cause shall restore the party sentenced to his or her conjugal rights.

(4) When either party has willfully deserted the other for the term of one year.

(5) When the husband or wife shall have become an habitual drunkard.

(6) When one of the parties has been guilty of extreme cruelty to the other.

(7) When the husband for the period of one year has neglected to provide the common necessaries of life, when such neglect is not the result of poverty on the part of the husband, which he could not avoid by ordinary industry.

(8) When either party shall offer such indignities to the other as shall render his or her condition intolerable.

(9) When the husband shall be guilty of such conduct as to constitute him a vagrant within the meaning of the law respecting vagrancy.

(10) When, prior to the marriage, either party shall have been convicted of a felony or infamous crime in any state, territory or country without the knowledge on the part of the other party of such fact at the time of such marriage.

(11) When the intended wife, at the time of contracting marriage, or at the time of the solemnization thereof, shall have been pregnant by any other man than her husband and without his knowledge at the time of such solemnization.

There is no limited divorce in Wyoming.

No divorce shall be granted unless the plaintiff shall have resided in this state for one year immediately preceding the time of filing the petition, or unless the marriage was solemnized in this state, and the applicant shall have resided therein from the time of the marriage to the time of filing the petition.
